Service U.P. Memorial To Be On Sunday

The historic Service United Presbyterian Church in Raccoon Township will honor the memory of members of the nation's armed services at its traditional Memorial Day service Sunday at 2:30 p.m.

Following the service, the congregation will assemble at the John Anderson Memorial Cemetery for ceremonies at the memorial tablet bearing the names of the sons of the church who wore the country's uniform.

A wreath will be placed by Rollo Doughty and the flag will be lowered to half mast. Mrs. Daisy Belich, women's group president, will place a wreath at the granite shaft marking the grave of Dr. John Anderson, first pastor of the church, which was founded in 1794.

The cemetery contains the graves of 48 veterans of five wars from the Revolution to World War II. Each year these graves are marked and decorated with flags and flowers by the Aliquippa Memorial Day Association, of which Russell Smith is chairman.

The Rev. J. Daryl Davis of the Mt. Pleasant United Presbyterian Church will be the speaker, assisted by Dr. George Swetnam, pastor.

Music will be presented by Mrs. Jean Caler, soloist, and the Service Youth Choir under the direction of Mrs. Doughty, organist.

Honor guard will be Daniel Wynkoop for the Navy and Pfc. Paul Rogish, now stationed at Ft. Lee, Va. Sounding of taps will conclude the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Torrence of Raccoon Township are co-chairmen.

Confident Living

By Norman Vincent Peale

A Few People Can Change The World

A young woman felt deeply concerned about the state of the world today. The suburban community where she resided had fine houses and beautiful streets. She was happily married, well fixed financially, a popular member of the country club set and much admired for her fine game of golf. She was, you might say, on easy street.

DR. PEALE

But from her reading she was well aware that much was wrong with the world. Moreover, she had become increasingly uneasy about various goings-on right there in her own community, things that hardly would bear the light of day. She began thinking hard, which is a good thing to do, although quite unusual. And after much thinking she did something.

SHE DID NOT write a letter to her congressman. She did not go to the Women's Club and propose a resolution. She did something much more dynamic. She had a talk with her next door neighbor.

She said, "Mary, I know you are worried about the way things are in the world these days, same as I am. I feel we ought to do something about it. I've hesitated to suggest this, because you may think I'm being foolish and give me the laugh. But what do you say to our getting together once a month to pray for the world?"

Mary looked at her, startled and serious, taking the idea in. Then she answered, "Let's make it once a week."

So these two fashionable young women met regularly and prayed about the world. Soon they thought of others who might like to join them. Gradually they brought in Genevieve, Helen, Virginia, Frieda, Marguerite. Before long they had quite a prayer group.

Then one day after their prayers for the world one girl said, "I wonder if I can bring up something personal. As some of you know, there has been trouble between Jim and me." And she asked if there could be a moment of prayer for her and her husband. By this time praying together had brought these women into an atmosphere of mutual trust, respect and love.

The group prayed for the troubled couple and continued doing so until the rift in their marriage was healed. From then on they shared in prayer the personal problems of others in the group.

THEN SOME of the husbands joined the circle. And little by little the influence of this small dedicated fellowship permeated the whole community. A second prayer group formed, and a third. A new spiritual force had come into being, radiating in all directions.

The young matron who started all this demonstrates what I call the "Here am I — send me" kind of faith response. The expression is from the Book of Isaiah, which relates:

"In the year that King Uzziah died, I saw also the Lord sitting upon a throne, high and lifted up, and his train filled the temple. Above it stood the seraphims. And one cried unto another, and said, 'Holy, holy, holy, is the Lord of hosts: the whole earth is full of His glory.' "

So great was the impact of this vision that Isaiah had an overwhelming sense of his own unworthiness. He cried out, "Woe is me! for I am undone; because I am a man of unclean lips, and I dwell in the midst of a people of unclean lips...." But one of the seraphims took a live coal from the altar and touched it to the prophet's lips as a sign of spiritual cleansing.

The Isaiah heard the voice of the Lord saying, "Whom shall I send, and who will go for us?"

AND ISAIAH who had this vision and had been cleansed gave an answer worthy of a true child of God. He did not suggest that the Lord organize a convention and elect committees to issue pronouncements! He said simply: "Here am I. Send me."

The world today is much in need of men and women who will personally do something about wrong conditions.

These crises times call for people who will respond to challenges with a positive "Here am I — send me" and then wade in. Such people can bring about big changes in local situations. And that is not all. They thereby set in motion forces that make for corresponding changes in the world at large. It's still true that a few dedicated people can change the world.

Grace Church To Be Host For Memorial Sunday

The city's Memorial Sunday observances will be held tomorrow at the 11 a. m. services at the Grace United Presbyterian Church in East End.

Attending will be members of the American Legion Post 374 and Post 4 and auxiliaries, Ladies of the GAR, Daughters of America, Gold Star Mothers Chapter and Marine Corps, Army, Navy and Air Force representatives.

All except the gold star mothers will march. They will meet in front of the church.

The participants will assemble at Mulberry St. and Pennsylvania Ave. and parade to the church, led by the Salvation Army band.

The Rev. Edward J. Phinn, pastor and a wartime chaplain, will preach on the topic, "Supreme Sacrifice."

Rev. Phinn, who holds the rank of captain, served during World War II as an active combat chaplain for the 4th Canadian Anti-Tank Field Artillery with duty in France, Belgium and Germany. At the conclusion of the war, he remained for a year in Holland, serving as dean and instructor of the first Rehabilitation School set up on the continent for Canadian personnel. At one time, he was the only remaining chaplain on the field for 3,000 personnel of the Army.

Renewal Of Faith Termed Vital For America's Future

Unless there's a renewal of faith in God, the 20th Century may end on the story of America "as another experiment in freedom that failed because true freedom begins with faith in a supreme being," the Lions Club was warned Friday.

Addressing club members and their wives at the Travelers Hotel on "The Anatomy of Freedom," Frank L. Maus, director of management development of the Weirton Steel Co., declared:

"Freedom always has been and always will be based upon self-discipline imposed from within; and the power to impose the kind of self-discipline that produces and preserves freedom always has come and always will come from a source that is divine.

"The capacity to understand freedom and the courage to rise up in defense of freedom requires faith in God. The communists know this; that's why they try to destroy those institutions that preach faith in God.

"And if the communists understand the relationship between freedom and faith in God, why don't we?

Because there are few saints, Maus said the major problem is not to keep government from reducing the area of freedom in any degree but rather to keep the government from reducing freedom any more than is necessary to protect a citizen from damage by another citizen, by an outsider or by the agents of government itself."

Maus continued: "Freedom does not consist of compliance, willing or unwilling, with a set of man-made laws under the penalty of a fine or jail term; nor does it consist of having the 'gimmies' nor some so-called expert's idea of what constitutes a minimum standard of living.

"Freedom consists of a high sense of self-responsibility out of which comes self-generated compliance with a set of divine laws powered by a belief in the possibility of life eternal. It is the trust in God and not the Constitution that is the real warranty of freedom.

Maus was introduced by Clarence Wright, program chairman. Charles Herman, president, presided.

Dr. William Sulkes, co-chairman of the Installation Night dinner June 8 at the Country Club, reminded members reservations must be made by Friday.

Old Folks Back Medicare Plan Without Tax Money

WASHINGTON (AP) — An administration official said today an organization of old folks battling for enactment of President Kennedy's Social Security medical care plan is doing so without a cent of tax money.

The group is the National Council of Senior Citizens for Health Care through Social Security, a key force in the drive for the Kennedy program.

Council delegates wind up a two-day organizational convention today with a visit to the President and adoption of a constitution aimed at creating a permanent organization to work toward solution of problems facing the aged.

The American Medical Association, bitter foe of the plan to finance health care for the elderly under the Social Security system, has implied that the senior citizens council is getting tax funds to promote the legislation.

But Asst. Secretary of Welfare Wilbur Cohen said, "No tax money, no federal funds of any sort, are going to the National Council of Senior Citizens."

The council says all its funds have come through voluntary contributions made by elderly persons and others interested in the efforts of the organization.

The council, which estimates its membership at 600,000, does not deny it is closely coordinating its medical care drive with administration efforts to win enactment of the bill. Last Sunday, the council sponsored 33 rallies around the nation in support of the administration plan.

The bill, now before the House Ways and Means Committee, would boost the Social Security payroll tax one-fourth of 1 per cent, on both employer and employe, to finance hospital, nursing home and outpatient care for persons 65 or older. The measure would not pay doctors' bills.

The AMA charges the bill would unlock the door to socialized medicine in the United States.

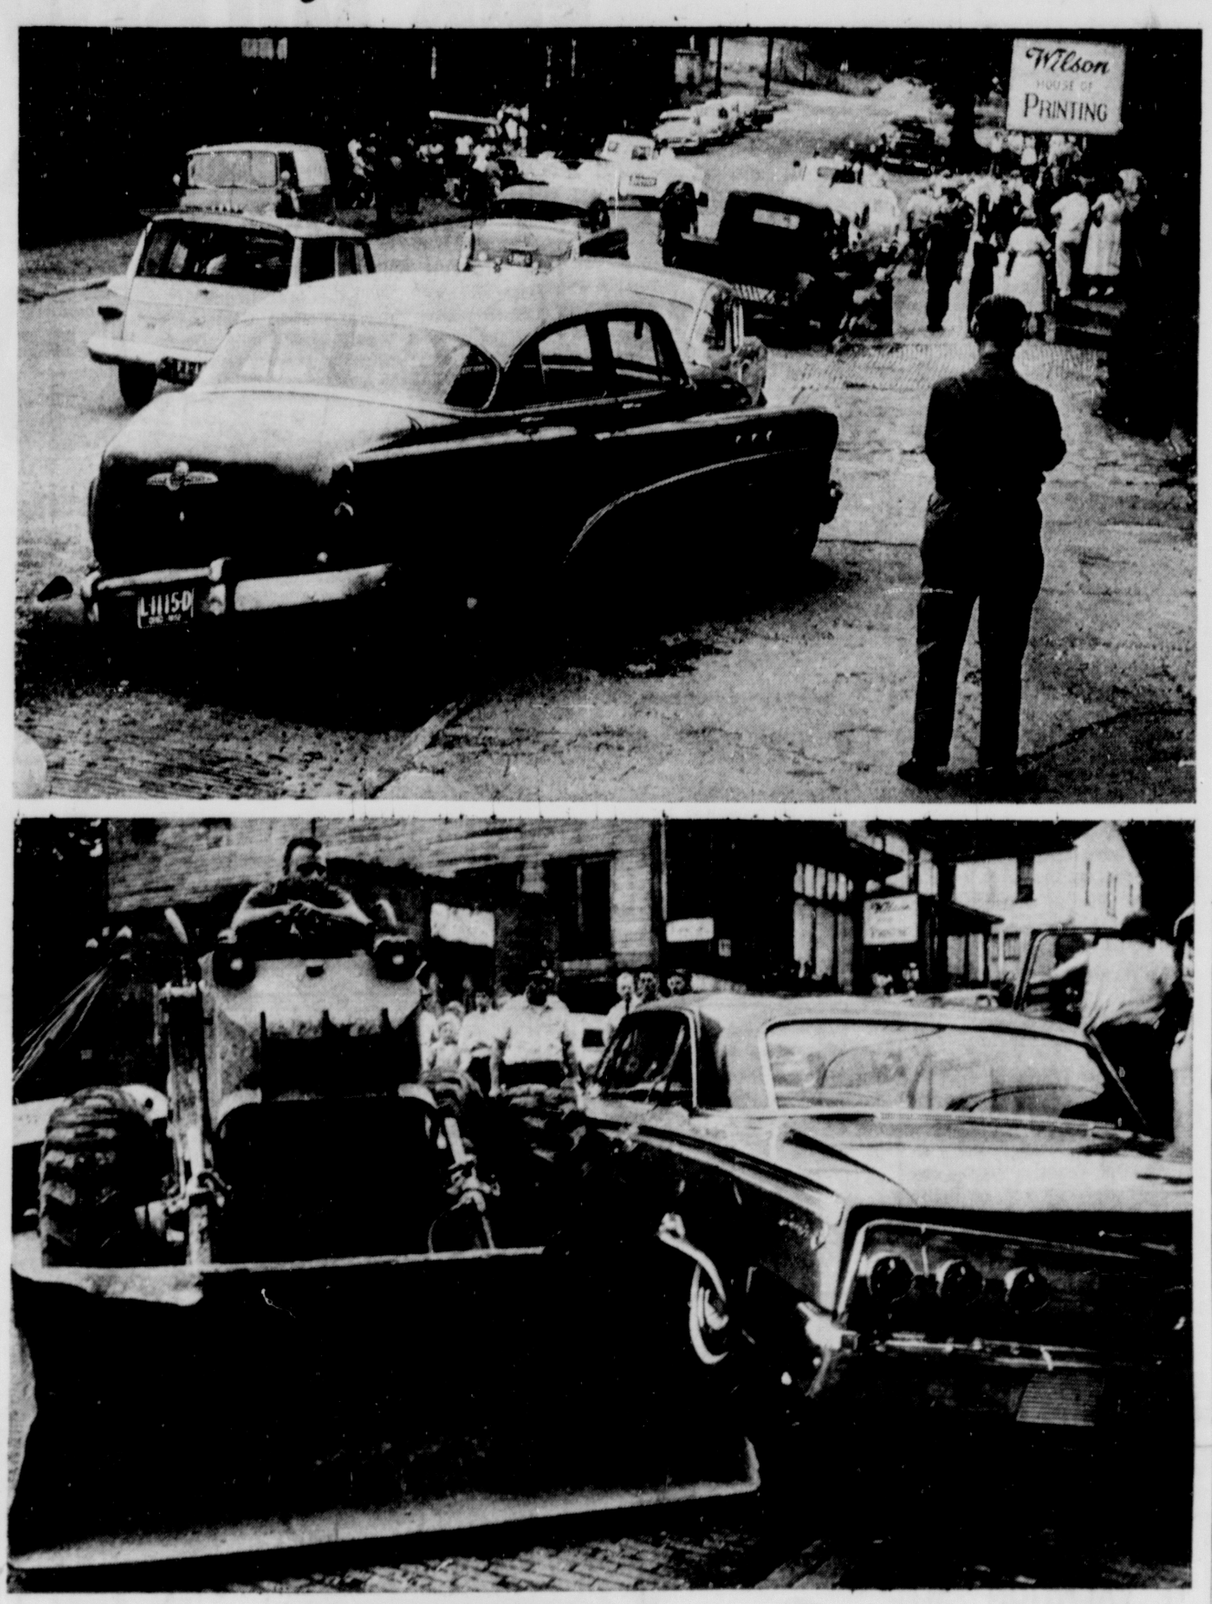
Runaway Loader Hits 4 Vehicles



A new $3,200 sedan was smashed into junk and two other autos and a panel truck were damaged Friday afternoon at 3:55 when a big front-end loading machine ran out of control in the two-block stretch on Market St. between 4th St. and 2nd St.

The Trojan Loadster vehicle owned by the Parsons Coal Co. of 1st and Jackson Sts. richocheted from side to side on Market St., bumping three parked vehicles before it finally struck a 1962 two-door sedan owned by Ross Jackson Jr., 838 Spring Grove Ave., shoving it over the curb and the sidewalk and mashing it against a brick wall of the Milliron Co. Building at E. 2nd and Market, officers reported.

Officers wrote off Jackson's auto as "demolished" and the owner added ruefully that it appears a total loss. He purchased the 1962 model about six weeks ago.

The equipment operator, Carlton D. David, 117 Center Alley, escaped injury in the runaway accident. There was no apparent damage to the brick wall of the Milliron Building despite the heavy impact.

The runaway machinery also struck these parked vehicles: A 1953 sedan owned by Elsie P. Reynolds, 217 Market St.; a 1962 model panel truck owned by Montgomery Ward & Co. of E. 5th St. and a 1953 four-door sedan owned by Robert Camerlin of New Cumberland R.D. 2.

David told police his equipment "stalled out" as he passed 4th St. while driving south on Market St. That knocked out the vacuum system, which meant the vehicles had no brakes, he explained.

All the damaged vehicles were parked on Market St. between 3rd St. and 2nd St., officers said. The first car was struck on the west side of Market St. just below 3rd St. Then the vehicle crossed Market diagonally and struck the Montgomery Ward truck, which was parked outside the company's warehouse space in the northwest corner of the Milliron Building.

The loading machine then crossed to the west side of Market St., hit the second car, then veered to the east side and hit Jackson's new auto. Jackson's auto, headed uphill, was parked just above 2nd St. The speedometer shows only 1,500 miles.

Reconstruction of the mishap indicates the vehicles were hit in this order: First, the Reynolds sedan, which was damaged in the left rear; second, the Montgomery Ward truck, which had damage to the left front, then Camerlin's sedan, damaged on the left side, and finally Jackson's auto.

The heavy loading machine carries a big scoop on the front end. Patrolmen Charles A. Winters and Jack Strobel investigated.

Drive Seen On 35-Hour Work Week

AFL-CIO President Expects U.S.-Wide Labor Campaign

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, says he expects the merged labor movement to very seriously consider a nationwide campaign to reduce the standard work week from 40 to 35 hours.

Such a campaign, Meany said Friday, likely will be deliberated by the AFL-CIO Executive Council when it meets in August.

He told the convention of the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union, "I am of the opinion that a reduction of the work week, with the same take-home pay, would have a tremendous impact."

Meany first endorsed the 35-hour week at another convention here last week. He is at odds with the Kennedy administration and Secretary of Labor Arthur Goldberg, who feels that the present 40-hour week is best for the nation's economy.

Said Meany, to cheering delegates:

"I do not like to disagree with Arthur Goldberg any more than Dave Dubinsky (president of the ILGWU) does...But I feel that we have got to look at this question of how many hours do we work."

Dubinsky's union already has the 35-hour week. He has said he favors it on a nationwide basis.

Meany said he does not have "the confidence in American management to believe that an increase in their profits would solve the unemployment problem."

He criticized the National Association of Manufacturers (NAM) telling the garment workers:

Sealed Up Quickly

4 Explosions Rip Six-Foot Hole In Reds Berlin Wall

BERLIN (AP) — Somebody blasted a big hole in the Red wall through Berlin early today. The Communist regime rushed workers to the scene to seal the six-foot gap and before noon it was solid again.

There were four mysterious explosions around the area of Bernauerstrasse, scene of many dramatic escapes.

West Berlin afternoon papers speculated they were the work of an East Berlin resistance group. Several times wooden screens, put up to stop people from the West peeking over the wall, have gone up in flames in the neighborhood.

West police said they did not know who set off the blasts.

Bernauerstrasse is one of the most heavily fortified stretches of the 25-mile wall. Behind the wall are coils of barbed wire, a double row of steel antitank barriers and finally huge screens to block the view into East Berlin.

The atmosphere was very tense along the wall as the Communist regime gave a military funeral to Peter Goering, 21-year-old East German policeman who was shot dead in a gun battle with West German police Wednesday.

All East German radio stations went off the air for one minute during the funeral at his home town, Glashuette.

The Communist regime has proclaimed Goering a martyr. A fierce campaign in the controlled East German press calls for punishment of his "treacherous murderers."

Western guards said the Vopos, the East German guards were showing "a very hostile attitude," apparently looking for an opportunity to avenge their dead comrade.

The British sent a stiff protest to the Soviet commander in East Berlin, Maj. Gen. Andrei Solovyev, blaming the East Germans for the incident. But Solovyev sent the letter back to British headquarters.

Astronaut's Version Of Trip Waited

Will Have Chance To Give Answers On His Condition

GRAND TURK, B.W.I. (AP) — Was astronaut Malcolm Scott Carpenter confused, preoccupied or simply reflective during his last whirl around the globe? Space officials seem unable to agree on an answer.

As they weighed today this and other questions which arose during the 37-year-old naval officer's thrilling space journey, he had a date to go skindiving with other astronauts off this tiny West Indies island.

Then there were to be more questions about his three-orbit flight, more debriefing, with astronauts John H. Glenn Jr., Walter M. Schirra Jr., Virgil I. Grissom and Leroy Gordon Cooper Jr. joining in the interrogation.

Carpenter himself will have a chance to answer questions about his condition during flight when he returns to Cape Canaveral Sunday for a welcome home celebration and a news conference. On Monday he will fly to his hometown of Boulder, Colo., for another welcome.

The question of Carpenter's condition during his last orbit arose

Sea Water Damaged Orbit Picture Film

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—The motion picture film record of America's second manned orbit in space was heavily damaged by sea water and may be of little use to space scientists, it was learned in Rochester today.

Sometime during the period when astronaut Scott Carpenter's space capsule bobbed in the water awaiting pickup, enough water sloshed into the capsule to reach the pilot-observer camera, Eastman Kodak Co., spokesmen said.

Senate Puts Its Approval On Farm Bill

Democrats Outlast GOP's Opposition In 42 To 38 Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democrats overcame stubborn Republican opposition and passed a farm bill containing most of the mandatory production controls sought by President Kennedy in an effort to reduce surplus wheat and feed grain stocks.

The vote Friday after a week of debate was 42 to 38 with one Republican joining 41 Democrats. Eight Democrats voted with 30 Republicans against the measure. It now goes to the House, where a similar bill has been approved by the Agriculture Committee and awaits floor action.

The new program would be put to a vote of farmers, with a two-thirds majority needed for adoption. The main feature of the bill is higher price supports and substantially reduced production quo-

2 More Held As Suspects In Burglaries

Charges Now Await 7 In Mine Lootings Totaling $100,000

Two more suspects in a $100,000 burglary ring were arrested Friday by Mahoning County authorities joining five other men already in custody in the investigation of the large-scale theft, chiefly of strip mine equipment.

Arrested last night was Harry Chamberlain Jr. of North Lima while James Dinsio, 642 Franklin Ave., Salem, was taken into custody earlier yesterday, after turning himself in, Mahoning officials said.

No formal charges have been filed against the seven yet. The others held include three of Dinsio's brothers — William D. Dinsio, 35, of near Salem; Vincent M. Dinsio, 39, of Washingtonville; Amil A. Dinsio, 26, of near Greenford — and Charles Mulligan, 28,

Area Clinics For Polio To End Tonight

Concluding clinics in the Columbiana County Medical Society's mass polio protection program with the Sabin oral vaccine began this afternoon. They will remain open tonight as long as persons appear for the final inoculation in the series of three.

Some 3,580 adults and youngsters in the East Liverpool, Wellsville and Salineville areas received the vaccine Thursday — down from first-day sessions in previous clinics—and medical authorities urged those who have not received the inoculation to attend today's clinics.

Eleven centers throughout Columbiana County will provide the Type II vaccine.

Dr. Alex Fisher, co-chairman for the East Liverpool district, again requested all adults and children to obtain the Type II oral series without charge.

He emphasized that the previous clinics provided vaccines which give protection only against Type I and Type III polio, and Type II vaccine is needed for protection against Type II.

Thursday, 1,325 received the dosages at Westgate School, 865 at Calcutta fire station, 600 at East Junior High, 638 at Wellsville's McDonald School, and 160 at Salineville High School.

Clinic sites will be the same

Stock Market Prices Dip During Emotional Selling

NEW YORK (AP) — Emotional selling once more drove stock market prices down to steep losses this week and—as in the break of two weeks ago—the weekly fall was the worst in more than 30 years.

That brings the market decline back to a comparison with the bad old days of 1932—the pit of the depression—or beyond. Weekly records of stock averages were not kept beyond then on a comparable basis.

The Dow Jones industrial average plummeted 38.82 points to 611.88. It was at a high of 734.91 last Dec. 13. Two weeks ago the Dow took a loss of 30.57.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell 16.30 to 224.60, putting this indicator at its lowest level since Jan. 6, 1961, when it stood at 223.50. The AP average fell 11.00 in the decline of two weeks ago.

Based on the drop in the AP average, an estimated $23.7 billion was clipped from the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange. This brought the total down to an estimated $321 billion from about $388 billion at the end of 1961.

Meanwhile, stock analysts expressed hope that the list might find "support" at around 600 to 610 in the Dow industrials, but the great stock market skid of 1962 has paid no heed to these theoretical supports.

Weekly volume swelled to 22,988,850 shares from 19,566,770 in the previous week's recovering market. It was the highest weekly total since May 24, 1961, when turnover was 24,274,430 shares.

Beaver Grand Jury To Convene Monday

The Beaver County Grand Jury will convene Monday at Beaver and begin considering 88 cases, including several from the East Liverpool-Midland area.

They include James Humphrey of East Liverpool, charged with operating a vehicle while intoxicated; Jim Washington Jr. of Midland, delivering worthless checks, Eli McCullough and Leroy Green Jr., both of Midland, charged with liquor violation by the State Liquor Control Board, and Andrew Sopko of Midland and Phyllis Welch of Ambridge, both charged with adultery by Ethel Sopko.

Lawrence J. Dwyer of East Palestine is charged with operating a vehicle while his license was suspended.

11 Injured In Ravenna Train Mishap

RAVENNA, Ohio (AP) — Three cars of a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad passenger train were knocked off the rails by the derailment of a passing freight train today. Eleven persons were injured, but none was hospitalized.

One passenger car was knocked virtually on its side, the second was tilted at a 45-degree angle, and the third was tilted only slightly.

M. S. Compton of Akron, a passenger in the third car, said he was awakened by a jolt and shortly afterward saw a porter being carried out the door of the car ahead. He said he saw another man carried out a window.

Everyone in his sleeping car remained calm, Compton said.

The passengers which had left Washington at 9:20 p. m. Friday bound for Cleveland, apparently was traveling slowly through down town Ravenna when the accident happened about 7:30 a. m. (Eastern Daylight Time).

The freight train, bound from Lorain to New Castle, Pa., left a pattern of about eight cars jackknifed along the right of way.

Railroad officials said it appeared a car derailing near the middle of the freight train hit the passenger. It gouged the side of the passenger's engine before knocking the cars from the track.

Autoist Hurt In Car Plunge

Victim Is Resident Of Hammondsville

A Hammondsville motorist was hospitalized with injuries suffered when his car plunged over an embankment at the lower end of Wellsville at 5:50 a.m. today.

Paul Jackson, 56, is in "fair" condition at the Osteopathic Hospital. He suffered possible fractured ribs and internal injuries.

Police said Jackson's 1953 sedan was demolished. It rolled about 25 feet over the embankment off the super-road below Clark Ave.

Officers said Jackson lost control of the vehicle after striking the medial strip.

At 4:05 a.m., a car driven by Frank Newlin, 2107 Nevada St., Wellsville, struck the rear of another driven by Charles B. Coen of Shadyside Ave., East Liverpool R.D., on Wells Ave.

Newlin was cited for following another vehicle too closely. He was fined $25 at a hearing this morning before Mayor William Daugherty.

Cars driven by Charles L. Henry of Edison R.D. 1 and Rexford Brock, 2010 Clark, Ave., Wellsville, were damaged in a collision near the intersection of Routes 7 and 45 Friday night at 11:40.

Officers said Henry became confused over the lane markings and forced the Brock car to the curb. He was cited for improper lane usuage and posted a $10 bond for a hearing before the mayor.

Address, Parade Set

Program Ready For City Memorial Observances

East Liverpool's traditional observance of Memorial Day will consist of a forenoon parade, an address at the City Hall and services from the Chester bridge, the Joint Memorial Day Committee announced today as it completed details of the program.

Maj. William O. Butler, commanding officer of the Navy and Marine Corps Reserve Training Center in Steubenville will give the principal address from the steps of City Hall.

In event of rain, the program will be held in the VFW Post 66 auditorium.

Veterans posts, patriotic orders, other organizations and scout groups will be in the line of march and bands from East Liverpool and Beaver Local high schools will furnish the music.

The parade will form at 11 a. m. on Bradshaw Ave. and Walnut St., move over Walnut to E. 5th St., 5th to Jefferson St., on Jefferson to E. 6th St. and to the City Hall, where it will pause for a ceremony.

Mrs. Marie White, gold star mother and president of the Ohio and Kentucky Departments, will place a memorial wreath at the honor roll. The parade will then proceed to Walnut and disband.

(Turn to HOLIDAY, Page 16)

Public Offices Wait Holiday

Some Industries To Curtail Wednesday

Memorial Day will provide a mid-week holiday for East Liverpool area public offices, businesses and banks with some industries closing or curtailing Wednesday. All schools observe the holiday.

It will be a holiday for virtually all district pottery employes, as dinnerware plants will suspend except for essential operations.

East Liverpool stores will be closed Wednesday, but they will follow their usual schedules in the balance of next week.

Financial institutions, the Post Office, Ohio State Employment Service and Carnegie Public Library will be closed Wednesday.

The OSES asked claimants who normally report on Wednesday to report Tuesday.

Memorial Day is one of the official holidays designated in the City Code, so City Hall will be closed and parking meter fees will not be required.

The East Liverpool and Wellsville State Liquor Stores will be closed.

Wellsville City Hall offices will be closed along with the Post Office, and Carnegie Library. Mail will be received and dispatched

Funeral Set Tuesday

James A. McKinnon, 75, Incinerator Head, Dies

James Addison McKinnon, 75, city incinerator superintendent for more than 14 years, died suddenly this morning while at work at the municipal landfill site in St. Clair Township.

Mr. McKinnon was stricken with an apparent heart attack about 8:30 a. m. after reporting for work half an hour earlier. He was rushed to City Hospital but was dead on arrival.

Mr. McKinnon, who resided on S. Shady Lane Dr., was named foreman of the department Jan. 13, 1948, in the administration of the late Harry C. Smith, succeeding Charles Zeder.

When the post was placed under Civil Service, the job classification title was changed to superintendent.

Mr. McKinnon is the second city department head to die at work within the last year. Safety-Service Director Lee Copenhaver expired suddenly Aug. 23.

He was born in East Liverpool May 14, 1887, to James B. McKinnon and Frances Haney McKinnon, and spent his lifetime here. He worked for the former Valley Motor Transit Co. for 30 years previously. He was a member of the First Church of Christ.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Nettie Goodman McKinnon at home; a son, James G. McKinnon of East Liverpool; a sister, Mrs. Minnie Underwood of California, Pa., and two grandchildren.

Services will be held Tuesday at 2 p.m. at the Martin Funeral Home by John H. Mostoller, minister. Burial will be in Riverview Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home Sunday and Monday evenings.

350 Attend Calcutta District Girl Scouts 'Get-Together'

About 350 attended the "get-together" of the Calcutta area Girls Scouts Wednesday evening at Thompson Park. Parents of the girls were guests. A ham dinner was served.

A flag ceremony, led by Troop 59, opened the program, followed with the Brownie Promise by Jane Simmens and the Girls Scout Promise by Troop 59.

A candlelight fly-up ceremony was conducted by Troop 9 and the girls received wings and were invested into the Girl Scouts.

The group includes Courtnay Cloran, Carol Hickman, Jennifer Jacobs, Linda Croxall, Brenda Sias, Darlene Smith, Cindy Dray, Rebecca Silliman, Kay Craig, Vivian Palmer, Patti Vincent, Janie Dunn, Peggy Cahoun, Barbara Burris, Lois Richman, Debbie Adkins, Sherry Gorrell and Cynthia Glynn. Mrs. Coralee Hickman and Mrs. Gloria Palmer are leaders.

Other Brownie units participating were Troop 25, with Mrs. Rose Squires and Mrs. Rhea Vaneerdan as leaders and Troop 54, with Mrs. Ruth Dunn and Mrs. Mary Cannon, leaders.

Intermediate Scouts of Troop 59, of which Mrs. June Robinson and Mrs. Jane McDaniel are leaders, received badges, including Janice Barker, Winifred Cloran, Patty Entriken, Vicki Green, Cathy Hickman, Vicki McDaniel, Jane Patterson, Linda Robinson, Sharon Rowley, Leslie Simmen and Darla Shields.

Senior Troop 63 received five point pins and senior aide bars. The group includes Jill Myler, Chetty Muscari, Margie Mason, Jane Pethtel, Kathy Blackburn and Cheryl Rice. Mrs. Jerry Myler is leader.

There was group singing.

Troop 8 sang the Girl Scout grace before the dinner.

The meeting closed with taps.

Wellsville Historical Group To Resume Echoes Issuance

The Wellsville Historical Society voted Friday night to resume publication of "Wellsville Echoes," a historical paper.

Fifty attended the session at the River Museum. The material for the first issue of the paper, which has not been printed for several years, has been gathered and the society will begin printing as soon as possible. The first issue will contain Civil War material.

The society also agreed to ask various other civic organizations to aid with keeping the River Museum open to the public during June, July and August. One group already has volunteered time.

The museum will be open Monday through Saturday from 1 to 5 p.m. and 1 to 6 p.m. on Sundays if enough aid is obtained.

Plans were made for a Civil War display at the museum. The articles will be listed in a booklet to be sold in an effort to raise needed funds.

A member of the historical group from Mt. Pleasant will be invited to speak at the meeting June 29.

Ed Pugh, president, conducted business. Wayne Wallace, president of the Tri-State Civil War Roundtable, was guest speaker.

He gave his impressions of the Civil War and said President Lincoln is considered the sixth greatest man in history, according to a poll of historians. Wallace screened slides of Kentucky, Tennessee and the area around Yellow Creek and Bergholz.

Several sixth grade students attended. Refreshments were served.

Liquor Board Rejects Permit At Waterford

NEW WATERFORD — Renewal of a C-1 permit sought by Raymond Borelli of W. Main St. has been rejected by the Ohio Department of Liquor Control at Columbus.

The department said the application was turned down because Borelli no longer operates a retail business at the permit address and the premises have been leased to Donald Clark, who has an automatic washing machine service at the site.

Carpenter

late Thursday night, several hours after he had been plucked from his tiny lift raft in the Atlantic 250 miles beyond his target landing area. The 17 Project Mercury tracking stations got together on their world-girdling radio network for a post-flight critique.

The Kauai, Hawaii, station said Carpenter sounded tired and his voice was weak as he flew over:

"He was quite concerned about his capsule attitude and therefore, on several occasions, when Capcom (the capsule communicator) tried to get him on his retrosequence, he kept returning to what he was doing.

"We told him to get ready for the retrosequence and he started doing something else. There was some confusion whether he understood what the order was.

"We had the impression that he was very confused about what was going on. But it was very difficult to assess whether he was confused or preoccupied."

The Woomera, Australia, station came in to say, "We also feel the astronaut was acting somewhat tired on the last pass." It said his voice was weak.

When he was asked to comment later on the critique, the medical expert who monitored Carpenter's flight said the astronaut obviously was tired. But, Dr. Stanley T. White said, Carpenter performed his tasks "in an appropriate manner".

His theory was that the tracking stations thought Carpenter was confused because he was too busy—too preoccupied—at times to make the requested responses.

At Grand Turk, the psychiatrist who talked to Carpenter after he came back to earth said he didn't even think the astronaut was tired during the trip.

"Quite the opposite," said Dr. George Ruff, of the University of Pennsylvania, "I think he was quite alert on the whole flight."

So far as making decisions goes, Dr. Ruff said, people differ. Some, given 10 seconds for a decision, will make it in the first second. But Carpenter, he said, is the type who will think about it for nine seconds, considering the alternatives, before making the decision in the 10th second.

Whatever his condition on the last orbit, Carpenter was hungry, exhilarated and apologetic once he came back to earth.

As he bobbed in his life raft waiting for recovery forces to pick him up, Carpenter sampled the food from his survival kit and sipped water.

"He pulled out a bar of concentrated food and began munching on it," said Sgt. Ray E. McClure of Mt. Sterling, Ky., one of the two paramedics who jumped into the Atlantic to aid the astronaut.

Wellsville Motorist Cited Following Crash

Officers of the Lisbon State Highway patrol said a car driven by Stuart Wilson, 41, of 511 Riverside Ave., Wellsville, struck the rear of another driven by John P. Flaherty, 28, of Waterford, Conn., at 10 a. m. at the intersection of Routes 7 and 30 Friday morning.

Flaherty had halted at the intersection, officers said. Wilson was cited for failure to stop in the assured clear distance.

Mrs. Ruth Flaherty, a passenger in her husband's car, along with two children, was treated at City Hospital for a stiff neck. John P. Flaherty Jr., 4, and Richard M. Flaherty, 3, and their father were examined and released.

Diner Cash, Items Stolen

Chester police are investigating a breaking and entering of Harmon's Diner sometime Friday night when about $30 in change was taken, along with several valuable articles.

Merchandise reported missing includes a tape recorder, valued at $250, a record player, $33, and a transistor radio, $30.

Billfolds, cigarette lighters and other articles also are missing.

About $30 in change was taken from a cash register and a cigar box under a counter. An undetermined amount of money was taken from the juke box and pinball machine, which were broken open and the coin containers left on the floor.

Entrance was gained by breaking a lock on the front door. Charles Harmon of 4th St., Chester, is owner of the diner on Carolina Ave., near Dunn St.

He closed the diner at 10:15 last night and discovered the burglary when he opened at 9:30 this morning.

Motorists Uninjured In Ohioville Collision

Both drivers escaped injury in the crash of a station wagon and a sedan today at 8 a.m. on Route 168 at the entrance to Meadowbrook Estates in Ohioville.

The crash involved a station wagon operated by Donald Craik, 561 Penn Ave., Midland, and a sedan driven by Jerry Miller of Smiths Ferry R.D. 1, traveling in opposite directions on a hill.

Police said Craik made a left turn in front of Miller. Miller's vehicle was demolished, and the other car was damaged. No charges were filed.

Chamberlain and Amil Dinsio were bound to the Harrison County Grand Jury Wednesday on charges of breaking and entering and theft of a truck.

Carroll County officials apprehended Amil Dinsio after he and Chamberlain fled from a routine check by a deputy sheriff of the truck they were operating, which had been stolen from a Route 22 coal hauler.

The investigation spread and officials found some $20,000 worth of stolen motors at a Dinsio mine near Leetonia.

The continuing search led to another Dinsio mine at Greenford in Mahoning County where stolen strip mine equipment and accessories were found.

At least one of the five 50-foot tipples used at the Greenford mine has been identified as stolen and a Hanna Coal Co. representative identified about $14,000 of the equipment as stolen from a company mine at Cadiz.

Twins Defeated; Banks 'Beaned'

-American-

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Two of the big reasons it's such a cozy group at the top of the American League standings are:

1. A crafty old lefty.

2. A late-blooming veteran of eight minor leagues who's finally found a major league home at age 30.

Point No. 1 concerns Detroit's Don Mossi, who got tough when it counted, beat New York's defending world champions 5-4 Friday night and became the first lefthander to score over the Yankees this season.

Point No. 2 concerns Chuck Essegian of Cleveland, whose 12th homer of the season brought the Indians a 2-1 decision over Washington and pushed Cleveland into a share of the top spot.

With Los Angeles edging Kansas City 5-4; Baltimore taking Boston 9-5, and Chicago beating Minnesota 5-4 in the others, only four games separated the leaders and the seventh place Tigers.

Essegian, whose career reads like a travelogue, may have found himself steady employment for the first time in a 10-year career as the sparkplug of the Indians.

Stops along the way included tours of duty in the Pacific Coast League, the Western International, the California League, the Texas League, the Southern Association, the Northwest League, the International League and the Eastern League. He also had appearances with the St. Louis Cardinals, the Los Angeles Dodgers, Philadelphia Phillies, Baltimore and Kansas City before finally landing with the Indians.

His two hits Friday night pushed his batting average to .383, which put him in a tie with Kansas City's Manny Jimenez for the league lead.

The first was a double that set up Cleveland's first run and his homer made it 2-0, enough to offset Danny O'Connell's homer for the Senators and provide Pedro Ramos with his first victory of the year.

Mossi spread 11 hits about as well as possible and survived four Tiger errors in going the distance for the victory over the Yanks. He was in and out of trouble all evenings, but spiked the Yankee guns in the clutch, leaving 10 runners stranded.

The Tigers managed only five hits, but they included a three-run homer by Dick McAuliffe and a solo job by Chico Fernandez.

Leon Wagner bounced a single into center in the eighth and drove in Albie Pearson for the Angels' winning run against Kansas City, giving Jack Spring his third victory without a loss. Jimenez drove in two Kansas City runs on a double and his ninth homer.

Baltimore's victory over Boston was featured by Jim Gentile's two-run, 500-foot home run drive deep into the center field stands. It was Gentile's 13th and tied him for the league lead with Detroit's Al Kaline. Gentile drove in two more with a ninth inning single that iced the victory for Chuck Edwards.

A pair of triples by Al Smith and another by Nellie Fox accounted for three runs and were the big blows in Chicago's victory over Minnesota. It was the third straight loss for the third place Twins.

Beaver Public Nine Closes With 4-0 Mark

Beaver Local Public finished its baseball season with a 4-0 record after disposing of New Cumberland.

Rick Deiringer, a righthander, was the winning hurler as he gave up four hits.

The young Beavers scored single runs in the first, second and fifth frames and tallied twice in the third and fourth innings.

Allan Copestick, Bill Montooth and Arnold McLaughlin each belted doubles for the winners.

Murray was the losing pitcher, but blasted a home run.

Baseball's Friday jinx has struck again. The latest victim—Ernie Banks.

Banks, Chicago Cubs' homer hammerer, became the third top star hurt in a strange series of accidents on successive Friday nights when he was beaned and suffered a concussion during the Cubs' 2-1 loss to Cincinnati.

The 31-year-old infielder was knocked unconscious in the ninth inning when a pitch from Moe Drabowsky hit Banks just below his protective helmet. Ernie collapsed at the plate, was carried from the field on a stretcher and rushed to a hospital.

A spokesman at the hospital said examination showed the two-time National League most valuable player did not have a skull fracture. Banks was reported in fair condition and scheduled for further tests today.

Last Friday, Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees collapsed while running to first base and suffered a tear in a thigh muscle expected to sideline him for a month. The Friday before Minnie Minoso of St. Louis fractured his skull running into a fence while chasing a fly ball. He has been placed on the disabled list.

Meanwhile first-place San Francisco thumped Philadelphia 10-7, as Billy Pierce won his seventh without a loss, and remained 1½ games ahead of the Los Angeles Dodgers who clobbered the New York Mets 17-8. Hank Aaron drove in five runs with two homers and a double in Milwaukee's 11-8 victory over St. Louis and Pittsburgh edged Houston 4-3 in 13 innings.

Drabowsky (1-3), who allowed only five hits, was removed after he plunked Banks with the pitch and Bill Henry came on to get the final two outs. The Reds got only two hits off Cal Koonce (2-1) but Frank Robinson's two-run double in the fourth did the damage. The Cubs' run was George Altman's 10th homer.

Willie Mays and Orlando Cepeda each hit home run No. 14 to lead the Giants, although four unearned runs in the sixth contributed heavily to the Phils' loss. Mays drove in four runs with the homer and a single while Cepeda picked up three. Pierce allowed 11 hits and needed ninth inning relief by Stu Miller when John Callison tagged his fourth hit, a three-run homer. Jack Hamilton (3-4) lost it.

The Dodgers ran their winning streak to five games with an 18-hit onslaught that included two six-run innings. Maury Wills, who stole three bases and scored three times, and Tommy Davis each had four hits while Larry Burright and Norm Sherry collected four runs batted in apiece. Frank Thomas led the Mets with three hits—one his 13th homer. Joe Moeller (3-4) won it with Al Jackson (2-5) the loser.

Tommy Aaron, Hank's younger brother, gave the Aaron family seven of the Braves' 18 hits, adding three doubles and a single to Hank's output. Roy McMillan and Joe Adcock also contributed homers to the attack that gave reliever Lew Burdette victory No. 1 after four losses. Ken Boyer and Carl Sawatski homered for the Cards. Ray Washburn (3-1) lost it.

Bob Skinner's second triple and a pinch-hit single by Johnny Logan off Bob Tiefenauer (1-4) ended the 13-inning battle at Houston. Elroy Face (2-0) gained the victory with four innings of shutout relief.

East End, Owls, Cumberland Win In City Softball

East End Merchants, New Cumberland and the Owls Club posted victories in City Softball League games Friday night.

East End whipped Amvits, 5-2, behind the four-hit pitching of Gene Talbott. Ken Knowles broke up a scoreless pitching duel between Talbott and Barton in the fifth inning with a home run over the centerfield fence.

The victors then tallied three more runs in the sixth. Knowles and Rogers led East End with two hits each. Lanfried had two hits for the losers. Barton was charged with the defeat.

New Cumberland beat Patterson-Wetzel, 4-1, as Rocchio fired a two-hitter. Howard Wilson was the loser.

The Owls Club gained a 7-3 victory over Knowles as McCauley gained his second pitching decision. Boston led the Owls Club with two hits. Shuman was the losing pitcher.

There will be a meeting Sunday at 4 p.m. at the YMCA for all City Softball League managers. Rosters are due and all money due the league is to be turned over to officials.

FELLED BY PITCHED BALL. Ernie Banks of the Chicago Cubs falls in the ninth inning after being hit in the head by a ball pitched by Moe Drabosky of the Cincinnati Reds Friday night at Cincinnati. Banks was carried from the field and taken to a hospital for observation. (UPI Telephoto)

Dairymen, McBurney, Burbick Win LL Tilts

Golden Star swept its third straight victory in "creaming"n Travelers, 11-6, to remain unbeaten in the American Division to feature Little League action Friday.

Joining the Dairymen in the win column were McBurney's, gaining its first victory over the Medics, 4-2, and Burbick's, a 13-3 victor over Chester Legion.

One game is on tap for today, with Travelers meeting Veteran Glass at Hilbert Field. The game was postponed Thursday because of field conditions.

Butch Beadnell pitched and batted Golden Star to its third win in a row, striking out seven and slamming three hits. His battery mate, Dennis Klembara, socked a home run. The Dairymen banged out a dozen hits and jumped on Simms of Travelers for seven runs in the second inning.

Jack Duffy and Flint homered for the losers, while Jim Duffy collected three hits. Jim Duffy relieved Sims in the fifth frame, with Sims getting the pitching defeat.

Dave Pridemore and Jimmy Andrason combined for a two-hitter as McBurney's whipped the Medics. Pridemore yielded two singles in the first inning, and Andrason hurled no-hit ball for the final three. B. Hoyt and Chambers hurled for the Medics, who lost their first game in three starts.

Billy Cooper hit a pair of singles and Dave Pridemore, a double, to lead McBurney's seven - hit attack.

Burbick's pounded out 13 hits in rolling over Chester Legion for its second victory. The losers managed five hits. Earl Diddle had two hits and Berhar, three.

If Weatherman Cooperates

Record-Breaking Spree Shapes Up In State Meet

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—If the weatherman cooperates a bit better than he did Friday, today's windup of the 55th Ohio high school track - field championships could be a record-breaking spree.

Hampered by wind and rain, and a track ankle-deep in water most of the time, the scholastic stars put on a mark - menacing show in Friday's qualifiers.

Dayton Roosevelt, as expected, emerged from the tests as a firm favorite to repeat as king in Class AA. At least a half-dozen schools had a chance in Class A, with the form sheet favoring defending champion Cincinnati DePorres and Columbus Academy.

A two-man duel for the most valuable trophy in Class AA was in prospect, between Toledo Libbey's Jim Goings and Trotwood Madison's Tom Wright.

Each of them had a :09.7 clocking, best of the year and third best in state meet history, in Friday's 100-yard dash.

That's the only event in which they'll meet today.

Goings matched the state meet record of :14.4 in the high hurdles, then broke it with :14.2 in the semifinals—but it wasn't allowed due to a brisk wind. He turned in a :19.5 for the low hurdles for the tops in that event.

Wright and Lodi's Bill Heffelfinger led the 220-yard dash qualifiers in :21.6, and Wright's :50.2 was the standout in the quarter-mile.

The rain also upset the tennis and baseball schedules. Golf went off as per the program, but the tennis matches were moved inside and the semifinals weren't reached until almost midnight. One baseball game, between North Bend Taylor and Lima Senior in Class AA, was to be resumed today after being halted in the middle. Niles McKinley, the state football champ, was to meet the winner for the crown later today.

Baltimore Liberty Union, winner in Class A the last two years and boasting a 46-game winning streak, was to play Van Wert Lincolnview for the smaller school laurels.

Two Class A field events were decided Friday. Ike Kelley of Bremen came up with a 52-foot 1-inch heave to take the shot put, and a 21-foot 3¾ - inch leap by South Amherst's John Hemminger was tops in the broad jump. Rain halted the Class A pole vault and Class AA discus, which were to have been completed Friday.

Putt 4 Strokes Back In State Golf Play

Bob Putt, East Liverpool's lone hope in the state golf tournament, was four strokes off the pace going into today's final 18-holes over the Scarlet Course on the Ohio State campus at Columbus.

Putt turned in a 78 Friday. The Potter star shot a 41 on the front nine, but came back to shoot a strong one-over par 37 on the second nine. The Scarlet course is a 36-36-72 par layout.

Three were tied for the lead at 74 each. They included Mike McCullough of Coshocton, who Putt defeated in the District tournament last week at St. Clairsville, Barry Fibus of Liberty High near Youngstown and Doug Cooper of Akron Buchtel.

Six golfers were tied at 77 each and Putt was deadlocked with six others at 78.

Ohio's high school golfers played through rain Friday afternoon at Columbus.

Deadline Set Tuesday For Annual Dog Show

The deadline for the seventh annual all-breed dog show and obedience trial sponsored by the Columbiana County Kennel Club is only three days away.

All entries must be in by Tuesday noon, May 29. Entry blanks and information can be secured from Dan McDonald by calling FU. 5-5666.

The 1962 show will be held June 9 from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. at the Saxon Country Club three miles south of Salem on State Route 9.

Six variety groups will be judged including sporting, hound, working, terrier, toy and non-sporting. Selection will be made for the best dog in the show.

In the obedience trial prizes in the following will be awarded: novice Class A, Novice Class B, Open Class A, Open Class B, Utility Class and Highest Scoring Dog in trial.

Judges named to the show include Frank Davis of Alexandria, Va.; Miles Flanagan, Olmsted Falls; Loy Green, Berea; Bryon Hofman, Toledo; Alva Rosenberg, New York; Robert Wills, Shaker Heights and Harry Thomas, Olmstead Falls.

Archery Group Plans Invitational Shoot

The Columbiana County Archers group will hold an invitational shoot Sunday at 10 a. m. at the range along Route 164, three miles east of Lisbon and eight miles west of Columbiana.

There will be 28 field and 28 animal targets and trophies will be awarded in all classes, according to Louis Emelo, president. Lunch will be served. Registration is from 8 to 9:30 a. m.

Ours Receives Legion Award As Tigers' Top Senior Star

Presentation of the American Legion Post 70 award to the outstanding senior athlete was a feature of a recognition assembly at Wellsville High School Friday morning.

The recipient was Roger Ours, 5-8, 150-pounder, who made the varsity basketball and football teams as a sophomore and also starred in baseball.

Ours will add the American Legion award to two major awards received in April from the Omni Orange and Black Booster Club as most outstanding senior in both football and basketball.

John Euill was named the outstanding senior member of the Tiger track team. A hurdler and dash man who is planning to enroll at Ohio University, Euill also starred in football.

Coach James Criss presented other track awards to Larry Giles, Frank Luckino, Tim Barborak, Jack Cataldo, Dan Corbisello, Andy Dash, Gary Medley, Rodger Miller, Leo Pearson, Rick Wilson, Terry Flesch and Ron Daniels.

Track coach Ken Woods and two performers, Mark Leyda and Jim Reed, were unable to be present. They are attending the Ohio scholastic track and field meet this weekend in Columbus. Melvin Boggs and Charles Brown received awards as track team managers.

Certificates were presented champion teams in intramurals.

Basketball tournament winners were Richard Malone, captain, Richard Messer, John Bemis, Jerry Medley and Gale Malone.

The volleyball tourney champions were David Hall, captain, Allen Dalrymple, Donald Montgomery, Donald Geer, Gale Malone and Don Clark. The runner-up team included Jerry Hoskinson, captain, John Hoskinson, Roger Merriman, Donald Bunfill and Charles Murray.

James Miller was intramural badminton champion, and Baughman, runner-up.

7 Bids Received

Contracts Slated For Parking Lot

Contracts for blacktop surfacing and installation of 40 meters — which will put the finishing touches on the new municipal parking lot on the site of the former Ceramic Theater — will be let at a meeting of the Board of Control Monday at 11 a.m.

Mayor Bert H. Goodballet and Safety - Service Director Robert Owen, who comprise the board, set the meeting Friday noon after opening three bids on the blacktop project and four on the installation of the meters.

Two questions still hang over the status of the blacktop bids and the mayor and director expect to seek opinions from Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper before taking action on a contract.

THE APPARENT low bid for furnishing and installing the 1,502 square yards of blacktop was $2,628.50, filed by the Kenny Nichols Trucking Co. of Hill Blvd.

H. & H. Contractors of Oakmont bid $2,700. Tri-State Asphalt Corp. of Martins Ferry and East Liverpool set a price of $2,757.50 — $1,792.38 for material and $965.12 for labor.

F. J. Hamilton, sales representative for Tri-State, who attended the board's session yesterday, objected to the offers of both Nichols and H. & H., declaring that they bid lump sums without breaking down the prices for material and labor. He said state law requires a breakdown.

The mayor and director said Hamilton's objections would be noted and instructed City Engineer George S. Bloomgren, the clerk, to enter them in the minutes. Later, the mayor said the point would be cleared with the solicitor.

IN ANOTHER apparent flaw, H. & H. failed to enclose a certified check representing 5 per cent of its bid, as required in the city's legal advertisement. H. & H. enclosed a $135 personal check signed by Elzie Horner, one of the operators.

In its legal notice, the city required a certified check as a guarantee the bidder would enter into a contract and post a surety for performance if his offer were accepted.

Four widely - varying bids on eight types of meters were received from four concerns.

The lowest net price without a trade-in was specified by M. H. Rhodes, Inc., of Hartford, Conn., which offered 40 manual Mark-Time Parking Meters at $52 each, plus $4.28 each for yoke mounting brackets.

IT PROMISED delivery in 30 days. The firm offered four methods of payment: A 50-50 split of the revenue between the city and the supplier; payment in 24 equal monthly amounts; payments of $2.50 per meter per month or a cash settlement, which would entitle the city to a 5 per cent discount.

The Magee-Hale Park-O-Meter Co. of Oklahoma City, Okla., offered either manual or automatic meters at $56.50 each, less a $10 trade-in allowance for old meters, for a net price of $46.50. It offered a 5 per cent discount if the full amount is paid within 60 days. None of the other bidders specified a trade-in allowance.

Koontz Equipment Co. of Pittsburgh, distributor of the Duncan-Miller Parking Meter, offered a "deluxe" manual meter at $59.50 each and a "standard" manual model at $47.30. It bid $3 each on yokes for mounting two meters on a single standard. Promising delivery in 30 days, Koontz said the city may pay for the meters out of receipts or at the rate of $2 per month for each device.

ROCKWELL Manufacturing Co. of Pittsburgh submitted prices on four types of meters, all FOB its factory. It quoted prices on conventional meters and a "twin" type in which two meter heads are mounted on a single standard.

For the standard manual or automatic type, it bid $57.50; for a "twin" automatic, $98; for a standard manual type, $55.50, and for a "twin" manual, $94.

Rockwell also added 50 cents to the price of each meter for freight and quoted a $5 charge for mounting adaptors. It offered a 5 per cent discount for payment in 30 days.

The project for converting the old theater site to public parking dates back to January 1961. In March of last year, Council was notified heirs of the Tallman Estate had accepted the city's offer of $45,000 for the towering structure.

SEVERAL months later, the purchase was completed. Then a Youngstown wrecking contractor razed the building for a fee of $10,000.

Council issued $60,000 in self-liquidating bonds for the project. Later, a Chamber of Commerce committee contributed $5,000. Revenue from the meters will retire the bonds.

In the meeting yesterday, the Board of Control also authorized payment of $850 to the Boyd Lumber Co. of Glenmoor for repair of a bulldozer storage building at the landfill dump in Bloomfield. The building was damaged by a fire several months ago.

Fund Cleared For Trucks, Sewer Plans

Council gave unanimous approval Friday night to an amended appropriation ordinance providing a supplemental fund of $4,000 to enable the administration to purchase two trucks for the street department and allocating $2,000 for engineering expenses in connection with planning a $40,000 Gardendale trunk line sewer project.

Passed without comment in a special meeting, the legislation will make a total of $10,000 available to Mayor Bert H. Goodballet and Safety - Service Director Robert Owen with which to purchase two new two-ton dump trucks.

Council originally provided $6,000 for the truck purchase in the annual appropriation ordinance approved in March, allocating the funds from income tax receipts.

But when the mayor and director opened sealed bids from five concerns Monday, the lowest offer was $8,325 — $2,325 over the amount available. Appropriation of the additional $4,000 will give the two officials full leeway in signing a contract for the trucks. Any amount unexpended will go back into the general fund.

Other net prices on the trucks were $8,387, $8,458 and $8,999.

The appropriation for planning the sewer project was recommended several weeks ago by the Council finance committee. Engineer George S. Bloomgren and his staff will prepare the detailed plans, specifications, estimates and profiles and furnish supervision of the project.

The trunk line will begin in the North Side area, near Gardendale, and extend through the residential district to link with the Carpenters Run trunk line sewer in California Hollow. There will be no direct expense to the property-owners, as the project will be financed out of sewage department improvement funds.

However, individual sewers will have to be installed later on each street to link with the trunk line. The property - owners will be assessed for the cost of the second job.

The city also financed construction of a trunk line in the Pleasant Heights - Fisher Park area approximately eight years ago.

The appropriation measure enacted last night carries an emergency clause, which means it will go into effect as soon as it is signed by Mayor Goodballet. The mayor indicated yesterday the Board of Control will award the truck contract at a meeting Monday at 11 a. m.

Six members attended. Councilman Frank Duffy was excused.

Bryconamericus grosvenori, a fish found in the Urubamba River of Peru, is named for Gilbert Grosvenor, chairman of the board of the National Geographic Society.

Red Cross Launches Signup In Water Safety Program

Registrations for the annual free water safety program of the East Liverpool Red Cross Chapter are being accepted at the chapter office in Mary Patterson Memorial, Mrs. R. J. Schiff, water safety chairman, announced today. It will be at the Thompson Park Pool.

Miss Marilyn Eckert will be director of the swimming sessions, aided by an adult supervisory committee including Miss Eckert's father, Don Eckert; George Mueller, Mrs. Howard Crossley, Mrs. Richard Martin, Mrs. E. W. Hossler and Mrs. Schiff.

Miss Eckert attended a 10-day course in advanced water safety last June at the Red Cross national aquatic school at Camp Lutherlyn, Pa., and received an instructor's certificate qualifying her as a director.

The swimming lessons are open, free-of-charge, to all in the community over the age of 6. All application cards must be signed by a physican and those under 21 must have a parent's signature as well, Mrs. Schiff said.

The program will be divided into two three - week instruction periods, the first beginning June 18 and the second July 9. A training course for instructor's aides will be held June 11-15.

Swimming instruction for beginning, intermediate and advanced pupils will be given daily from 9:30 to 12 through both sessions.

Eligibility for the senior life-saving course will be based on the applicant's competence in a swimming test, which will include diving, swimming with various strokes, treading water and floating. In addition, swimmers must be 16 or older.

Boys and girls from 12 to 15, or in the seventh to 10th school grades, will be eligible for the junior life-saving course if they pass a similar test.

A water show and presentation of certificates will climax the program July 27, Mrs. Schiff announced. The 1961 water safety program resulted in certificates to 267 swimmers.

Arrangements for the program are being made by Mrs. Schiff, Mrs. Martin, Mrs. Crossley, Mueller and James Walker, chapter chairman.

Questions concerning registration or eligibility requirements should be referred to the Red Cross office in person or by telephoning FU 6-4144, Mrs. Schiff said.

Orchard Grove Cub Scouts Seat Member, Give Awards

Curtis Martin was welcomed as a new cub at the first summer session of Cub Scout Pack 31 of the Orchard Grove Community Methodist Church Thursday evening at Thompson Park.

Receiving awards were Richard Jackson, and Steve Crowder, lion badge, gold and silver arrows under lion; Ricky Crawford, and Billy Brenneman, wolf and gold arrows.

Mrs. Helen Bourne was introduced as a new den mother and received her pin. Mrs. Betty Rolley received her den mother's pin and certificate for completing a year as a den mother.

During business, a discussion on the need for den dads and chiefs was held. The group also outlined plans for interesting programs.

Cub Pack 31 will be in charge of the refreshments for the Cherokee District Roundtable meeting June 13 at the large pavilion at the Park.

Fred Brenneman reported on the candy sale and pop bottle drive and also gave the treasurer's report. Herb Snow spoke briefly on cub insurance.

The cubs and parents were urged to attend the Boy Scout Camporal at Hammond Park in Wellsville.

Don Hoyt, cubmaster, presided and Fred Crawford, advancement chairman, assisted in presenting the awards. The meeting opened with Den 3 presenting the flag ceremony under the supervision of Mrs. Mary Brenneman, den mother. Mrs. Martha Badgley's Den 6 gave the Cub Scout prayer.

Gerry Lutton of Den 2 was in charge of the children's games and prizes went to David Jordan, Frank Chronister and Terry Hoyt. Mrs. Martha Badgley won the adult prize.

A family wiener roast climaxed the meeting.

The committee meeting will be held June 7 at 7:30 p. m. at the home of Fred Crawford of Beechwood St.

Next pack meeting is June 27 at 6:30 p. m. at the park.

County's Draft Quota Will Leave June 26

LISBON — Thirteen Columbiana County registrants will leave June 26 for Cleveland for induction into the armed forces, and three will go the same day for pre-induction physicals, according to Columbiana County Draft Board 16.

This will conclude the draft call for June.

Living Costs Hit New High During April

WASHINGTON (AP) — Living costs rose two-tenths of one per cent in April—setting a record for the third straight month.

The government reported consumer prices have risen seven-tenths of one per cent so far in 1962, equaling the total rise recorded during the entire 12 months of 1961.

The Labor Department index of consumer prices rose in April to 105.2 per cent of the 1957-59 average. This is 1.3 per cent higher than in April last year.

The April increase will bring pay raises of one to two cents an hour to an estimated one million workers of the auto, farm equipment and aerospace industries, and various local transit systems.

These workers have union contracts calling for wage adjustments in relation to the government's living costs index.

Steubenville College Degree Due 4 Of Area

Four district students at the College of Steubenville will receive bachelor degrees June 10 during an outdoor commencement exercise at the new Starvaggi Memorial library.

They are Marjorie Bernyce Carter, 1306 Commerce St., Wellsville, elementary education; David Anthony Rosak of Georgetown R. D. 1, chemistry; Billy Eugene Whaley of Toronto R. D. 2, accounting, and Thomas Michael Andrews of Toronto, secondary education.

The Alumni Association will be host to the graduates and their families June 9 when Senior Honors Day will be held.

Joblessness Claims Go Up—As Scheduled

Rising and falling like an elevator, unemployment claims were scheduled to go up this week—and they did.

Harry L. Dinsmore, manager of the Ohio State Employment Service office, reported claims processed this week totaled 480—47 more than last week and 17 more than the week ending May 12.

The claims included 102 new and 353 continuing handled under the regular benefits program and one initial and 24 continuing under the federal extended act, Dinsmore said.

Keep In Trim

Food Used To Bolster Feeling Of Security

Prior to attempting to reduce it is important to analyze the problem. In today's letter the young mother has about 30 excess pounds but, frustrated by her failure to lose, the weight looms so large in her mind as to make her constantly miserable. She writes:

Ida Jean Kain

"From your column it is evident you receive many letters from unhappy fatties. I am 33, 5 feet 5 tall and pounds. I have four children but I gained most of the excess with my first child. Due to seasonal layoffs in my husband's work we can ill afford to go to any expense in my on-again, off-again dieting.

"The only way I can lose is on an 1,100 calorie diet and I cannot subsist on that amount of food—dizziness, headaches and insomnia result.

"IS THERE some way to lose weight without feeling ill and having the temperament of a wounded tiger?

"My husband wants me to lose, but while he's encouraging at times, he also upsets me so that I start eating again, from sheer nervousness. I feel better when I eat something. This fat is humiliating and a source of remarks by my sister-in-law. I would be forever grateful for your help."

So much is revealed in this sentence, "I feel better when I eat something." Yes, food is comforting and available. It is important to recognize that eating can be a substitute for all sorts of satisfactions. Even more significant, food is often used to bolster one's feeling of security.

Since you have a large family to take care of, it is not necessary for you to keep the calories at 1,100. You could have 500 calories more a day and still reduce a half to one pound a week. At that rate you would be half way to your goal before the summer is over.

Try to gain insight into why you turn to food when you are upset. It is important to understand that the physical reaction or effects when you try to cut down on food are often manifestations of some inner resentment, and a feeling of bitterness that life doesn't give you all it should.

In the county in which you live there is available counseling service which can be had without cost. You will find it unexpectedly helpful for you to talk your problems out with a trained, understanding person.

ENLIGHTENMENT can help to put you on the right road. With a better understanding of yourself, hope will be renewed, and your weight problem will assume normal proportions.

When you learn to deal with your frustrations in a way that makes life more interesting, then you will find the compulsion to eat excessively will gradually lessen.

Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for "Choose To Lose Diet." Address your request to Ida Jean Kain, in care of The Review. Postcard requests cannot be answered.

YMCA Begins Registration To Annual Camping Season

Although the opening of the camping season is more than a month away, registrations have started for the YMCA's summer program at Pine Ridge Camp, General Secretary Carl A. Werner said today.

The camp officially will open July 3 with a 3½-day session for midget boys 8-9 years old. A similar session will be held Aug. 19-22.

Boys and girls between 10 and 14 will have three sessions each. The girls' camps will be held July 8-14, July 22-28 and Aug. 5-11 while the periods for boys will be July 15-21, July 29-Aug. 4 and Aug. 12-18.

Youngsters do not have to be members of the "Y" to attend, Werner said. Some 14 cities were represented by the campers last year, he added.

He urged early registration to be certain of a place in the period the camper desires to attend, explaining the capacity is 63 campers plus leaders of each cabin. The registrations may be made any weekday except a holiday.

Werner will direct the camp and the assistant directors will be Mrs. Werner, John Pilliti and Jan Burke. Mrs. Laveda Moore and Mrs. Garnet Govell will return as camp cooks.

The cabin leaders will be older high school youths, most of whom are former campers.

Tomlinson Run Pool Will Be Open Today

With a fair weekend promised by the weatherman, Tomlinson Run State Park's outdoor swimming pool was to be opened for the public today and Sunday, N. T. Holbrook, park supervisor, announced.

Following the usual practice of opening the pool on the weekend before Memorial Day — providing the weather is warm enough—Holbrook reported the pool on State Route 2 will be open this afternoon and Sunday at 12:30 p. m.

The pool will be closed both Monday and Tuesday, but will open again Wednesday for the duration of the summer season. Hours each day will be from 12:30 to 8 p. m.

Jerry Pierce and Peggy Miller are lifeguards, Mrs. David Wern, cashier, and Mrs. Howard McCullough, basket attendant in the bathhouse.

Man, 75, Jailed After Arrest On Vagrancy Count

A 75-year-old East Liverpool man who admitted he has had no home for several months was remanded to jail in default of a fine of $25 and costs imposed Friday by Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff when he pleaded guilty to a vagrancy charge.

Arthur E. Steffen, who said he has not rented a room despite the fact he receives a $71-a-month Social Security check, was taken into custody at 1:39 a.m. yesterday in the Bus Terminal by Patrolman Paul Carter, assisted by Lt. Clyde Boso and Patrolman Robert Pyle, police said.

"We have had several complaints on him," Patrolman Carter testified. "He loafs in the cab office and uses the drivers' restroom. He sleeps wherever he can lay his head."

Steffen recently completed a County Jail term that resulted from a similar charge. He told the court he "just hadn't got around to" renting a room.

Questioned by the court, Steffen said he has nine children, most of them residing in East Liverpool and Wellsville. He said he had his last full meal a week ago, "but I have had snacks since then."

Jury Deadlocks In Trial Of Suit

LISBON — A Common Pleas Court jury of four men and eight women deadlocked six-to-six in the trial of the Humes Truck & Trailer Manufacturing Co. of Steubenville against the Salineville Feed & Supply Co. Friday afternoon.

Humes claimed that in 1955 it contracted to fix a truck belonging to the feed company so it could haul a heavier load, and that the company still owes $400.

The feed firm countered that the job was not satisfactory and asked $1,323 for loss of service of the truck.

The trial began Wednesday before Judge Joel H. Sharp, who excused the jurors after they told him they couldn't reach a verdict.

Man's Trial Set In Robbery Try

Trial was set Sept. 17 at 9:30 a.m. for Michael Anthony Pochiro, 26, of Youngstown, when the defendant was arraigned Friday in Hancock County Circuit Court in New Cumberland.

Pochiro pleaded innocent to an indictment returned by the April Grand Jury, charging attempted armed robbery of James Bournais of Weirton Feb. 14.

In setting Pochiro's trial date, Judge Ralph E. Pryor overruled a demurrer filed on the defendant's behalf by Atty. William Moore.

Arguments on the demurrer were heard in Circuit Court May 3 and Judge Pryor granted County Prosecutor Floyd R. Tarr and Atty. Moore additional time.

Pochiro was arrested Feb. 14 by Weirton police, who said he attempted to rob Bournais, owner of the People's Restaurant, at the victim's garage. Pochiro suffered a broken ankle in a fall on ice as he attempted to flee the scene, police said. He was released on $10,000 bond.

Cartoonist Claimed

Euclid Man Pleads Guilty To Defrauding

CLEVELAND (AP)—Wilbur H. Ficken, 45, of South Euclid, pleaded guilty in U. S. District Court Friday to charges of defrauding customers of more than $200,000 while employed as a salesman for two Cleveland brokerage houses.

Judge James C. Connell deferred sentence pending a probation report. Ficken pleaded guilty to 17 counts of a federal indictment returned last Dec. 10. The indictment originally contained 28 counts, but 11 were dropped.

Man Reveals Brutality In Racial Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — A white man has told a committee headed by Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt that police tortured him with an electric probe after he tried to help evicted Negro sharecroppers in Tennessee.

The account, related by Eric Weinberger, 30, of Norwich, Conn., was one of a number of reports of police brutalities, harassments and jailings the committee heard Friday from Negro and white persons who demonstrated for civil rights in the South.

Mrs. Roosevelt organized the group, which describes itself as a committee of inquiry. It has staff help from the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE), which sponsored the "freedom rides" throughout the South.

The group said the purpose of the hearings, held in the community room of the Washington Post, was to put the stories before the public so that some action might be taken.

Committee members include Norman Thomas, author and a leader of the Socialist Party; Roger Baldwin, founder of the American Civil Liberties Union; John Culbertson, Greenville, S.C., lawyer; Joseph L. Rauh Jr., vice chairman of Americans for Democratic Action; Telford Taylor, author and lawyer, and Dr. Kenneth Clark, psychologist.

Among the persons appearing before the committee were freedom riders, sit-in demonstrators and students.

Some criticized what they termed lack of action by the FBI, unfavorable decisions by federal courts in the South and failure of local police to protect civil rights demonstrators.

Weinberger alleged that police held him without charge for 72 hours while he was in Brownsville, Tenn., teaching unemployed sharecroppers how to earn money by making leather tote bags. He said the sharecroppers were evicted after they tried to register to vote and he went to try to help them.

He said he was forced to spend a night in jail, beaten, and his hand painfully hurt by a wrist clamp used to force him to submit to fingerprinting. He said he refused to permit himself to be fingerprinted because of what he termed the injustice of the proceedings.

He said his fingers were bent back, pants slashed and he was jabbed with what he described as a high voltage electric probe usually used on cattle to move them in stockyards. "A painful sensation," he said.

Court Penalizes 4 Young Drivers

LISBON — Traffic court hearings at the Courthouse have resulted in the suspension of driving permits of two motorists and the fining of two others.

The licenses of Gerald F. Chestnut, 16, of Lisbon R.D. 4, was suspended 15 days for a stop sign violation, and that of Ronald Lee Hall, 17, of Leetonia R.D. 2, was suspended 15 days for speeding.

Marcy A. Chestnut, 16, of Glenmoor, was fined $20 for driving a motor scooter without a driver's license. The scooter was impounded for 60 days by the court.

Gregg Deemer, 17, of Lisbon R.D. 5, was fined $10 for crossing a yellow line in a hazardous zone. All were cited by the State Highway Patrol.

College Joes More Romantic Than Janes

GRANVILLE, Ohio (AP) — That sparkling college coed who moons over the poetry books or stares enraptured at the movie screen isn't as romantically inclined as her male counterpart.

According to a survey completed by Denison University sociologist Dr. Dwight Dean, freshmen men were found to be more emotional than freshmen women.

The study also concluded that college men and women whose fathers' occupation were relatively low in status were found to be more romantically inclined than those whose fathers had a high-status occupation.

Judge To Speak For Cumberland Memorial Event

NEW CUMBERLAND — Judge Ralph E. Pryor of the 1st Judicial Circuit will be principal speaker for the community's annual Memorial Day service Wednesday.

The Wellsburg jurist will speak at 11 a.m. at New Cumberland Cemetery in a program sponsored by VFW Post 3526.

The program will open with a brief service at 10 a.m. at the post home where officers will place a wreath at a monument.

With the high school band in the lead, the procession will move to the War Memorial on Court St. where the auxiliary will place a wreath. The main service will follow at the cemetery.

The band will play several selections and a VFW firing squad will sound a salute.

John Paul Jones will be master of ceremonies. Local ministers will participate. Ike Hill and Joe Burskey are co-chairman. Jake Baxter is commander of Post 3526.

Judge Pryor served with the 8th Air Force as a bombardier in the European Theater during World War II. He was wounded while flying over Germany. He is a retired officer of the Air Force.

Four Killed In Algerian Bomb Blast

ALGIERS (AP)—A time bomb planted in a pickup truck exploded on the Algiers waterfront today killing at least four persons and wounding a half dozen. One European perished, but all the other victims were Moslems, police said.

Hundreds of screaming Moslems surged out of the nearby Casbah at the sound of the blast, bringing members of the newly-formed Moslem police force on the run to head off a riot.

Fire engines and ambulances rushed to the scene, but most of the ambulances returned empty. Moslems generally refuse to let European - manned ambulances transport their wounded or allow European hospitals to treat them.

Stretcher bearers of the National Liberation Front (FLN) carried the wounded to a first aid point in the Casbah several hundred yards away from the waterfront.

Calm was restored in the area half an hour after the blast.

In other terrorist action today, 15 plastic bombs exploded almost simultaneously in the suburb of Maison Carree, shattering Moslem-owned stores and other property. No one was reported injured.

Laundromat Looted Of $30 At Palestine

EAST PALESTINE — Police today were investigating the theft of $30.50 in dimes from a coin changer machine at the Launderama on E. Rebekah St.

Officers said Nick Ieropoli of Lisbon, the owner, reported Friday that someone used slugs to clean out the machine between midnight Wednesday and midnight Thursday.

There were 61 slugs in the machine. The business is open 24 hours daily.

Hannah Loses Top AFL-CIO Post To Kane

CLEVELAND (AP)—Phil Hannah, one of Ohio's top three or four labor leaders for 20 years, was out of his $16,000-a-year job as president of the Ohio AFL-CIO today and "ready to take a rest."

In the presidency for a two-year term is red - haired David Kane, 39, who for three years has been business agent of the 1,500-member Bookbinders Local 199 of Dayton.

Only on the morning before Thursday night's election—the results of which were announced late Friday—did Kane go on the slate of Secretary-treasurer Elmer F. Cope to oppose Hannah. Kane defeated Hannah 2,341 to 2,284, with 50 votes going to a third candidate, Thomas E. Fenton of Warren Steelworkers Local 1375.

Cope beat Morris Riger of Cleveland 2,916 to 1,852 for the $16,000-a-year secretary - treasurer's job.

Hannah and Cope, both 58, held the top offices in the Ohio AFL-CIO since the merged organization was formed in May 1958. They parted ways in this convention over an ambitious program of political education for unionists in Ohio. The plan, labeled "Blueprint for Victory," called for raising $216,000 a year through an increase of per capita payments from five to eight cents to finance appointment of eight salaried district directors of political education.

Confidence Begets Confidence

Henry Ford II took a deep breath at the Ford Co.'s stockholders meeting last week and said the Kennedy administration was undermining business confidence by meddling in economic decisions. The chairman of the board of one of the nation's greatest producers of wealth was concerned. Many businessmen are accusing government of rocking the economic boat.

The chief spokesman for the Kennedy administration, speaking to the White House Conference on National Issues, was in no mood last week to accept blame for lack of business confidence. President Kennedy declared:

"I would like to say a word about the difference between myth and reality. Most of us are conditioned for many years to have a political viewpoint — Republican or Democratic, liberal, conservative or moderate. The fact of the matter is that most of the problems we now face are technical. They are administrative problems. They are very sophisticated judgments which do not lend themselves to the great sort of passionate movements which have stirred this country so often in the past."

THIS CAME very close to saying that politics — which clearly is one kind of "passionate movement" — is not a prime factor in the kind of sophisticated business judgments Mr. Kennedy had in mind.

It came close to saying businessmen don't know what they are talking about when they blame the Kennedy administration for business uncertainty.

It says technical causes underlie business uncertainty and if these were cleared away it wouldn't matter what a Democratic president said that rattled the composure of Republican businessmen.

The fact is, nevertheless, that businessmen point to politics when business lags. Perhaps this is because politicians so eagerly claim credit when business booms. It seems only fair to blame them, when it bursts.

No businessman would argue that confidence is caused by some mechanistic miracle that takes place regardless of the political climate.

It is more reasonable to believe that confidence grows out of emotional judgment about things; that President Kennedy's myth is the only reality.

MR. KENNEDY, commenting on the slump in stock market prices last week, predicted the market would follow the economy upward and said the economy was showing every sign of being about to move upward. Was he discussing myth or reality?

Under the mechanistic theory of business—the theory that says if all indications point to something — nothing else can happen, the stock market was overdue for an adjustment. Can Mr. Kennedy talk it out of it?

Here again the doubting Thomas of a mechanistic business world is impelled to say that President Kennedy's attitude will have more to do with stimulating the economy than all the indexes and statistics.

The United States never has had an official attitude on what makes businessmen tick. It alternately harasses them and pampers them and consistently taxes them until their eyes pop — penalizing them for success but never tempering the wind to the shorn lambs.

It browbeats them until they are reeling, then castigates them for not standing tall and acting like heroes.

It puts the bloodhounds on them, throws them to the wolves, ties them to the tracks with the 8:10 due, then wonders what causes them to be afraid of their government.

IT TELLS THEM to hold down prices and encourages the unions to jack up wages.

It talks about the evils of inflation and stimulates inflation by its own policy of spending more than it dares to think it could collect even if it had that much political courage.

Whatever it is that makes businessmen tick may be too complex to decide. It's easier to find out what causes businessmen not to tick. It's because they have run down. No one has taken the time and trouble to wind them up. must be fussed with and given tender loving care.

They must be given something to tick with.

Henry Ford thinks they need confidence.

John Kennedy thinks they need reality.

We think the greatest reality right now would be for Mr. Kennedy to prove he has confidence in business, so it can have confidence in him.

The Men Inside The Capsules

Astronaut Malcolm Scott Carpenter may reveal the answers to some of the questions space scientists have been asking about the effect of orbital flight on the men inside the space capsules.

Besides more information about the capsules themselves, space scientists have learned for the first time that even the most carefully selected and highly trained astronaut can become confused in the course of this awesome adventure.

Carpenter says he is eager to travel in space again. He presumably will have his chance, as will astronauts Shepard, Grissom and Glenn. These men have not gone into the space program with the idea that each will be entitled to only one trip into space. They are engrossed in it. They want to go as far as they can, no matter how many additional astronauts are chosen and trained.

Cmdr. Carpenter's experience in his three orbits suggests, even before an official evaluation of his medical report, that various men are going to react in various ways to the experience. This is not unexpected. It is not unusual. Airplane pilots, even automobile drivers show varying reactions from the same experiences. When it is considered that only a few dozen men in the auto racing profession ever qualify for the 500-mile race at the Indianapolis Speedway, it is not to be expected that all astronauts will react the same way to multiple trips around the earth or to moon shots when they are attempted.

It is possible that some of Carpenter's manifestations of fatigue will be traced to faulty instrumentation. But it is possible, too, that Col. Glenn's vitality and presence of mind during his orbital experience are not going to be duplicated easily by the this unearthly adventure.

The Once Over

Prominent doctor, medical schoolteacher and health officer, Dr. Herbert Ratner, says America is most over-medicated, over-inoculated country on earth.

"We are a pill-swallowing nation and impose lifesaving drugs and techniques on minor trivial and even imaginary illnesses, and modern hospital is highly misused, with 20 to 40 per cent of beds occupied needlessly," he declares.

He ain't whistling "Dixie." People build homes around medicine cabinets. First thing many folks do is to say, "Let's decide first of all the size and shape of medicine cabinet. We must have adequate pill and capsule capacity."

"Modern man in hectic age could solve many troubles by proper diet and horse sense, but he thinks everything depends on prescriptions, injections, tablets and assorted medicines in choice of colors.

A drugstore in the right spot is a goldmine. Doctor used to be called only when somebody was flat on his back. Hospitals were a last resort.

Pioneers went to one only for three or more bullet holes or wounds from a grizzly bear. Grandpa had to be trampled on by a horse before he would get into an ambulance. He would fight the attendants all the way. Nobody knows what grandma went through before she would visit family doctor.

The kids got onion poultices, flaxseed bags, home-bandages and orders to stay in bed and keep quiet. Today doctors' offices are as crowded as railroad stations. Most patients look in better shape than the overworked, overburdened and exhausted physician.

A doctor's office is often staffed with a secretary, an inner guard and an outer guard, al for his own protection. Specialists are busting out all over, and you may have to wait longer to get an appointment with him than to get a ticket to a world series.

Hospitals are vastly overcrowded. The nurse shortage is shocking. The entire staff from clerical workers to top physicians in some hospitals is so overburdened, many of them seem closer to collapse than patients.

Dr. Ratner says "Many people with hospital insurance have been paying so long they are anxious to get their money back and will go to hospital for all sorts of things." They look at their Blue Cross bills and say, "I've got to get sick soon to get even." But it's all a part of the pace of modern life. Tough feature is that if you manage to get your mind off your own aches, you tune into TV and get a Dr. Kildare program.

THIS IS WEEK marking 40th anniversary of airplane epic that moved all Americans as few things in history. It was Lindbergh's flight across the Atlantic from New York to Paris. He was 25 years old, looked like a teen-ager, and was known only as an airmail pilot.

Huge tri-motored planes costing vast sums were on the field for the first attempt to cross ocean when "Slim," as many called him, rolled in aboard a single-engine "crate" without radio or sextant. Morning dawned under conditions that kept big and costly planes from moving, but Lindy climbed into the "Spirit of St. Louis" and was off.

People paid little attention to anything else. Few men were ever prayed for so fervently by so many. He was given little chance, and when the flash came that he had made it safely, what a sign of relief went up everywhere!

Today with thousands crossing the ocean daily in huge planes in comfort, we wonder how many give a thought to "Slim" Lindbergh making it alone, without a crew, mostly by dead reckoning.

Shoot The Works?

Near Crisis Settled At Cape

By Victor Riesel

There is an unsung, unreported band of men at Cape Canaveral, a hundred strong, who also helped make the man-shoot more than just a fireworks display.

Victor Riesel

They are the eyes of the space scientists. They are the special personal motion picture cameramen of each astronaut. They are the electronically swift pictorial biographers of every second of the life of Glenn's MA-6 or the Aurora 7 — the rockets which are flying laboratories with man enclosed, hurtling through empty space in which there is no platform yet for observation.

These hundred men — members of a union which is better known for shooting "Breakfast At Tiffany's" than shooting at the stars — have never struck or created serious crises at the Cape or any other space base or missile site.

Generally obscured by electrical workers, machinists, pipefitters and carpenters, they are members of Local 666 of New York, Chicago and Hollywood's International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes and Moving Picture Operators (IATSE).

For several reasons I take them now out of their "obscurity."

First they are the sensitive artisans who operate the IGOR and the ROTI. IGOR is the Tracking Telescope Instrument Optical Recorder. ROTI is the Recording Optical Tracking Instrument.

These are instruments which provide photographic "memories" of events on missile flights occuring beyond "seeing" limits of shorter focal length motion picture systems.

THE IGOR and the ROTI monitor stage-ignition, flame characteristics, structural failures, roll-pitch-and-yaw data and inospheric phenomena. On what those intricate cameras, tenderly handled and set up before the man-shoot, discover may rest the lives of the John Glenns and Scott Carpenters of the future.

These photographers are part of a team — all of whom are LATSE members. After the IGOR and ROTI films are safely back, after the cameramen have returned from helicopters reconnoitering offshore, after "LARC" amphibious teams return from the beaches, the boondocks, the down range and island stations, the non-photographers of the team take over.

The latter are scientists of a special sort — though members of the stage and motion picture union. They do the original interpretation of the huge mass of movie and still films.

They must know the meaning of a smear of light or a speck on a "pix." They must know what to send along swiftly to one or another of the specialists waiting in National Aeronautics and Space Administration NASA basic analysis offices.

THESE FILMS contain everything from recordings of the pre-shoot health and actions of the astronaut to the moments which drag through the tension from the shift of the gantry to the blast-off and on to the recovery.

Most of the photographic and first stage analysis teams are younger men. They have moved into a hectic world. Their young families have suddenly been hurled into a gold rush, boom-type community.

There are irritations. Schools are scarce and jammed. Places of worship are distant. Prices are high. Plumbing breaks down.

So do tempers. Then develop the IATSE men are employed by the Radio Corporation of America (RCA). The company finds itself in as difficult a community operation as do the union men. Grievances flare on the supervisor-employe level.

Under such tensions the "stage hands" and RCA began negotiating a new contract some time ago.

BOTH SIDES agreed to start long before the contract expiration date. Good. Because a near crisis developed. So about a month ago, IATSE national president Richard Walsh flew down from his headquarters.

He sat alongside the Local 666 leaders. He knew his peoples' grievances — the boom-cost of living, the sitting around for two or three days during the countdowns, the tensions involved in helping to put a man into space, a man who may eternally orbit the earth if something goes wrong.

Dick Walsh also knew the RCA problems, NASA's complexities, and the possible impact of hot negotiations at the Cape on the cold war outside.

Finally he helped bring all sides together — in a marathon bargaining session for three days and three nights virtually without sleep. A contract was signed. He was exhausted. But instead of flying back, he took the pact to the rank and file and won their approval.

He did more than settle a crisis on a space and missile base. By getting to the grassroots he set a precedent. The country should know of it.

Muskrats Ramble

The muskrat is a public enemy in Holland and a nuisance in much of the United States.

Though a native of North America, the tenacious animal easily adapts to new countries. The muskrat prefers marshland, but makes itself at home anywhere that grassy vegetation meets fresh water.

Introduced into Bohemia in 1905, the muskrat spread rapidly over most of central Europe, Holland, Belgium and eastern France.

The Dutch have put a price on the muskrat's head because its burrowing undermines their vital dikes. In Belgium, muskrats bored holes in the banks of a major ship canal The water drained, leaving 25 vessels stranded in mud.

The muskrat's relentless digging also endangers railroad embankments, earth dams, farm ponds, irrigation projects and fish hatcheries.

The little creatures caused widespread highway damage in Iowa by digging around drainage culverts. Roadways sank into the muskrat dens. Wire screening and planks around the outlets failed to discourage the rodents.

War On Conservatives

By David Lawrence

Kennedy Seeks To Weaken Opposition Bloc

President Kennedy has launched the 1962 congressional campaign with a declaration of war on the conservatives in his party. He has asked the voters in Northern states particularly to elect Democrats in the place of any Republicans, whether or not they happen to be conservatives.

David Lawrence

The significance of this move has not yet been sensed even in the political arena. But it means that the coalition of Republicans and Democrats, which for the last 25 years has saved America from radicalism and socialism, is to be broken down if the President his his way.

Two speeches within the last six days by Mr. Kennedy emphasize his attitude toward the existing coalition. He said, for instance, to the 1962 Campaign Conference for Democratic Women at a meeting on the White House lawn a few days ago:

"Nearly every issue which comes before the House and Senate today is settled by one vote, one way or the other. Congressman Boggs, on the trade bill — the trade bill in the Ways and Means Committee was settled in our favor by one vote. We lost the agriculture bill in the Senate —Agriculture Committee on which Sen. Humphrey sits—by one vote. We passed it in the House of Representatives, out of the Agricultural Committee, by one vote."

Just before the above speech, Mr. Kennedy told a Democratic party rally in Madison Square Garden that the coalition — or "balance of power," as he calls it — must be defeated. He said:

"The fact of the matter is, since the loss in 1938 — Franklin Roosevelt's second term when the Democrats lost so many seats — there has been a balance of power in the House and Senate which has made it very difficult to pass any new legislation which involves important interests. . . .

"What we are now talking about is whether the United States, now and after the 1962 election, shall have such a balance of power in the congress and in the executive that nothing will be done. That's the simple and clear issue. And those who think that nothing should be done, should regard this as an unimportant election.

"But as long as we have so many issues facing us in so many parts of the world, and our own country — so much unfinished business involving all kinds of issues which go to the well-being of our people — as long as we have a necessity for action as the leader of the free world, I believe we should have the opportunity and not have the kind of balance in the Congress which will mean two—many more years of inertia and inaction. That's why this is an important election. Five, 10 seats one way or another can vitally affect the balance of power in the Congress and vitally affect our future."

THE PRESIDENT denies that he himself is seeking any more power. He says that this idea is "the oldest old political argument" and that people "should know and realize that the power given to the president of the United States, under the Constitution, particularly that of war and peace, is as great a power and in many senses more than man could possibly desire."

The above quotations are taken verbatim from the White House transcript covering Mr. Kennedy's extemporaneous remarks. The topic would seem to have been important enough for embodiment in a prepared address but an impromptu speech often reveals the innermost thoughts of the speaker. In this case, it is evident that the President is concerned about the balance of power against him in Congress and seeks a free hand.

Few presidents have gone as far without law to regulate the economy and social life of the nation of executive orders as has Mr. Kennedy. He realizes that the only check could come from Congress. He has today virtually a two-thirds majority of his party in both houses of Congress. But this, in his opinion, isn't enough.

It is a shaky majority because the non-radicals and non-socialists do frequently break away from party lines.

The mention of "war and peace" and "leader of the free world" in the context of political speech-making is somewhat puzzling. For Republicans and Democrats in Congress, whether or not they are conservatives, have generally supported the president on international policies for many years, irrespective of the party affiliation of the man in the White House.

THE REAL ISSUES are on the domestic side. Mr. Kennedy wants enough non-conservatives elected on the Democratic ticket for Congress in the North to cancel out the power and influence of the conservative Democrats of the South and perhaps even to take away their committee chairmanships if they fail to join the "rubber stamp" contingent and go along with presidential edicts.

Many Republican voters in the North doubtless will be thinking of participating in the Democratic primaries to join with other conservatives to defeat radical and socialistic candidates aspiring for a Democratic party nomination.

Mr. Kennedy seems to have flung a new challenge into the congressional elections of 1962.

Victory In World War II

By Truman Twill

Sometimes I remember when I helped to win World War with a Victory Garden.

I helped win World War I too, but we don't mention that.

Never was there a more meticulous gardener. Everything was just so. What it added up to was an invitation to dogs, cats and kids to make a mess of it. My immaculate seed beds and geometrically perfect layouts were as tempting as fresh concrete.

This was when we lived in town. Our garden was tiny, compared with the space we keep under cultivation in Rosy Fingered Dawn. And the space we have under cultivation now is only 20 per cent of what we started with 12 years ago.

Something happened. It happened to a lot of people before it happened to me. I learned how to get what I want out of gardening without putting into it more time and effort than I can afford.

Except for a few things that require no special preparation, I have given up on seeds. Because I have a pact with the vegetable growers that I will grow no vegetables if they will write no newspaper articles, I no longer pretend to be a truck gardener either.

That narrows it down to flowers.

And the flowers have been narrowed down to plants raised commercially by experts. This necessitates an outlay of money, but in terms of results it proves satisfactory because you get what you set out to get, which is more than I ever got from seeds.

If I had assigned a value of as little as 20 cents to the labor I performed as a seed gardener and added to that the complete and partial losses sustained in torrential rains, raids by birds and destruction by dogs, which have a powerful affinity for loose dirt, the total wouldn't be far off the total cost of buying plants.

No seed beds are needed. It is feasible to set out the plants in holes dug in beds that have been cleared of last year's debris, including such noxious weeds as thistles that have come up through the mulch.

We aren't carrying on a mulch gardening project at the Twillery, because that can get to be a fetish in itself, but we are taking advantage of the fact soil stays softer, wetter and cooler when covered with something that keeps it from baking, leaching and eroding in direct sunlight and rainfall.

So what if we don't have the most neatly laid-out flowerbeds, the most beautiful flowers and the most eye-popping assortment? No one anywhere has more to show for time expended.

By holding the temptation of loose dirt to a minimum, the dogs' damage has been made negligible. It maddens people who go berserk over dog damage to realize I am reconciled to it, but that's the way I feel.

Dogs like to dig. All our dogs are diggers except the oldest one; she has given up digging for the twilight years. The other two bury tin cans, bones and dig for the fun of it. But they're less likely to dig if nothing prompts them to think about it. Like loose dirt, for example.

That's the way it is with gardening at the Twillery. It's never going to be any other way. It has been a long time since Victory Gardens and if some o. ... were no smarter now than we were then this country would be in even worse shape than our reigning stoopids have put it in.

Area Drivers Get Penalties

Three city area motorists were penalized on traffic charges at hearings Thursday before County Judge Herbert Arfman at East Palestine, while a fourth was acquitted.

Floyd D. Tweed, 125 W. 3rd St., was fined $10—with the fine suspended—and costs for failure to stop in the assured clear distance.

Jean Butler of Oakmont Ave. was fined $10 and costs for failure to yield the right-of-way. Charlotte Smith of R. D. 1 forfeited a $15 appearance bond on a speeding charge.

A muffler violation charge against Carl Irwin Hoppel of R. D. 3 was dismissed after the judge inspected the motorcycle and muffler concerning which the Ohio Highway Patrol had filed the charge.

Lawrence McLaughlin of Rogers R. D. 1 was fined $10 and costs for driving left of center.

A $15 fine against Mrs. C. J. Cetto of East Palestine R. D. 2, charged with permitting a dog to run at large, was suspended on condition she control the pet.

40 Sign Petitions For Annexation In East Palestine

EAST PALESTINE—Forty residents of areas north of the city signed petitions to have their property become annexed to the city at a public meeting Thursday night.

About 60 attended the meeting at which the proposed annexation move was aired by county officials and spokesmen for the residents of the area, site of a water pollution problem.

Atty. Barry Dickson said about 125 signatures are required for petitions to the county commissioners to have the area released from Unity Township and merged with East Palestine in a move to create an enlarged sewage district.

Commissioners Walter Hunston and Galen Greenisen said the annexation is the only alternative to construction of a sewage plant for the area, where conditions have resulted in a law suit concerning claimed pollution.

Program Details Set For Monday Chamber Dinner

Final details were announced today for the annual spring membership meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Monday night at 6:30 at the Country Club.

Alvin T. Babb, president, will conduct the meeting and introduce the speaker, Herschel C. Atkinson of Columbus, executive vice president of the Ohio Chamber.

Invocation will be by John Mostoller, minister of the First Church of Christ. George A. Shaw, chairman of the membership committee, will introduce the new members enrolled in a recent campaign. City officials and members of Council will be guests.

Atkinson's address on local Chamber work will follow a buffet dinner. A newspaperman for many years, he has served in the Ohio Chamber post 17 years.

The banquet committee comprised of John Pinney, chairman, Ralph A. Finley, Standley T. Hilbert, Robert Miller, Winston A. Porter and James H. Riggs, is in charge of the program.

New Trial Denied 3 Guilty On Numbers

WHEELING (AP) — District Court Judge Charles F. Paul Friday denied a motion for a new trial for three men convicted of violating federal laws by operating a numbers racket.

He set June 15 for sentencing of Anthony J. Zambito of Wheeling, James J. Rogerson of Martins Ferry, Ohio, and Arthur C. Hale of Blaine, Ohio.

They were tried with three others following a raid last Dec. 13 on a Wheeling tavern. A jury found the three guilty May 8.

June 15 also was set for sentencing of Paul Hankish and Pasquale DiCesare, both of Wheeling. Hankish was found guilty May 10 of a misdemeanor of failing to buy a federal gambling stamp. DiCesare pleaded guilty to one of four counts of income tax evasion.

Mr., Mrs. Glenn Shelton Home After Wedding Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Edwin Shelton have returned from a honeymoon in Florida and are receiving friends in a newly-furnished apartment on Chester Ave., following their marriage the afternoon of May 5 at 2:30 o'clock at the Trinity United Presbyterian Church.

The bride was Miss Helen (Dollie) Vishak, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Vishak Jr. of the Cannons Mill Rd., and her husband's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Samuel T. Shelton of Cannons Mills.

The Rev. H. Gene Toot, associate minister, officiated for the double-ring ceremony before an altar background of palms, ferns, white flowers and seven - branch candelabra.

Satin bows marked the family pews. Mrs. Jessie Hall Kaufman presented a half-hour of wedding music. Howard Claypool sang "O Perfect Love" and "The Wedding Benediction." Jack and Steve, brothers of the bride, were acolytes.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of crystal peau de soie. The fitted bodice was fashioned with a scalloped Sabrina neckline, trimmed with seed pearls, and long, pointed sleeves. The bouffant skirt was accented with a bustle effect which flowed into a chapel train.

Her fingertip veil of imported silk illusion was attached to a queen's crown of sequins and pearls. She carried a white Bible topped with an arrangement of white orchids, stephanotis and satin streamers. Observing the traditions, she carried the blue-trimmed handkerchief of her grandmother, Mrs. John Vishak, and a sixpence in her shoe.

Mrs. Jeanne Vishak, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a waltz-length dress of blue crystal peau de soie, designed with a cowl neckline, cap sleeves and a self fabric bow accenting the front waist. An overskirt of dacron organza completed the effect. Her matching pillbox held a theater veil. She wore satin shoes, dyed to match, and carried a crescent-shaped arrangement of tinted blue carnations and stephanotis tied with satin streamers.

Bridesmaids were Miss Davee Lou Beadle, Mrs. Bonnie Burdick, sister of the bridegroom, Mrs. Betty Shelton, his sister-in-law, and Miss Grace Kellogg. They wore costumes identical to that of the maid of honor, except in pink. Their bouquets featured pink carnations. Gifts from the bride were single - strand pearl necklaces with matching teardrop earrings.

Mary Kathryn Kormendi of Rice's Landing, Pa., cousin of the bride, and Vicki Pyle were flower girls. They wore white dresses and lace bonnets and carried baskets of flower petals. Steven Shelton, nephew of the bridegroom, was ringbearer.

Denver Shelton served as his brother's best man. Ushers were James Burdick, Jack Thompson, William Wingett and Samuel Heaton. They received wallets from the bridegroom.

MRS. GLENN SHELTON
She Was Helen Vishak.

The mother of the bride chose a sheath of blue brocade with matching shoes and hat and crystal accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a beige lace sheath with pink accessories and shoes. Pink rosebud corsages complemented their attire.

Mrs. Elizabeth Kormendi and Mrs. John Vishak, grandmothers of the bride, wore lilac and Navy ensembles, respectively, with matching accessories and white carnation corsages.

A reception for 150 was held in the social rooms under the supervision of the Amikitia Class. The buffet table was centered with a three-tier cake, topped with a miniature bridal couple and encircled with greenery. White milkglass appointments and pink maline completed the setting. Bridal tapers highlighted the bride's table.

Miss Audrey Springer presided at the guest register and Miss Evelyn Bryson cut the cake. A buffet dinner was served 200 in the evening at the home of the bride's parents.

Out-of-town guests were from Mather, Crucible, Richeyville, Rice's Landing, Midland, New Castle, Canton, Poland, Cleveland, Kensington and Hubbard.

The parents of the bridegroom entertained for the rehearsal party.

For going away, the bride wore a gold-color dress with matching shoes and accessories, with Navy sheath coat and her bridal orchids.

The bride is a 1958 graduate of East Liverpool High School and was graduated from the IBM School of the Penn-Ohio University at Youngstown. She is employed in the office of the Columbiana County Finance Co.

Her husband was graduated from the school in 1953 and works for the Top Value Stamps Co. at Hubbard.

Senior Citizens Group Arranges Summer's Plans

Summer activities, including a bus trip, were discussed at a meeting of the East Liverpool Senior Citizens group Thursday afternoon at the VFW Hall. Sixty-three were present and three new members were welcomed.

The meeting was conducted by Mrs. Rozella Hickenbottom, advisor, in the absence of Marlow Russell, president, who is recovering from injuries received in a fall at his home.

The group also planned to hold a party June 7 instead of a picnic as announced previously. The affair will honor the Rev. Carl Beighley, pastor of the Calvary Methodist Church, who will be leaving this area for another charge in the near future. Rev. Beighley was instrumental in forming the citizens group.

Mrs. Grace McHenry, secretary, had roll call. Mrs. Hickenbottom led in the Lord's Prayer and flag salute.

Following business, members worked on the flower project.

A "walk-in" will feature Thursday's meeting.

Carpenter Deprived Of Radio By 'Goof'

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —Somebody's goof deprived astronaut Malcolm Scott Carpenter of a potential radio voice soon after he splashed into the sea in his Aurora 7 space capsule.

It was learned authoritatively that one of the rescue planes that flew over the area 130 miles northeast of Puerto Rico where Carpenter was floating, dropped a box supposedly containing a compact radio transmitting unit.

When Carpenter opened it he found only a battery.

Lack Of Evidence Nips Indictment In Rumored 'Fix'

WACO, Tex. (AP) — Chairman Charles Ballman said Friday night his Texas House Investigating Committee had not turned up sufficient evidence to get an indictment on rumored Southwest Conference basketball game fixing.

Ballman made the statement following the committee's third hearing in a probe of gambling and possible point shaving in conference basketball games.

However, he said, the committee had obtained evidence to turn over to grand juries for possible indictments against bookmaking and other gambling enterprises.

Two Southwest Conference referees told the committee that they had never rigged a basketball game in which they had officiated.

Mt. Pleasant Coach Due Painesville Post

MT. PLEASANT — Jack Cibulka has submitted his resignation as head basketball coach at Mt. Pleasant High School to accept a position as head basketball coach at Painesville, Ohio, Riverside High School.

Supt. Norman Sommers said applications for a successor would be accepted immediately. Cibulka guided the Mounties to a 15-3 record in 1960-61, and last year's team finished 16-2.

Cibulka will join several other former Jefferson County coaches at Painesville Riverside, including George Riser, former head football coach at Jefferson Union, head football coach at Riverside. His assistants are George Strailey, formerly of Dillonvale, Robert McFarren, formerly of Wintersville, and Frank (Jug) Gerard, formerly of Smithfield High.

Jockey Ycaza Gets 10-Day Suspension

BALTIMORE (AP)—Ten calendar days or 10 racing days. No matter how you look at it Jockey Manuel Ycaza probably has lost a chance to break into the big money in Memorial Day's $100,000 added Metropolitan Handicap at Aqueduct.

The Maryland State Racing Commission reduced Ycaza's suspension Friday from 10 racing days to 10 calendar days for his ride aboard Ridan in last Saturday's Preakness. The reduction came after Jockey Johnny Rotz, who piloted Greek Money to a nose decision over Ridan, told the commission Ycaza "didn't bother my riding one little bit."

LEGAL NOTICES

LEGAL NOTICE

Wanda L. Melott, whose present address is unknown, but whose last place of residence was 1015 Lisbon Street, East Liverpool, Ohio, will take notice that the Plaintiff, Maxwell A. Melott, has filed a Petition in the Court of Common Pleas, Columbiana County, Ohio, praying for a divorce from said Defendant on the grounds of gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty, and for custody and control of the minor children, and equitable relief, being Case No. 47797.

It is alleged in said Petition that the Defendant is seized in fee of an undivided half interest in the following described real estate:

Situated in the Townships of Washington and Wayne, County of Columbiana, and State of Ohio:

TRACT I

Being the following tract of land and known as and being part of the West half of the Northeast Quarter of Section No. 33, Township No. 13, (Washington Twp.), in Range 3, and being a part of the Southeast Quarter of Section No. 28, Township 13 (Wayne Twp.), in Range 3; and being more fully described as beginning at the northwest corner of the northeast quarter of said Section No. 33, Washington Twp.; thence south with the quarter section line 33.15 chains more or less, but to a point on the east and west half section line; thence east with the said half-section line 19.75 chains more or less but to a point being the southeast corner of the east half of the northeast quarter of said Section No. 33; thence north with the east line of the west half of the northeast quarter 630 feet more or less but to a point in the center line of State Route No. 164 as now located, said point being at Station 252 plus 00 as shown by road relocation plans (I.C.H. Sec. "B") of said S. R. No. 164 (See Volume 518, Page 519, Columbiana County Deed Records); thence northerly with the center line of said S. R. No. 164 and curving to the right with an arc having a radius of 5729.65 feet a distance of 669 feet to the P.C.C. Station 246 plus 31 in said center line of said road; thence further northerly with said center line and curving to the right with an arc having a radius of 11459.2 feet a distance of 979 feet to a point at Station 235 plus 52 on the north line of said Section No. 33, Washington Twp., and the south line of Section No. 28 of said Wayne Twp., said point being in the center line of S. R. No. 164 and being west 24.68 chains more or less from the southeast corner of said Section No. 28, thence continuing northerly with the center line of S. R. No. 164 with a curve to the right having a radius of 11459.2 feet, a distance of 481 feet but to P.C.C. Station 230 plus 71 in said centerline; thence further northerly with said center line and curving to the right with a radius of 5729.65 feet, a distance of 17 feet but to the north boundary of grantors lands at Station 230 plus 54 in said center line of said road; thence with Grantors north boundary line; west 14.446 chains more or less but to the quarter section line; thence with the quarter section line of Section No. 28, south 7.56 chains more or less, but to the south line of Section No. 28 Wayne Twp., and the north line of Section No. 33, Washington Township and place of beginning, containing 10.64 acres more or less in the southeast quarter of Section No. 28, Wayne Twp., and 58.22 acres more or less in the northeast quarter of Section No. 33, Washington Township, and subject to all legal highways.

Expecting and reserving from this conveyance all coal privileges in said premises as heretofore sold to F. M. Osborne and subject to the right of said Osborne and his assigns to mine and remove said coal as set forth in said deed to said Osborne; see Volume 547, Page 415.

Deed Reference: Volume 914, Page 432, Deed Records, Columbiana County, Ohio.

The following described premises situated in the City of East Liverpool, County of Columbiana and State of Ohio:

TRACT II

Known as and being a part of Section No. 24, Township No. 5, Range 1, and situated in what is known as the Pleasant Heights Land and Improvement Company's Addition to said City, and being more fully described as follows:

Commencing at a point in line with the dividing line between lots Numbers 22 and 23 in said addition, said point being North 5° 15' East 215 feet from the North West corner of the said Lot No. 23, thence parallel with Logan Street (formerly Summit Street) in said Addition, North 84° 45' West 160 feet to an iron pin and place of beginning of the tract herein described; thence continuing North 84° 45' West and parallel with the said Logan Street 120 feet to an iron pin; thence North 5° 15' East 29.41 feet to an iron pin; thence North 62° 40' East 146.37 feet to an iron pin; thence South 5° 15' West 113.77 feet to the place of beginning and containing 0.197 acres be the same more or less but subject to all legal highways.

Deed Reference: Volume 1058, Page 455, Deed Records, Columbiana County, Ohio.

The Plaintiff, Maxwell A. Melott, in his Petition, further prays that said above described real estate be appropriated and awarded to him as and for alimony.

Said Defendant, Wanda L. Melott, is hereby notified that said cause be for hearing on the 23rd day of June, 1962 at 10 o'clock A.M. or as soon thereafter as the Court may conveniently hear the same.

Service U.P. Memorial To Be On Sunday

The historic Service United Presbyterian Church in Raccoon Township will honor the memory of members of the nation's armed services at its traditional Memorial Day service Sunday at 2:30 p.m.

Following the service, the congregation will assemble at the John Anderson Memorial Cemetery for ceremonies at the memorial tablet bearing the names of the sons of the church who wore the country's uniform.

A wreath will be placed by Rollo Doughty and the flag will be lowered to half mast. Mrs. Daisy Belich, women's group president, will place a wreath at the granite shaft marking the grave of Dr. John Anderson, first pastor of the church, which was founded in 1794.

The cemetery contains the graves of 48 veterans of five wars from the Revolution to World War II. Each year these graves are marked and decorated with flags and flowers by the Aliquippa Memorial Day Association, of which Russell Smith is chairman.

The Rev. J. Daryl Davis of the Mt. Pleasant United Presbyterian Church will be the speaker, assisted by Dr. George Swetnam, pastor.

Music will be presented by Mrs. Jean Caler, soloist, and the Service Youth Choir under the direction of Mrs. Doughty, organist.

Honor guard will be Daniel Wynkoop for the Navy and Pfc. Paul Rogish, now stationed at Ft. Lee, Va. Sounding of taps will conclude the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Torrence of Raccoon Township are co-chairmen.

Confident Living

By Norman Vincent Peale

A Few People Can Change The World

A young woman felt deeply concerned about the state of the world today. The suburban community where she resided had fine houses and beautiful streets. She was happily married, well fixed financially, a popular member of the country club set and much admired for her fine game of golf. She was, you might say, on easy street.

DR. PEALE

But from her reading she was well aware that much was wrong with the world. Moreover, she had become increasingly uneasy about various goings-on right there in her own community, things that hardly would bear the light of day. She began thinking hard, which is a good thing to do, although quite unusual. And after much thinking she did something.

SHE DID NOT write a letter to her congressman. She did not go to the Women's Club and propose a resolution. She did something much more dynamic. She had a talk with her next door neighbor.

She said, "Mary, I know you are worried about the way things are in the world these days, same as I am. I feel we ought to do something about it. I've hesitated to suggest this, because you may think I'm being foolish and give me the laugh. But what do you say to our getting together once a month to pray for the world?"

Mary looked at her, startled and serious, taking the idea in. Then she answered, "Let's make it once a week."

So these two fashionable young women met regularly and prayed about the world. Soon they thought of others who might like to join them. Gradually they brought in Genevieve, Helen, Virginia, Frieda, Marguerite. Before long they had quite a prayer group.

Then one day after their prayers for the world one girl said, "I wonder if I can bring up something personal. As some of you know, there has been trouble between Jim and me." And she asked if there could be a moment of prayer for her and her husband. By this time praying together had brought these women into an atmosphere of mutual trust, respect and love.

The group prayed for the troubled couple and continued doing so until the rift in their marriage was healed. From then on they shared in prayer the personal problems of others in the group.

THEN SOME of the husbands joined the circle. And little by little the influence of this small dedicated fellowship permeated the whole community. A second prayer group formed, and a third. A new spiritual force had come into being, radiating in all directions.

The young matron who started all this demonstrates what I call the "Here am I — send me" kind of faith response. The expression is from the Book of Isaiah, which relates:

"In the year that King Uzziah died, I saw also the Lord sitting upon a throne, high and lifted up, and his train filled the temple. Above it stood the seraphims. And one cried unto another, and said, 'Holy, holy, holy, is the Lord of hosts: the whole earth is full of His glory.' "

So great was the impact of this vision that Isaiah had an overwhelming sense of his own unworthiness. He cried out, "Woe is me! for I am undone; because I am a man of unclean lips, and I dwell in the midst of a people of unclean lips...." But one of the seraphims took a live coal from the altar and touched it to the prophet's lips as a sign of spiritual cleansing.

The Isaiah heard the voice of the Lord saying, "Whom shall I send, and who will go for us?"

AND ISAIAH who had this vision and had been cleansed gave an answer worthy of a true child of God. He did not suggest that the Lord organize a convention and elect committees to issue pronouncements! He said simply: "Here am I. Send me."

The world today is much in need of men and women who will personally do something about wrong conditions.

These crises times call for people who will respond to challenges with a positive "Here am I — send me" and then wade in. Such people can bring about big changes in local situations. And that is not all. They thereby set in motion forces that make for corresponding changes in the world at large. It's still true that a few dedicated people can change the world.

Grace Church To Be Host For Memorial Sunday

The city's Memorial Sunday observances will be held tomorrow at the 11 a. m. services at the Grace United Presbyterian Church in East End.

Attending will be members of the American Legion Post 374 and Post 4 and auxiliaries, Ladies of the GAR, Daughters of America, Gold Star Mothers Chapter and Marine Corps, Army, Navy and Air Force representatives.

All except the gold star mothers will march. They will meet in front of the church.

The participants will assemble at Mulberry St. and Pennsylvania Ave. and parade to the church, led by the Salvation Army band.

The Rev. Edward J. Phinn, pastor and a wartime chaplain, will preach on the topic, "Supreme Sacrifice."

Rev. Phinn, who holds the rank of captain, served during World War II as an active combat chaplain for the 4th Canadian Anti-Tank Field Artillery with duty in France, Belgium and Germany. At the conclusion of the war, he remained for a year in Holland, serving as dean and instructor of the first Rehabilitation School set up on the continent for Canadian personnel. At one time, he was the only remaining chaplain on the field for 3,000 personnel of the Army.

Renewal Of Faith Termed Vital For America's Future

Unless there's a renewal of faith in God, the 20th Century may end on the story of America "as another experiment in freedom that failed because true freedom begins with faith in a supreme being," the Lions Club was warned Friday.

Addressing club members and their wives at the Travelers Hotel on "The Anatomy of Freedom," Frank L. Maus, director of management development of the Weirton Steel Co., declared:

"Freedom always has been and always will be based upon self-discipline imposed from within; and the power to impose the kind of self-discipline that produces and preserves freedom always has come and always will come from a source that is divine.

"The capacity to understand freedom and the courage to rise up in defense of freedom requires faith in God. The communists know this; that's why they try to destroy those institutions that preach faith in God.

"And if the communists understand the relationship between freedom and faith in God, why don't we?

Because there are few saints, Maus said the major problem is not to keep government from reducing the area of freedom in any degree but rather to keep the government from reducing freedom any more than is necessary to protect a citizen from damage by another citizen, by an outsider or by the agents of government itself."

Maus continued: "Freedom does not consist of compliance, willing or unwilling, with a set of man-made laws under the penalty of a fine or jail term; nor does it consist of having the 'gimmies' nor some so-called expert's idea of what constitutes a minimum standard of living.

"Freedom consists of a high sense of self-responsibility out of which comes self-generated compliance with a set of divine laws powered by a belief in the possibility of life eternal. It is the trust in God and not the Constitution that is the real warranty of freedom.

Maus was introduced by Clarence Wright, program chairman. Charles Herman, president, presided.

Dr. William Sulkes, co-chairman of the Installation Night dinner June 8 at the Country Club, reminded members reservations must be made by Friday.

Old Folks Back Medicare Plan Without Tax Money

WASHINGTON (AP) — An administration official said today an organization of old folks battling for enactment of President Kennedy's Social Security medical care plan is doing so without a cent of tax money.

The group is the National Council of Senior Citizens for Health Care through Social Security, a key force in the drive for the Kennedy program.

Council delegates wind up a two-day organizational convention today with a visit to the President and adoption of a constitution aimed at creating a permanent organization to work toward solution of problems facing the aged.

The American Medical Association, bitter foe of the plan to finance health care for the elderly under the Social Security system, has implied that the senior citizens council is getting tax funds to promote the legislation.

But Asst. Secretary of Welfare Wilbur Cohen said, "No tax money, no federal funds of any sort, are going to the National Council of Senior Citizens."

The council says all its funds have come through voluntary contributions made by elderly persons and others interested in the efforts of the organization.

The council, which estimates its membership at 600,000, does not deny it is closely coordinating its medical care drive with administration efforts to win enactment of the bill. Last Sunday, the council sponsored 33 rallies around the nation in support of the administration plan.

The bill, now before the House Ways and Means Committee, would boost the Social Security payroll tax one-fourth of 1 per cent, on both employer and employe, to finance hospital, nursing home and outpatient care for persons 65 or older. The measure would not pay doctors' bills.

The AMA charges the bill would unlock the door to socialized medicine in the United States.

Wayne And West Point Granges Set Joint Event

LISBON — The West Point and Wayne Granges will observe Rural Life Sunday at the West Point Grange Hall at 2:30 p. m. The program follows:

Call to worship, Sheryl Smith, West Point Starlighters' Girls 4-H Club; invocation; Evelyn Scharf, chaplain of West Point Grange; "The Lord is My Shepherd," Madison Presbyterian Church Choir, directed by Frank Hasson; Scripture reading, Mrs. John Hull, chaplain of Wayne Grange. Litany leaders, Lucille Possage, West Point Grange; "Sweeter as the Years go By," Wayne Grange trio, Mrs. John Ewing, Mrs. John Hull and Mrs. Clyde Eskew.

Message, "Developing More Effective Churches Together," Regis Scharf; ceremony of dedication, youth with seed, Phyllis McCulley, Gaverstown Valley Girls' 4-H Club; youth with water, Betty Lou Rowley, master of Wayne Juvenile Grange; youth with soil, Dennis Klembara of West Point Boy Scout Troop 15, and youth as the sower of the seed, Keith Shivers, Gaverstown, Hustlers 4-H Club.

Ushers will be members of the West Point Juvenile Grange and Miss Joyce Martin will be pianist.

Granges Set Rural Life Sunday Event

WEST POINT — "Rural Life Sunday" will be observed by the West Point and Wayne Granges with a special program and service tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 at the West Point Grange.

Regis Scharf will speak on "Developing More Effective Churches Together."

Sheryl Smith of the Starlighters 4-H Club will give the call to worship, Evelyn Scharf, Grange chaplain, will give the invocation, and the Madison Presbyterian Church choir, directed by Frank Hasson, will sing.

Mrs. John Hull, Wayne Grange chaplain, will have the Scripture lesson, and Lucille Possage, West Point Grange Pomona, will lead the litany.

A Wayne trio — Mrs. John Ewing, Mrs. Hull and Mrs. Clyde Eskew — will sing. A ceremony of deducation will be conducted by Phyllis McCulley, Betty Lou Rowley, Dennis Klembara and Keith Shivers. Joyce Martin will be pianist.

Series Slated By Witnesses

Special services open to the public will be conducted by the Jehovah's Witnesses Tuesday through June 3 at the local Kingdom Hall.

Louis Rylewicz of Brooklyn, international headquarters of the denomination, will discuss the educational program of the house-to-house ministry and Bible study activity of the group.

The speaker and his wife, who will accompany him, have spent many years in missionary work. They served for three years with the faculty and students of the Bible School of Gilead in upper New York state. Both have been active ministers since 1942. Rylewicz has served in supervisory capacities in the Dayton-Columbus area and attended the Watchtower Kingdom Ministry School in Brooklyn.

Rylewicz will discuss "Is This the World's Last Generation?" in his concluding talk June 3.

Church To Seek Building Funds

The New Hope Baptist Church, which holds its services at the East Junior High School, has launched a drive for a church building fund.

The committee is headed by the Rev. C. W. Goss, Ira Brown, deacon, and John Fitch, a trustee.

A musical program will be held Sunday at 3 p. m. at the school in observance of the anniversary of the Community Chorus of East Liverpool. Local and out-of-town talent will be featured.

Community Sing Set At Hookstown

The Hookstown Free Methodist Church will be host for the monthly community hymn sing for churches in Chester, Newell-Congo area, Hookstown, Georgetown and East Liverpool areas Sunday at 3 p.m.

Officers will be elected.

Mrs. Milo Smith is song leader and Mrs. Merle Scott pianist.

Cuyahoga County Sets Mass Immunization

CLEVELAND (AP)—More than 750,000 Cleveland area residents are expected to flock to centers throughout Cuyahoga County Sunday to launch a massive polio immunization program that will be carried on over a period of six Sundays.

By the time the program ends July 29, the Cleveland Academy of Medicine hopes a least 80 per cent of Cuyahoga County's 1.8 million residents will have taken doses of three types of Sabin oral polio vaccine. It is one of the largest such programs since the U.S. Public Health Service cleared the Sabin vaccine for use earlier this year.

Bible School Staff Named

Mrs. Laco Shreve, director of the Daily Vacation Bible School to be held in the Ohio View Lutheran Church, has announced teachers and assistants for crafts and lessons, as follow:

Mrs. Ronald Erath and Mrs. William Keagy, nursery; Mrs. William McComb and Mrs. Donald Leonberg, kindergarten; Mrs. Ray Boughner and Mrs. Ed Rowe and Mrs. John Kostelac, Junior I; Mrs. Ed Walker and Mrs. William Stiblo, Junior II; Mrs. Steven Hazy and Miss Carol Ann Brobeck, Junior High, and the pastor, James N. Servey, Senior High.

Classes will be held June 11-22 from 9:30 to 11:30 a. m. for youngsters beginning at age 3.

Mrs. Lee Albacker will be music director, Mrs. Harold Brobeck, pianist, and Miss Lynne Hazy, school secretary. Registration for those in ninth grade and older must be in by Sunday with the pastor.

Camp Lutherlyn days will be held June through August. Sunday School students, those in fourth grade and older, may obtain application blanks from the pastor.

Confirmation will be held in the church June 3.

Tentative plans are being made for a swimming party for senior Luther League members.

Superintendent Will Be Speaker

LISBON — The Rev. Chester G. Stanley of Damascus, general superintendent of the Ohio yearly Meeting of Friends, will be guest preacher at the 11 a. m. service Sunday of the Trinity Friends Church, west of Lisbon.

Supt. Stanley is a native of the East Goshen Friends Church area and was graduated from Damascus High School in 1918. He took his college work at Asbury College, Wilmore, Ky., and did graduate work at New York University and the Biblical Seminary in New York City.

He held pastorates in Ohio, Pennsylvania and Virginia and for the past 30 years has been a member of the Friends Foreign Missionary Board. He was board president for seven years and made two trips around the world visiting mission fields. He was appointed general superintendent of the Ohio Yearly Meeting in 1960.

Dr. Walter R. Williams of Damascus will be the guest Sunday School teacher. Former general superintendent of the Ohio Yearly Meeting, he also was professor of Bible at Malone College.

The Rev. Mark Headland is pastor of the local church.

Nazarene Bible Classes To Start

Vacation Bible School will open at the First Church of the Nazarene Monday at 6:30 p. m. and will continue nightly through June 8.

The sessions will be held from 6:30 to 8:30 p. m. with the exception of Memorial Day and Saturday.

The school will be under the direction of Mrs. Flora Hunton, assisted by teachers and helpers.

The program for parents and friends will be presented June 10 during Sunday School at 9:30 a.m.

New Lebanon Group To Hear Guest Friday

Mrs. D. F. Reynolds of Calcutta will be the speaker at a meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the New Lebanon congregation of the Beaver Valley United Presbyterian Larger Parish Friday at 8 p. m. Mrs. Reynolds' son, Dr. Dan Reynolds, is a medical missionary in Ethiopia.

Mrs. Reynolds will discuss "Medical Mission Work In Ethiopia," illustrated with colored slides.

Mrs. Roy Ewing of Lisbon R. D. 1 will be hostess.

The world's largest rolled earth-filled dam is the gigantic $300 million Garrison Dam, on the Missouri River, in west - central North Dakota.

Better Buys
By Bright
Two for one sale on 6th Avenue, LaCroft. That's what it amounts to because we have a nearly new 4 room and bath, one story home, in excellent condition plus a double garage and a 3 room and bath modern apartment upstairs. The apartment will make the most of the payments and the home will be hard to beat. Total price $12,000.00

We defy you to find a nicer kept 6 room and bath home for $9,500 than the one at 150 FAWCETT STREET. Nearly new gas furnace, completely redecorated, hardwood floors and wall to wall carpet. About a 12 x 30 ft. living room, quiet residential section. Convenient to town.

Another beautiful just finished 6 room home at Stagecoach Settlement and for the high quality of the home, the new low price is $15,200. It's a record. This home is COMPLETE. Hardwood floors, beautifully finished built-in range and graded lot, basement garage, 3 large bedrooms, big living and dining rooms. Before you build, let us show you this home.

Indians Win, Tie For Lead; Pirates Nose Out Colts, 4-3

Twins Defeated; Banks 'Beaned'

-American-

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Two of the big reasons it's such a cozy group at the top of the American League standings are:

1. A crafty old lefty.

2. A late-blooming veteran of eight minor leagues who's finally found a major league home at age 30.

Point No. 1 concerns Detroit's Don Mossi, who got tough when it counted, beat New York's defending world champions 5-4 Friday night and became the first lefthander to score over the Yankees this season.

Point No. 2 concerns Chuck Essegian of Cleveland, whose 12th homer of the season brought the Indians a 2-1 decision over Washington and pushed Cleveland into a share of the top spot.

With Los Angeles edging Kansas City 5-4; Baltimore taking Boston 9-5, and Chicago beating Minnesota 5-4 in the others, only four games separated the leaders and the seventh place Tigers.

Essegian, whose career reads like a travelogue, may have found himself steady employment for the first time in a 10-year career as the sparkplug of the Indians.

Stops along the way included tours of duty in the Pacific Coast League, the Western International, the California League, the Texas League, the Southern Association, the Northwest League, the International League and the Eastern League. He also had appearances with the St. Louis Cardinals, the Los Angeles Dodgers, Philadelphia Phillies, Baltimore and Kansas City before finally landing with the Indians.

His two hits Friday night pushed his batting average to .383, which put him in a tie with Kansas City's Manny Jimenez for the league lead.

The first was a double that set up Cleveland's first run and his homer made it 2-0, enough to offset Danny O'Connell's homer for the Senators and provide Pedro Ramos with his first victory of the year.

Mossi spread 11 hits about as well as possible and survived four Tiger errors in going the distance for the victory over the Yanks. He was in and out of trouble all evenings, but spiked the Yankee guns in the clutch, leaving 10 runners stranded.

The Tigers managed only five hits, but they included a three-run homer by Dick McAuliffe and a solo job by Chico Fernandez.

Leon Wagner bounced a single into center in the eighth and drove in Albie Pearson for the Angels' winning run against Kansas City, giving Jack Spring his third victory without a loss. Jimenez drove in two Kansas City runs on a double and his ninth homer.

Baltimore's victory over Boston was featured by Jim Gentile's two-run, 500-foot home run drive deep into the center field stands. It was Gentile's 13th and tied him for the league lead with Detroit's Al Kaline. Gentile drove in two more with a ninth inning single that iced the victory for Chuck Edwards.

A pair of triples by Al Smith and another by Nellie Fox accounted for three runs and were the big blows in Chicago's victory over Minnesota. It was the third straight loss for the third place Twins.

Beaver Public Nine Closes With 4-0 Mark

Beaver Local Public finished its baseball season with a 4-0 record after disposing of New Cumberland.

Rick Deiringer, a righthander, was the winning hurler as he gave up four hits.

The young Beavers scored single runs in the first, second and fifth frames and tallied twice in the third and fourth innings.

Allan Copestick, Bill Montooth and Arnold McLaughlin each belted doubles for the winners.

Murray was the losing pitcher, but blasted a home run.

Baseball's Friday jinx has struck again. The latest victim—Ernie Banks.

Banks, Chicago Cubs' homer hammerer, became the third top star hurt in a strange series of accidents on successive Friday nights when he was beaned and suffered a concussion during the Cubs' 2-1 loss to Cincinnati.

The 31-year-old infielder was knocked unconscious in the ninth inning when a pitch from Moe Drabowsky hit Banks just below his protective helmet. Ernie collapsed at the plate, was carried from the field on a stretcher and rushed to a hospital.

A spokesman at the hospital said examination showed the two-time National League most valuable player did not have a skull fracture. Banks was reported in fair condition and scheduled for further tests today.

Last Friday, Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees collapsed while running to first base and suffered a tear in a thigh muscle expected to sideline him for a month. The Friday before Minnie Minoso of St. Louis fractured his skull running into a fence while chasing a fly ball. He has been placed on the disabled list.

Meanwhile first-place San Francisco thumped Philadelphia 10-7, as Billy Pierce won his seventh without a loss, and remained 1½ games ahead of the Los Angeles Dodgers who clobbered the New York Mets 17-8. Hank Aaron drove in five runs with two homers and a double in Milwaukee's 11-8 victory over St. Louis and Pittsburgh edged Houston 4-3 in 13 innings.

Drabowsky (1-3), who allowed only five hits, was removed after he plunked Banks with the pitch and Bill Henry came on to get the final two outs. The Reds got only two hits off Cal Koonce (2-1) but Frank Robinson's two-run double in the fourth did the damage. The Cubs' run was George Altman's 10th homer.

Willie Mays and Orlando Cepeda each hit home run No. 14 to lead the Giants, although four unearned runs in the sixth contributed heavily to the Phils' loss. Mays drove in four runs with the homer and a single while Cepeda picked up three. Pierce allowed 11 hits and needed ninth inning relief by Stu Miller when John Callison tagged his fourth hit, a three-run homer. Jack Hamilton (3-4) lost it.

The Dodgers ran their winning streak to five games with an 18-hit onslaught that included two six-run innings. Maury Wills, who stole three bases and scored three times, and Tommy Davis each had four hits while Larry Burright and Norm Sherry collected four runs batted in apiece. Frank Thomas led the Mets with three hits—one his 13th homer. Joe Moeller (3-4) won it with Al Jackson (2-5) the loser.

Tommy Aaron, Hank's younger brother, gave the Aaron family seven of the Braves' 18 hits, adding three doubles and a single to Hank's output. Roy McMillan and Joe Adcock also contributed homers to the attack that gave reliever Lew Burdette victory No. 1 after four losses. Ken Boyer and Carl Sawatski homered for the Cards. Ray Washburn (3-1) lost it.

Bob Skinner's second triple and a pinch-hit single by Johnny Logan off Bob Tiefenauer (1-4) ended the 13-inning battle at Houston. Elroy Face (2-0) gained the victory with four innings of shutout relief.

East End, Owls, Cumberland Win In City Softball

East End Merchants, New Cumberland and the Owls Club posted victories in City Softball League games Friday night.

East End whipped Amvits, 5-2, behind the four-hit pitching of Gene Talbott. Ken Knowles broke up a scoreless pitching duel between Talbott and Barton in the fifth inning with a home run over the centerfield fence.

The victors then tallied three more runs in the sixth. Knowles and Rogers led East End with two hits each. Lanfried had two hits for the losers. Barton was charged with the defeat.

New Cumberland beat Patterson-Wetzel, 4-1, as Rocchio fired a two-hitter. Howard Wilson was the loser.

The Owls Club gained a 7-3 victory over Knowles as McCauley gained his second pitching decision. Boston led the Owls Club with two hits. Shuman was the losing pitcher.

There will be a meeting Sunday at 4 p.m. at the YMCA for all City Softball League managers. Rosters are due and all money due the league is to be turned over to officials.

FELLED BY PITCHED BALL. Ernie Banks of the Chicago Cubs falls in the ninth inning after being hit in the head by a ball pitched by Moe Drabosky of the Cincinnati Reds Friday night at Cincinnati. Banks was carried from the field and taken to a hospital for observation. (UPI Telephoto)

Dairymen, McBurney, Burbick Win LL Tilts

Golden Star swept its third straight victory in "creaming" Travelers, 11-6, to remain unbeaten in the American Division to feature Little League action Friday.

Joining the Dairymen in the win column were McBurney's, gaining its first victory over the Medics, 4-2, and Burbick's, a 13-3 victor over Chester Legion.

One game is on tap for today, with Travelers meeting Veteran Glass at Hilbert Field. The game was postponed Thursday because of field conditions.

Butch Beadnell pitched and batted Golden Star to its third win in a row, striking out seven and slamming three hits. His battery mate, Dennis Klembara, socked a home run. The Dairymen banged out a dozen hits and jumped on Simms of Travelers for seven runs in the second inning.

Jack Duffy and Flint homered for the losers, while Jim Duffy collected three hits. Jim Duffy relieved Sims in the fifth frame, with Sims getting the pitching defeat.

Dave Pridemore and Jimmy Andrason combined for a two-hitter as McBurney's whipped the Medics. Pridemore yielded two singles in the first inning, and Andrason hurled no-hit ball for the final three. B. Hoyt and Chambers hurled for the Medics, who lost their first game in three starts.

Billy Cooper hit a pair of singles and Dave Pridemore, a double, to lead McBurney's seven - hit attack.

Burbick's pounded out 13 hits in rolling over Chester Legion for its second victory. The losers managed five hits. Earl Diddle had two hits and Berhar, three.

If Weatherman Cooperates

Record-Breaking Spree Shapes Up In State Meet

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—If the weatherman cooperates a bit better than he did Friday, today's windup of the 55th Ohio high school track - field championships could be a record-breaking spree.

Hampered by wind and rain, and a track ankle-deep in water most of the time, the scholastic stars put on a mark - menacing show in Friday's qualifiers.

Dayton Roosevelt, as expected, emerged from the tests as a firm favorite to repeat as king in Class AA. At least a half-dozen schools had a chance in Class A, with the form sheet favoring defending champion Cincinnati DePorres and Columbus Academy.

A two-man duel for the most valuable trophy in Class AA was in prospect, between Toledo Libbey's Jim Goings and Trotwood Madison's Tom Wright.

Each of them had a :09.7 clocking, best of the year and third best in state meet history, in Friday's 100-yard dash.

That's the only event in which they'll meet today.

Goings matched the state meet record of :14.4 in the high hurdles, then broke it with :14.2 in the semifinals—but it wasn't allowed due to a brisk wind. He turned in a :19.5 for the low hurdles for the tops in that event.

Putt 4 Strokes Back In State Golf Play

Bob Putt, East Liverpool's lone hope in the state golf tournament, was four strokes off the pace going into today's final 18-holes over the Scarlet Course on the Ohio State campus at Columbus.

Putt turned in a 78 Friday. The Potter star shot a 41 on the front nine, but came back to shoot a strong one-over par 37 on the second nine. The Scarlet course is a 36-36-72 par layout.

Three were tied for the lead at 74 each. They included Mike McCullough of Coshocton, who Putt defeated in the District tournament last week at St. Clairsville, Barry Fibus of Liberty High near Youngstown and Doug Cooper of Akron Buchtel.

Six golfers were tied at 77 each and Putt was deadlocked with six others at 78.

Ohio's high school golfers played through rain Friday afternoon at Columbus.

Wright and Lodi's Bill Heffelfinger led the 220-yard dash qualifiers in :21.6, and Wright's :50.2 was the standout in the quarter-mile.

The rain also upset the tennis and baseball schedules. Golf went off as per the program, but the tennis matches were moved inside and the semifinals weren't reached until almost midnight. One baseball game, between North Bend Taylor and Lima Senior in Class AA, was to be resumed today after being halted in the middle. Niles McKinley, the state football champ, was to meet the winner for the crown later today.

Baltimore Liberty Union, winner in Class A the last two years and boasting a 46-game winning streak, was to play Van Wert Lincolnview for the smaller school laurels.

Two Class A field events were decided Friday. Ike Kelley of Bremen came up with a 52-foot 1-inch heave to take the shot put, and a 21-foot 3¾ - inch leap by South Amherst's John Hemminger was tops in the broad jump. Rain halted the Class A pole vault and Class AA discus, which were to have been completed Friday.

Deadline Set Tuesday For Annual Dog Show

The deadline for the seventh annual all-breed dog show and obedience trial sponsored by the Columbiana County Kennel Club is only three days away.

All entries must be in by Tuesday noon, May 29. Entry blanks and information can be secured from Dan McDonald by calling FU. 5-5666.

The 1962 show will be held June 9 from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. at the Saxon Country Club three miles south of Salem on State Route 9.

Six variety groups will be judged including sporting, hound, working, terrier, toy and non-sporting. Selection will be made for the best dog in the show.

In the obedience trial prizes in the following will be awarded: novice Class A, Novice Class B, Open Class A, Open Class B, Utility Class and Highest Scoring Dog in trial.

Judges named to the show include Frank Davis of Alexandria, Va.; Miles Flanagan, Olmsted Falls; Loy Green, Berea; Bryon Hofman, Toledo; Alva Rosenberg, New York; Robert Wills, Shaker Heights and Harry Thomas, Olmstead Falls.

Archery Group Plans Invitational Shoot

The Columbiana County Archers group will hold an invitational shoot Sunday at 10 a. m. at the range along Route 164, three miles east of Lisbon and eight miles west of Columbiana.

There will be 28 field and 28 animal targets and trophies will be awarded in all classes, according to Louis Emelo, president. Lunch will be served. Registration is from 8 to 9:30 a. m.

Ours Receives Legion Award As Tigers' Top Senior Star

Presentation of the American Legion Post 70 award to the outstanding senior athlete was a feature of a recognition assembly at Wellsville High School Friday morning.

The recipient was Roger Ours, 5-8, 150-pounder, who made the varsity basketball and football teams as a sophomore and also starred in baseball.

Ours will add the American Legion award to two major awards received in April from the Omni Orange and Black Booster Club as most outstanding senior in both football and basketball.

John Euill was named the outstanding senior member of the Tiger track team. A hurdler and dash man who is planning to enroll at Ohio University, Euill also starred in football.

Coach James Criss presented other track awards to Larry Giles, Frank Luckino, Tim Barborak, Jack Cataldo, Dan Corbisello, Andy Dash, Gary Medley, Rodger Miller, Leo Pearson, Rick Wilson, Terry Flesch and Ron Daniels.

Track coach Ken Woods and two performers, Mark Leyda and Jim Reed, were unable to be present. They are attending the Ohio scholastic track and field meet this weekend in Columbus. Melvin Boggs and Charles Brown received awards as track team managers.

Certificates were presented champion teams in intramurals.

Basketball tournament winners were Richard Malone, captain, Richard Messer, John Bemis, Jerry Medley and Gale Malone.

The volleyball tourney champions were David Hall, captain, Allen Dalrymple, Donald Montgomery, Donald Geer, Gale Malone and Don Clark. The runner-up team included Jerry Hoskinson, captain, John Hoskinson, Roger Merriman, Donald Bunfill and Charles Murray.

James Miller was intramural badminton champion, and Baughman, runner-up.

Jury Deadlocks In Trial Of Suit

LISBON — A Common Pleas Court jury of four men and eight women deadlocked six-to-six in the trial of the Humes Truck & Trailer Manufacturing Co. of Steubenville against the Salineville Feed & Supply Co. Friday afternoon.

Humes claimed that in 1955 it contracted to fix a truck belonging to the feed company so it could haul a heavier load, and that the company still owes $400.

The feed firm countered that the job was not satisfactory and asked $1,323 for loss of service of the truck.

The trial began Wednesday before Judge Joel H. Sharp, who excused the jurors after they told him they couldn't reach a verdict.

Man, 75, Jailed After Arrest On Vagrancy Count

A 75-year-old East Liverpool man who admitted he has had no home for several months was remanded to jail in default of a fine of $25 and costs imposed Friday by Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff when he pleaded guilty to a vagrancy charge.

Arthur E. Steffen, who said he has not rented a room despite the fact he receives a $71-a-month Social Security check, was taken into custody at 1:39 a.m. yesterday in the Bus Terminal by Patrolman Paul Carter, assisted by Lt. Clyde Boso and Patrolman Robert Pyle, police said.

"We have had several complaints on him," Patrolman Carter testified. "He loafs in the cab office and uses the drivers' restroom. He sleeps wherever he can lay his head."

Steffen recently completed a County Jail term that resulted from a similar charge. He told the court he "just hadn't got around to" renting a room.

Questioned by the court, Steffen said he has nine children, most of them residing in East Liverpool and Wellsville. He said he had his last full meal a week ago, "but I have had snacks since then."

Cartoonist Claimed

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Victory Clyde Forsythe, cartoonist and western painter, died Thursday night. He was 76. Forsythe's best known cartoons were "Joe's Car," "Dynamite Don" and "Way Out West."

The first street to be illuminated by gaslight in America was Pelham Street in Newport, R. I., in 1806.

Man's Trial Set In Robbery Try

Trial was set Sept. 17 at 9:30 a.m. for Michael Anthony Pochiro, 26, of Youngstown, when the defendant was arraigned Friday in Hancock County Circuit Court in New Cumberland.

Pochiro pleaded innocent to an indictment returned by the April Grand Jury, charging attempted armed robbery of James Bournais of Weirton Feb. 14.

In setting Pochiro's trial date, Judge Ralph E. Pryor overruled a demurrer filed on the defendant's behalf by Atty. William Moore.

Arguments on the demurrer were heard in Circuit Court May 3 and Judge Pryor granted County Prosecutor Floyd R. Tarr and Atty. Moore additional time.

Pochiro was arrested Feb. 14 by Weirton police, who said he attempted to rob Bournais, owner of the People's Restaurant, at the victim's garage. Pochiro suffered a broken ankle in a fall on ice as he attempted to flee the scene, police said. He was released on $10,000 bond.

Euclid Man Pleads Guilty To Defrauding

CLEVELAND (AP)—Wilbur H. Ficken, 45, of South Euclid, pleaded guilty in U. S. District Court Friday to charges of defrauding customers of more than $200,000 while employed as a salesman for two Cleveland brokerage houses.

Judge James C. Connell deferred sentence pending a probation report. Ficken pleaded guilty to 17 counts of a federal indictment returned last Dec. 10. The indictment originally contained 28 counts, but 11 were dropped.

Man Reveals Brutality In Racial Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — A white man has told a committee headed by Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt that police tortured him with an electric probe after he tried to help evicted Negro sharecroppers in Tennessee.

The account, related by Eric Weinberger, 30, of Norwich, Conn., was one of a number of reports of police brutalities, harassments and jailings the committee heard Friday from Negro and white persons who demonstrated for civil rights in the South.

Mrs. Roosevelt organized the group, which describes itself as a committee of inquiry. It has staff help from the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE), which sponsored the "freedom rides" throughout the South.

The group said the purpose of the hearings, held in the community room of the Washington Post, was to put the stories before the public so that some action might be taken.

Committee members include Norman Thomas, author and a leader of the Socialist Party; Roger Baldwin, founder of the American Civil Liberties Union; John Culbertson, Greenville, S.C., lawyer; Joseph L. Rauh Jr., vice chairman of Americans for Democratic Action; Telford Taylor, author and lawyer, and Dr. Kenneth Clark, psychologist.

Among the persons appearing before the committee were freedom riders, sit-in demonstrators and students.

Some criticized what they termed lack of action by the FBI, unfavorable decisions by federal courts in the South and failure of local police to protect civil rights demonstrators.

Weinberger alleged that police held him without charge for 72 hours while he was in Brownsville, Tenn., teaching unemployed sharecroppers how to earn money by making leather tote bags. He said the sharecroppers were evicted after they tried to register to vote and he went to try to help them.

He said he was forced to spend a night in jail, beaten, and his hand painfully hurt by a wrist clamp used to force him to submit to fingerprinting. He said he refused to permit himself to be fingerprinted because of what he termed the injustice of the proceedings.

He said his fingers were bent back, pants slashed and he was jabbed with what he described as a high voltage electric probe usually used on cattle to move them in stockyards. "A painful sensation," he said.

Court Penalizes 4 Young Drivers

LISBON — Traffic court hearings at the Courthouse have resulted in the suspension of driving permits of two motorists and the fining of two others.

The licenses of Gerald F. Chestnut, 16, of Lisbon R.D. 4, was suspended 15 days for a stop sign violation, and that of Ronald Lee Hall, 17, of Leetonia R.D. 2, was suspended 15 days for speeding.

Marcy A. Chestnut, 16, of Glenmoor, was fined $20 for driving a motor scooter without a driver's license. The scooter was impounded for 60 days by the court.

Gregg Deemer, 17, of Lisbon R.D. 5, was fined $10 for crossing a yellow line in a hazardous zone. All were cited by the State Highway Patrol.

College Joes More Romantic Than Janes

GRANVILLE, Ohio (AP) — That sparkling college coed who moons over the poetry books or stares enraptured at the movie screen isn't as romantically inclined as her male counterpart.

According to a survey completed by Denison University sociologist Dr. Dwight Dean, freshmen men were found to be more emotional than freshmen women.

The study also concluded that college men and women whose fathers' occupation were relatively low in status were found to be more romantically inclined than those whose fathers had a high-status occupation.

Judge To Speak For Cumberland Memorial Event

NEW CUMBERLAND — Judge Ralph E. Pryor of the 1st Judicial Circuit will be principal speaker for the community's annual Memorial Day service Wednesday.

The Wellsburg jurist will speak at 11 a.m. at New Cumberland Cemetery in a program sponsored by VFW Post 3526.

The program will open with a brief service at 10 a.m. at the post home where officers will place a wreath at a monument.

With the high school band in the lead, the procession will move to the War Memorial on Court St. where the auxiliary will place a wreath. The main service will follow at the cemetery.

The band will play several selections and a VFW firing squad will sound a salute.

John Paul Jones will be master of ceremonies. Local ministers will participate. Ike Hill and Joe Burskey are co-chairman. Jake Baxter is commander of Post 3526.

Judge Pryor served with the 8th Air Force as a bombardier in the European Theater during World War II. He was wounded while flying over Germany. He is a retired officer of the Air Force.

Four Killed In Algerian Bomb Blast

ALGIERS (AP)—A time bomb planted in a pickup truck exploded on the Algiers waterfront today killing at least four persons and wounding a half dozen. One European perished, but all the other victims were Moslems, police said.

Hundreds of screaming Moslems surged out of the nearby Casbah at the sound of the blast, bringing members of the newly-formed Moslem police force on the run to head off a riot.

Fire engines and ambulances rushed to the scene, but most of the ambulances returned empty. Moslems generally refuse to let European - manned ambulances transport their wounded or allow European hospitals to treat them.

Stretcher bearers of the National Liberation Front (FLN) carried the wounded to a first aid point in the Casbah several hundred yards away from the waterfront.

Calm was restored in the area half an hour after the blast.

In other terrorist action today, 15 plastic bombs exploded almost simultaneously in the suburb of Maison Carree, shattering Moslem-owned stores and other property. No one was reported injured.

Laundromat Looted Of $30 At Palestine

EAST PALESTINE — Police today were investigating the theft of $30.50 in dimes from a coin changer machine at the Launderama on E. Rebekah St.

Officers said Nick Ieropoli of Lisbon, the owner, reported Friday that someone used slugs to clean out the machine between midnight Wednesday and midnight Thursday.

There were 61 slugs in the machine. The business is open 24 hours daily.

Hannah Loses Top AFL-CIO Post To Kane

CLEVELAND (AP)—Phil Hannah, one of Ohio's top three or four labor leaders for 20 years, was out of his $16,000-a-year job as president of the Ohio AFL-CIO today and "ready to take a rest."

In the presidency for a two-year term is red - haired David Kane, 39, who for three years has been business agent of the 1,500-member Bookbinders Local 199 of Dayton.

Only on the morning before Thursday night's election—the results of which were announced late Friday—did Kane go on the slate of Secretary-treasurer Elmer F. Cope to oppose Hannah. Kane defeated Hannah 2,341 to 2,284, with 50 votes going to a third candidate, Thomas E. Fenton of Warren Steelworkers Local 1375.

Cope beat Morris Riger of Cleveland 2,916 to 1,852 for the $16,000-a-year secretary - treasurer's job.

Hannah and Cope, both 58, held the top offices in the Ohio AFL-CIO since the merged organization was formed in May 1958. They parted ways in this convention over an ambitious program of political education for unionists in Ohio. The plan, labeled "Blueprint for Victory," called for raising $216,000 a year through an increase of per capita payments from five to eight cents to finance appointment of eight salaried district directors of political education.

SECRET AGENT

OFF THE RECORD

"Welcome home, Dick—how did that 'off-the-beaten-path' vacation turn out?"

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I clean stains on my chinaware?

A. Be sure first that you're cleaning off the stains — not taking off the decorations with them. Instead of scouring powder, which is hard on decorations, use salt and baking soda to cleanse away the offending spots.

Q. How can I prevent rust on some of my workshop tools?

A. Keep a few cones of carpenter's blue chalk in your toolbox to absorb moisture, and every couple of months dry the chalk thoroughly in an oven to renew its effectiveness.

Q. How can I most effectively clean combs?

A. If made of hard rubber or bone let them stand for 10 minutes in a basin of warm water containing a couple of tablespoons of household ammonia. Scrub with a small brush. Alcohol and lysol solutions also are good cleaners and disinfectants for hard rubber or bone combs. Wash other plastics in warm (never hot) water, using a mild soap. No ammonia or other chemical which might soften or discolor the plastic!

Q. How can I make a good temporary repair on a section of water pipe that is persistently leaking?

A. One way is to cut out the leaky section with a hacksaw, then join the pipe ends with a piece of automobile hose, fastening this tightly with hose clamps.

Q. What can I do about some wallpaper in one of my rooms, which has lost its grip and formed an unsightly bulge on the wall?

A. Here's one good way of "battling the bulge." Slit the bulge with a razor blade and then, using a knife, insert some library paste thinned to a creamy consistency. Smooth the whole thing out with a stiff brush, and the appearance of your wall should be much improved.

Junior Editors Quiz on ROYALTY

QUESTION: Why do kings wear crowns?

ANSWER: Crowns today are symbols of supreme authority. They did not begin that way. Crowns were used in almost every early culture. Bridal couples and athletic winners in very ancient times were crowned with circlets of flowers and various leaves. Those crowns were symbols of honor, even though the honor might be only for the day. Victor wore crowns of laurel wreaths in some places. It is possible that a conqueror of a city, having had a military victory, decided he was entitled to wear the crown of a victor. An emperor, being a great military and civil victor, adopted the crown too. We know that the earliest Roman emperors copied their crowns from the ancient victory crowns of laurel wreaths, except that the Romans made their wreaths out of gold. Through the ages Western ruling monarchs continued to wear crowns, and the crown has become identified with the kings. In Great Britain and other countries, the monarch also holds a sceptre, or long golden stick, and an orb, a round ball symbolizing the world.

Area Drivers Get Penalties

Three city area motorists were penalized on traffic charges at hearings Thursday before County Judge Herbert Arfman at East Palestine, while a fourth was acquitted.

Floyd D. Tweed, 125 W. 3rd St., was fined $10—with the fine suspended—and costs for failure to stop in the assured clear distance.

Jean Butler of Oakmont Ave. was fined $10 and costs for failure to yield the right-of-way. Charlotte Smith of R. D. 1 forfeited a $15 appearance bond on a speeding charge.

A muffler violation charge against Carl Irwin Hoppel of R. D. 3 was dismissed after the judge inspected the motorcycle and muffler concerning which the Ohio Highway Patrol had filed the charge.

Lawrence McLaughlin of Rogers R. D. 1 was fined $10 and costs for driving left of center.

A $15 fine against Mrs. C. J. Cetto of East Palestine R. D. 2, charged with permitting a dog to run at large, was suspended on condition she control the pet.

40 Sign Petitions For Annexation In East Palestine

EAST PALESTINE—Forty residents of areas north of the city signed petitions to have their property become annexed to the city at a public meeting Thursday night.

About 60 attended the meeting at which the proposed annexation move was aired by county officials and spokesmen for the residents of the area, site of a water pollution problem.

Atty. Barry Dickson said about 125 signatures are required for petitions to the county commissioners to have the area released from Unity Township and merged with East Palestine in a move to create an enlarged sewage district.

Commissioners Walter Hunston and Galen Greenisen said the annexation is the only alternative to construction of a sewage plant for the area, where conditions have resulted in a law suit concerning claimed pollution.

Program Details Set For Monday Chamber Dinner

Final details were announced today for the annual spring membership meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Monday night at 6:30 at the Country Club.

Alvin T. Babb, president, will conduct the meeting and introduce the speaker, Herschel C. Atkinson of Columbus, executive vice president of the Ohio Chamber.

Invocation will be by John Mostoller, minister of the First Church of Christ. George A. Shaw, chairman of the membership committee, will introduce the new members enrolled in a recent campaign. City officials and members of Council will be guests.

Atkinson's address on local Chamber work will follow a buffet dinner. A newspaperman for many years, he has served in the Ohio Chamber post 17 years.

The banquet committee comprised of John Pinney, chairman, Ralph A. Finley, Standley T. Hilbert, Robert Miller, Winston A. Porter and James H. Riggs, is in charge of the program.

New Trial Denied 3 Guilty On Numbers

WHEELING (AP) — District Court Judge Charles F. Paul Friday denied a motion for a new trial for three men convicted of violating federal laws by operating a numbers racket.

He set June 15 for sentencing of Anthony J. Zambito of Wheeling, James J. Rogerson of Martins Ferry, Ohio, and Arthur C. Hale of Blaine, Ohio.

They were tried with three others following a raid last Dec. 13 on a Wheeling tavern. A jury found the three guilty May 8.

June 15 also was set for sentencing of Paul Hankish and Pasquale DiCesare, both of Wheeling. Hankish was found guilty May 10 of a misdemeanor of failing to buy a federal gambling stamp. DiCesare pleaded guilty to one of four counts of income tax evasion.

Plant Project Nears Finish

The E. W. Bliss Co. of Canton announced that a $2 million expansion program started several years ago is now almost completed at its Mackintosh-Hemphill Division plants in Midland and Pittsburgh.

C. E. Peterson, vice president and division manager, said the Mackintosh-Hemphill division, primarily a producer of cast iron and steel rolls for rolling mills, is being equipped to produce more, larger and heavier products.

The expansion is necessary, he said, to bring production capacity in line with new orders.

At Midland, where steel rolls, cinder pots and heavy steel castings are made, a $1 million capital improvement program is under way. The program is expected to increase capacity by 25 per cent for production of heavier and a larger cast steel rolls and to increase capability for handling larger rolling mill housings and other types of castings. Two annealing furnaces have already been installed and two more are under construction.

Other new equipment already purchased for Midland includes three 50 - ton traveling cranes which double the capacity of their predecessors.

A new charging machine will go into operation later this year and a new automatic roll-turning lathe, with double the metal-removing capacity of any Mack-Hemp lathe yet built, will be in service soon. A new $65,000 chemical laboratory is also under construction.

SPRING AND YOUR SEPTIC TANK

Surprising though it may seem. Spring, with its sunshine and showers, is just about the most critical time of year for owners of septic tanks.

To correctly understand the aforementioned statement it is first necessary to analyze the workings of septic tanks. and the effect of seasonal changes.

Your septic tank is a chamber wherein exists a complex of micro-organisms, each type equipped to handle and dispose of different types of waste material. Working as a team these infinitesimal forms of life breakdown and liquefy the solids, leaving only a liquid which is free to run out for final disposal in your drainfield or drywell. Regularly activated, these living "garbage disposals" will normally keep up with the flow of waste, and your system will function properly. However, surveys show that, during the spring season, more systems "back-up" and overflow than at any other time of year, creating expensive and highly unsanitary conditions.

WHY ? ? ?

The answer to that question is simpiy "temperature". Bacterial life dislikes temperature changes, and, since your septic tank has no heating system to keep things cozy so that they can go about their work in comfort, they die off in the millions and billions when winter arrives, leaving only a "skeleton crew" of weakend bacteria to handle the heavy loads. Consequently, as winter months pass slowly by, a build-up of undigested grease and solids occurs, clogging the tank and passing through to the disposal fields. Grease congeals and deposits in the pores of the soil almost to the point of being beyond repair. Melting ice, snow, and spring showers add to the problem by entering the system.

HOW SEA-CAL ENZYMES HELP

The powerful digestive powers of the enzymes contained in SEA-CAL rapidly liquefy the hard grease drainfields, changing such grease and other solids into available food for the bacteria SEA-CAL also contains 80,000,000 anerobic bacteria per gram)28 grams in each ounce), and with each bacteria reproducing itself many times a day, the micro-organism population is rapidly built up to adequate numbers, with the ultimate return of full operating efficiency.

IMPORTANT ! ! ! ! !

FOR THE BEST PROTECTION DURING SPRING DOUBLE YOUR SEA-CAL TREATMENTS, PARTICULARLY WHERE TANKS ARE UNDER-SIZE OR ARE SUBJECT TO OVERLOADS AND/OR AMOUNTS OF DETERGENTS AND BLEACHES.

tas from wheat corn, grain sorghum and barley.

If growers rejected the program, production would be unlimited but price supports would be substantially lower and the secretary of agriculture would be authorized to dump some of the present surplus stocks on the market, further depressing prices.

Other features of the bill:

—Increased penalties for sale of excess production of these crops.

—A 25-acre exemption from production controls for farmers raising wheat or feed grains for their own livestock.

—Payments to wheat growers who divert wheat land for three years.

—A $10-million pilot program for assisting in establishment of recreation facilities on land removed from crop production. Kennedy also sought controls on oats and rye, but the Senate exempted those crops from the bill.

Republicans said the bill will lead to government regimentation of the meat, dairy, livestock and poultry industries.

Sen. George Aiken, R-Vt., predicting farmers will reject the program, said it would mean higher food prices and lower farm income unless there were heavy new government subsidies.

Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., called it "a giant step toward a planned economy."

Even Sen. Milton Young of North Dakota, the only Republican to vote for the omnibus measure, said he opposed the new wheat and feed grain provisions.

The administration got nowhere in its bid for lower dairy marketing quotas accompanied by higher price supports.

The committee rejected all dairy proposals, leaving the program as it is now. And an attempt to write in higher supports for milk producers who voluntarily hold production to this year's level was defeated 70 to 13.

Holiday

The crowd will return to the City Hall for the program.

Charles Edwards, president of Council, will be master of ceremonies.

The Rev. James Donald, pastor of the Glenmoor United Presbyterian Church, will give the invocation and W. E. Shaw, minister of the Second Church of Christ, the benediction.

Other participants include Robin Snow, Boy Scout, Pledge of Allegiance; Tom Futhey, a student of East Liverpool High School, "Gettysburg Address," and Joe Judge and Jim Lang, both of the high school, taps. The combined posts will give the Memorial Day salute.

Ernest Lowe, a past commander of American Legion Post 4, will sing a solo, "My Buddy," and Curt Hague of WOHI will give a selection.

Massing of colors will be conducted on the steps. Eight Boy Scouts will stand at attention holding the colors of women's organizations. Girl Scouts will distribute the programs.

Services for the Navy and Marine Corps dead will be held at 10 a.m. on the Chester bridge under the auspices of the Ladies of the GAR, Navy Mothers Club, Gold Star Mothers Chapter and the Marine Corps League Auxiliary.

Participating will be Maj. William Hathorn of the Salvation Army, Post 374 color guard and buglers.

The committees are headed by James Cregar, commander of American Legion Post 374, host this year.

Committees include:

Program, Mrs. Helen Jones, Navy Chief Kenneth Brooks, Mrs. Mary Diddle, Sgt. Edward Vallor, Mrs. Mary Wines and Milton Reese.

Ministers and speakers, Chief Brooks and Sgt. Vallor.

Decorations and flags, John Ruhe, and transportation, Robert Pointer, Louis Krawiec, Sgt. Vallor, Harold Taylor, Mrs. Leslie Tatgenhorst and Mrs. Delores Crawford.

Music and bands, Ed Daily, Mrs. Odessa Burns and Mrs. Wines, and publicity, Ruhe and Mayor Bert Goodballet. The parade committee is headed by all post commanders. Willis O. Hall, past commander of VFW Post 66, is grand marshall.

Crash In Newell Area Causes $700 Damage

Damage was estimated at $700 in a two-car crash in the Newell area Thursday afternoon at 2:45, Hancock County sheriff's deputies reported.

The accident on 6th St. Rd. involved a west-bound 1957 Plymouth operated by John Lyons, 41, of 329 Jackman St., East Liverpool, and a 1961 Plymouth driven by Benjamin F. Booth, 41, of Box 401, Newell.

Deputies said the cars collided on a curve of the grade. Booth was traveling east.

The sheriff's office said both escaped injury. Deputies estimated $300 damage to the city man's car, and $400 ot Booth's sedan.

10,000 Fewer Farms

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The number of farms in Ohio is estimated to have dropped about 10,000 in the period from 1959 to 1961, say Ohio State University economists. They believe this took about 400,000 acres in farmland out of production.

Man Nabbed After Hit-Run

A city motorist was arrested Friday night in the downtown area near his home following a crash that caused extensive damage to two cars in East End.

Troxel D. Groves, 52, whose address was listed as 724 Green Ln. and also as Beaver R. D. 2, probably will be given a hearing Monday in Municipal Court.

Groves told police he knew nothing of the accident but said his car had been damaged between the time he left a Mulberry St. tavern and when he was picked up at E. 8th St. and Green Ln.

Police said the crash, which involved Groves' auto and a 1961 sedan operated by Otis Blankenship, 63, of 510 Walnut St., occurred shortly before 10 last night at Pennsylvania Ave. and Supplee St., a short street which enters the main thoroughfare near State St.

Blankenship told police he was headed east on Pennsylvania Ave. when he saw the westbound car approaching left of center. He pulled to hte right as far as possible but was unable to avoid the collision, Blankenship related.

Offices

at the Post Office but no home deliveries will be made and the windows will be closed.

Chester offices to be closed include the water works at City Hall and the West Virginia State Liquor Store.

The Hancock County Courthouse in New Cumberland and all other county offices will be closed all day. Only Sheriff Joseph H. Manypenny's office will remain open.

Draft Board 34 in Weirton will be closed Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, according to Mrs. Ila M. Snyder, assistant clerk. The Selective Service office serves Hancock County.

Offices in the Midland Borough Building will be closed.

The Crucible Steel Co. at Midland said individual department schedules for the holiday will be posted in the mill.

The Midland plant of the Mackintosh-Hemphill Division of the E. W. Bliss Co. will work Wednesday, a spokesman said.

At Lisbon, the Courthouse, Post Office, banks and stores will be closed.

tonight except at Wellsville, where the clinic will be held at the Beacom Memorial Gym.

Dr. Fisher reported school distribution of the vaccine had been good, with 1,950 receiving the Type II in Beaver Local alone.

Some 4,925 students of East Liverpool received the vaccine Thursday and Friday, for public and parochial pupils.

Dr. E. G. Kuhlman, city health commissioner, was in charge and helpers included Mrs. Jeanette Carpenter, Mrs. Mary Scott, Mrs. Hazel Ludwig, Mrs. Ruth Osborne, Mrs. Theresa Ryan, Mrs. Geraldine McKinnon, Mrs. Marie Hayes, Mrs. Lillian Alpern, Mrs. Paula Clewlow, Mrs. Katherine Bryan, Mrs. Alberta McMillian, Mrs. Wayne Bernard, Mrs. Edward House, Mrs. Roger Green, Mrs. Wilmer Bryson, Miss Edith Fone, Beryl Couch, John Owens, Marion Thompson and Mrs. Edna Jones, school nurse.

Chester Woman Hurt In Collision

Mrs. Janice Cowles, 26, of 174 Pennsylvania Ave., Chester, is in "fair" condition today at City Hospital with injuries received in a two-car accident Friday about 4:50 p.m. at 1st St. and Virginia Ave. in Chester.

She suffered lacerations of the right knee and tongue and a possible fracture of the jaw. Examined but apparently suffering no injuries were her daughter, Beth Ann, 2, and Michael Mooney, 8 months, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Mooney of Fremont, also a passenger in the Cowles' 1958 sedan.

John J. Anderson, 39, of Monroeville, Pa., driver of the other car involved, posted a $30.50 bond for a hearing next Saturday at 10 a.m. before Chester Mayor Ray Collins on a charge of failing to yield the right-of-way and driving left of center.

He was cited by Police Chief Harold Davis after his 1962 sedan hit the auto driven by Mrs. Cowles. Police said Anderson was driving south on 1st St. and started to make a left turn onto Virginia Ave. and hit the Cowles sedan northbound on 1st St. headon.

There was about $1,500 total damage, police said.

Farm He Farmed 40 Years Will Be Park

LINCOLN CITY, Ind. — Leo Sergesketter has farmed the Lincoln farm, which is to be made a national memorial park, for 40 years.

He became owner of the farm, on which young Abraham Lincoln helped his father, in 1922.

2 Pass Exams For Firemen

Two of three applicants scored passing grades in a Municipal Civil Service Commission examination Friday night to establish a fire department eligilbility list.

In the competitive examination at City Hall, the passing grades were received by William Jerome McKeever, 1013 Avondale St., and John Francis Davies, 340 W. 5th St. McKeever received the top score, the commission said.

The commission will conduct a test Monday night at 8 at City Hall for the post of public health nurse.

Only two are scheduled to take the examination, the second to be offered. Three took the previous test but none received passing scores.

The competitive exam is being held to choose a successor to Mrs. Jeannette Carpenter who is scheduled to retire after 34 years' service.

The commission is composed of Donal I. Burcham, chairman, Atty. Ben H. Berman and A. A. Fiorello with P. K. Calhoon as clerk.

Carpenter Deprived Of Radio By 'Goof'

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —Somebody's goof deprived astronaut Malcolm Scott Carpenter of a potential radio voice soon after he splashed into the sea in his Aurora 7 space capsule.

It was learned authoritatively that one of the rescue planes that flew over the area 130 miles northeast of Puerto Rico where Carpenter was floating, dropped a box supposedly containing a compact radio transmitting unit.

When Carpenter opened it he found only a battery.

Jockey Ycaza Gets 10-Day Suspension

BALTIMORE (AP)—Ten calendar days or 10 racing days. No matter how you look at it Jockey Manuel Ycaza probably has lost a chance to break into the big money in Memorial Day's $100,000 added Metropolitan Handicap at Aqueduct.

The Maryland State Racing Commission reduced Ycaza's suspension Friday from 10 racing days to 10 calendar days for his ride aboard Ridan in last Saturday's Preakness. The reduction came after Jockey Johnny Rotz, who piloted Greek Money to a nose decision over Ridan, told the commission Ycaza "didn't bother my riding one little bit."

Lack Of Evidence Nips Indictment In Rumored 'Fix'

WACO, Tex. (AP) — Chairman Charles Ballman said Friday night his Texas House Investigating Committee had not turned up sufficient evidence to get an indictment on rumored Southwest Conference basketball game fixing.

Ballman made the statement following the committee's third hearing in a probe of gambling and possible point shaving in conference basketball games.

However, he said, the committee had obtained evidence to turn over to grand juries for possible indictments against bookmaking and other gambling enterprises.

Two Southwest Conference referees told the committee that they had never rigged a basketball game in which they had officiated.

Mt. Pleasant Coach Due Painesville Post

MT. PLEASANT — Jack Cibulka has submitted his resignation as head basketball coach at Mt. Pleasant High School to accept a position as head basketball coach at Painesville, Ohio, Riverside High School.

Supt. Norman Sommers said applications for a successor would be accepted immediately. Cibulka guided the Mounties to a 15-3 record in 1960-61, and last year's team finished 16-2.

Cibulka will join several other former Jefferson County coaches at Painesville Riverside, including George Riser, former head football coach at Jefferson Union, head football coach at Riverside. His assistants are George Strailey, formerly of Dillonvale, Robert McFarren, formerly of Wintersville, and Frank (Jug) Gerard, formerly of Smithfield High.

LEGAL NOTICES

LEGAL NOTICE

Wanda L. Melott, whose present address is unknown, but whose last place of residence was 1015 Lisbon Street, East Liverpool, Ohio, will take notice that the Plaintiff, Maxwell A. Melott, has filed a Petition in the Court of Common Pleas, Columbiana County, Ohio, praying for a divorce from said Defendant on the grounds of gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty, and for custody and control of the minor children, and equitable relief, being Case No. 47797.

It is alleged in said Petition that the Defendant is seized in fee of an undivided half interest in the following described real estate:

Situated in the Townships of Washington and Wayne, County of Columbiana, and State of Ohio:

TRACT I

Being the following tract of land and known as and being part of the West half of the Northeast Quarter of Section No. 33, Township No. 13, (Washington Twp.), in Range 3, and being a part of the Southeast Quarter of Section No. 28, Township 13 (Wayne Twp.), in Range 3; and being more fully described as beginning at the northwest corner of the northeast quarter of said Section No. 33, Washington Twp.; thence south with the quarter section line 33.15 chains more or less, but to a point on the east and west half section line; thence east with the said half-section line 19.75 chains more or less but to a point being the southeast corner of the east half of the northeast quarter of said Section No. 33; thence north with the east line of the west half of the northeast quarter 630 feet more or less but to a point in the center line of State Route No. 164 as now located, said point being at Station 252 plus 00 as shown by road relocation plans (I.C.H. Sec. "B") of said S. R. No. 164 (See Volume 518, Page 519, Columbiana County Deed Records); thence northerly with the center line of said S. R. No. 164 and curving to the right with an arc having a radius of 5729.65 feet a distance of 669 feet to the P.C.C. Station 246 plus 31 in said center line of said road; thence further northerly with said center line and curving to the right with an arc having a radius of 11459.2 feet a distance of 979 feet to a point at Station 235 plus 52 on the north line of said Section No. 33, Washington Twp., and the south line of Section No. 28 of said Wayne Twp., said point being in the center line of S. R. No. 164 and being west 24.68 chains more or less from the southeast corner of said Section No. 28, thence continuing northerly with the center line of S. R. No. 164 with a curve to the right having a radius of 11459.2 feet, a distance of 481 feet but to P.C.C. Station 230 plus 71 in said centerline; thence further northerly with said center line and curving to the right with a radius of 5729.65 feet, a distance of 17 feet but to the north boundary of grantors lands at Station 230 plus 54 in said center line of said road; thence with Grantors north boundary line; west 14.446 chains more or less but to the quarter section line; thence with the quarter section line of Section No. 28, south 7.56 chains more or less, but to the south line of Section No. 28 Wayne Twp., and the north line of Section No. 33, Washington Township and place of beginning, containing 10.64 acres more or less in the southeast quarter of Section No. 28, Wayne Twp., and 56.22 acres more or less in the northeast quarter of Section No. 33, Washington Township, and subject to all legal highways.

Expecting and reserving from this conveyance all coal privileges in said premises as heretofore sold to F. M. Osborne and subject to the right of said Osborne and his assigns to mine and remove said coal as set forth in said deed to said Osborne; see Volume 547, Page 415.

Deed Reference: Volume 914, Page 432, Deed Records, Columbiana County, Ohio.

The following described premises situated in the City of East Liverpool, County of Columbiana and State of Ohio:

TRACT II

Known as and being a part of Section No. 24, Township No. 5, Range 1, and situated in what is known as the Pleasant Heights Land and Improvement Company's Addition to said City, and being more fully described as follows:

Commencing at a point in line with the dividing line between lots Numbers 22 and 23 in said addition, said point being North 5° 15' East 215 feet from the North West corner of the said Lot No. 23, thence parallel with Logan Street (formerly Summit Street) in said Addition, North 84° 45' West 160 feet to an iron pin and place of beginning of the tract herein described; thence continuing North 84° 45' West and parallel with the said Logan Street 120 feet to an iron pin; thence North 5° 15' East 29.41 feet to an iron pin; thence North 62° 40' East 146.37 feet to an iron pin; thence South 5° 15' West 113.77 feet to the place of beginning and containing 0.197 acres be the same more or less but subject to all legal highways.

Deed Reference: Volume 1058, Page 455, Deed Records, Columbiana County, Ohio.

The Plaintiff, Maxwell A. Melott, in his Petition, further prays that said above described real estate be appropriated and awarded to him as and for alimony.

Said Defendant, Wanda L. Melott, is hereby notified that said cause be for hearing on the 23rd day of June, 1962 at 10 o'clock A.M. or as soon thereafter as the Court may conveniently hear the same.

AMAZING QUIZZIAC

Fun for the Whole Family automatically answers hundreds of questions — permanent, built-in magnetic power source.

What Is QUIZZIAC?

Quizziac is a real question-and-answer robot. Its whirring, magnetic-powered "Memory Wheel" answers your questions automatically, unerringly. Entertaining for the lone child or adult, Quizziac also is a group game the whole family enjoys. Quizziac is even a modern teaching machine that employs principles similar to full-size classroom models.

QUIZZIAC ANSWERS QUESTIONS LIKE: How do fish breathe? Who wrote "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea"? Baseball's "Hall of Fame" is located where? What is the name of the famous Mongolian desert? What is the chemical symbols of table salt? . . . These are but a few of the more than 300 questions Quizziac can answer immediately.

QUIZZIAC COMES TO YOU COMPLETE. You get dozens of special question-discs that allow you to "program" Quizziac (much the same way scientists "feed" facts to their electronic computers). With Quizziac you also receive a complete 36-page handbook, special letter cards, and score sheets. The Quizziac outfit measures a big 18½" by 12" by 2½" and weighs nearly three pounds. It is regularly priced at $4.95.

QUIZZIAC IMPORTANT PART OF PROGRAM!

If you decide to enroll your child in the Program, he will receive hundreds of extra question discs which "match" the subject matter of monthly Kits. These new discs will make each Golden Adventure more fun — far more resultful — because your child will be able to test himself on what he has learned.

Delight in your child's wide-eyed wonderment when he eagerly opens FORTHCOMING ADVENTURE KITS LIKE THESE — EVERY MONTH!

Plus Many Others — All Guaranteed by Famous GOLDEN BOOKS

Let Your Child See the Marvels of Science & Nature Through These "Magic Windows"...

GOLDEN ADVENTURE PROGRAM

NOW . . . a new way to explore the endless wonders of the universe at home . . . Educational ADVENTURE KITS with authentic specimens . . . real equipment . . . scientific experiments . . . easy-to-use, fully illustrated Golden Guidebooks.

PARENTS—the world you knew as a youngster has vanished. It is gone forever. In its place is a whole new world that belongs to your child — an exciting world of atomic power, manned spaceships, whirling satellites, electronic brains. Yet the wise parent realizes that if his child takes for granted these push-button miracles . . . if he fails to grasp the meaning of nature's forces and how man harnesses them . . . he may never attain the awareness that makes life richer and more meaningful.

Too many children fall behind — in school, in college, in life — because they aren't given the chance to find out for themselves what makes things "tick." They never really sense the mystery that is nature . . . the wonderful adventure that is science!

Now, there's a fabulous new way to learn about nature and science — and have a barrel of fun, too: the Golden Adventure Program. Already more than 40,000 parents have enrolled their children! Why this huge success? Because the creators of Golden Books know how to "reach" boys and girls . . . to intrigue their minds, trigger their vast energy, satisfy their boundless curiosity.

Complete ADVENTURE KITS Thrill and Teach Your Child

This is not a disappointing sit-and-read-and-imagine "club." Each Golden Adventure brings your youngster real action . . . plenty to do (such as raising brine shrimp in a jar) . . . and see (like actual gold ore and uranium ore samples) . . . and experience (such as forecasting weather) . . . and read, too (like the wonder-filled Golden Guidebooks that unlock nature's secrets). Learning becomes an adventure. Yes, and it awakens a lifelong eagerness to know "how" and "why." Your child's mind grows more perceptive, his thinking more alert. He gains new self-confidence, he "shines" in school, and his grades show it!

Your youngster receives monthly Golden Adventure Kits (each in its own sturdy case). They include quality equipment for safe experimenting. Also actual specimens, clear instructions — and an expertly-written, illustrated Golden Guidebook. Each Kit opens up a new "world" . . . Underwater Life, Astronomy, Birds, Nature Craft, Sea Shells, Insects, Plants, to name a few. Quizziac (with self-grading score sheets) is an important, continuing part of the Program. Each month extra question-discs reinforce your child's learning — even enable him to test himself!

Now, $4.95 QUIZZIAC is Yours FREE Send No Money. Nothing You Must Buy!

Send the coupon now — without money. We'll rush amazing Quizziac free, yours to keep. You'll also receive the "Weather" Adventure Kit (shown at left) to inspect free for 10 days. Thus you see an actual Kit before enrolling. If you and your child are not delighted, return the Kit (Quizziac is yours to keep!) and owe nothing. Otherwise, we bill you $3.25, plus postage and handling, for the "Weather" Kit, enroll your child in the Golden Adventure Program, and later bill you $3.25 plus postage and handling, for each monthly Adventure Kit shipped. You may cancel membership at any time. Please mail coupon promptly.

WEATHER STATION

Predicting tomorrow's weather is a thrilling, never-to-be-forgotten experience! And this real weather station brings your child everything he needs to become an amateur meteorologist. Youngsters and adults share the fascination of learning how to observe, measure — and most fun of all — how to forecast weather.

You get all this equipment: Automatic Cloud Identifier with special Window Sight; Revolving Disc Humidity Computer; Wind Direction Finder (portable); Counterbalanced Wind Velocity Meter; Calibrated Thermometer; Hygrometer Humidity Gauge; Sample Weather Map; Guide to U.S. Weather Bureau Symbols; Forecaster's Log; Instruction Booklet. Sturdy Hinged-Top Case. Big 100-page Golden Guidebook answers intriguing questions like . . . What controls the earth's temperatures? What is air? How much does it weigh? What makes wind blow? Where does water come from? Why do clouds have a silver lining? How do scientists make forecasts? How are balloons, radiosondes and radar used? How space satellites help? Can man change the weather?

Send amazing Quizziac (worth $4.95) absolutely free to the child listed at right — for him to keep and enjoy whether or not I later decide to enroll him in the Golden Adventure Program.

Also send the Weather Adventure Kit for 10 full days' free inspection. If not delighted with this "sample" Kit, I may return it, owe nothing, incur no obligation. Otherwise, bill me only $3.25, plus postage and handling, for the Weather Kit, and enroll the child listed at right in the Golden Adventure Program. As a member he is to receive monthly Kits, for which I will be billed $3.25 each, plus postage and handling. It is understood that I may cancel membership at any time.

Penne Percy—Girl in a Whirl

What happens to a Family Weekly cover girl? This one has won the Maid of Cotton title—and a role in a Hollywood film!

By ROBERT PEER

Penne gets a good-luck kiss from Mom, once a Maid of Cotton finalist herself.

TWO YEARS AGO this week, Penne Percy, a sparkling 17-year-old Texas blonde, became FAMILY WEEKLY'S second Miss Somebody.

A lot has happened to Penne (pronounced Penny) since then—so much that she again rates a cover feature.

In December, the girl from Waco was chosen from among more than 300 Southern belles to reign as the 1962 Maid of Cotton.

"You can't imagine what this means to a girl from the South," she says. "If you live in a cotton state, you grow up with the idea of entering this contest. Why, my two little sisters, who are only 14 and 8, are already thinking about it."

Penne could hardly ask for more—a Southern girl's dream had come true. But more good fortune was on its way. Recently, a famous Hollywood movie producer, Joe Pasternak, asked her the question every American girl would like to hear: "How would you like to be in the movies?"

He first saw Penne on FAMILY WEEKLY's cover and was so impressed he asked to meet her. After seeing her in person, he offered her a role in his next MGM film, "The Courtship of Eddie's Father," with Glenn Ford.

How have the glamor and excitement affected Penne's outlook? "I still can't believe it's happening to me," she confessed over lunch at the Beverly Hills Hotel recently.

"After my picture appeared on the cover of FAMILY WEEKLY, the phone rang almost constantly. Everywhere I went in Waco people recognized me. When I went to college in Austin, it was the same story all over again."

Penne believes the FAMILY WEEKLY story and cover helped bring her to the attention of the judges of the Maid of Cotton contest. This development was especially pleasing to her because she had a very personal reason for wanting to enter this contest—and win it.

Her mother, the former Ann Green, reached the Maid of Cotton finals in 1941 but was disqualified when it was discovered she was only five-foot-four instead of the required five-foot-five. So, in a way, Penne won the crown for her mother as well as for herself.

As Maid of Cotton, she has been caught up in a wonderful whirl of excitement. She received a 42-piece wardrobe (all cotton, of course), 23 pieces of luggage, a new car, and an opportunity to travel throughout the U.S. and five foreign countries as good-will ambassador for the American cotton industry. Right now she is in Paris on the last leg of her tour.

Of course, being Maid of Cotton requires more than a pretty face. As representative of a great industry, she has to be a personable and levelheaded diplomat, too. Penne has handled this phase of her task well, just as anyone who knows her would have predicted.

Fellow students at the University of Texas remember her as a girl who was serious about her studies and who helped pay her own way by working part time as a fashion adviser in an Austin department store.

Penne enjoyed college life—and she met a boy there she likes very much. But finishing college and getting married may be a long way off for this lovely Miss Somebody from Texas. Her Maid of Cotton tour has taken her away from campus for six months. And she may be away even longer if her movie career turns out to be as promising as it now appears.

COVER:

Photographed by John Engstead, vivacious Penne Percy was a Family Weekly cover girl two years ago. Since then, she has become a "Girl in a Whirl." See story above.

Fond Parents at Graduation Exercises

You see the child who's speaking now?
The one who made the graceful bow?
Her poise is something to behold;
Her knees are steady, gestures bold,
Her diction's perfect, posture's fine,
She hasn't missed a single line.
And really I'd enjoy her text—
If only Junior weren't on next!

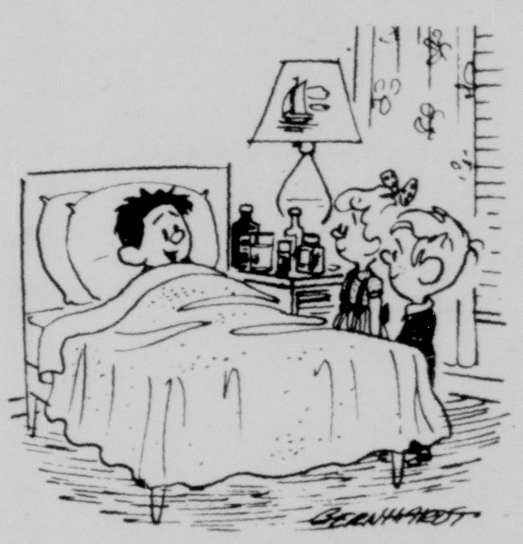
—Betty Billipp

His only daughter was growing up and was now attending her first spring dance. He watched her across the ballroom, remembering the dungaree-clad tomboy of old.

At the end of the evening, as he helped her with her wrap, she asked, "Daddy, do we have to go right away? Can't we wait for Jimmy?"

A sense of loss touched him. "Why? You danced every dance with Jimmy."

"I know," she replied grimly, "and he stomped all over my feet. Boy, just let me get one kick at his shins, Daddy—just one!" —Herm Albright



"I had almost lost the will to live—then I heard the bells of the ice-cream man."

The neighborhood gossip became bored watching television with her husband. She stood up and fussed with her hair a moment.

"Going someplace?" her husband asked.

"Oh," she replied, "I think I'll just drop in next door for a second. Stir the stew every half hour, will you?" —V. D. Palat

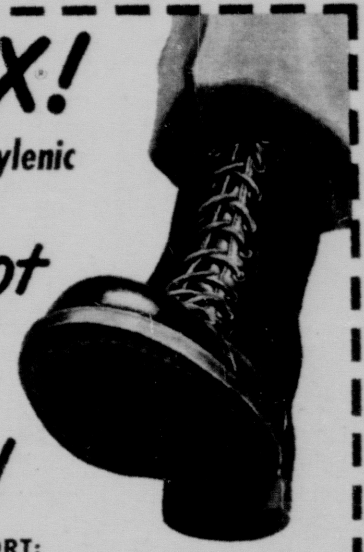
compounded with undecylenic acid, a standard

Athlete's Foot Treatment used by the U.S. ARMY!



MEDICAL SCIENTISTS REPORT:
"amazing results" "dramatic improvement"*

Probably nowhere is the control of athlete's foot more important than in the Army, Navy and Air Force, with millions of men in service. Thanks to a remarkable Desenex preparation, it no longer is the problem it once was.

The treatment (undecylenic acid) is so simple and dependable, it is now a standard Athlete's Foot Treatment used by the U.S. Armed Forces!

This Desenex treatment is also most often prescribed and recommended by physicians, for it works where others often fail. It promises new freedom from athlete's foot itching, pain and danger of spreading, as evidenced by clinical studies involving over 6200 men and women.*

What Desenex does

Desenex seeks out, attacks and kills not only common athlete's foot fungi, but also checks bacteria that often cause more stubborn cases. Maddening itch is relieved, healing rapidly promoted. Simply use Desenex Ointment at night; Powder during day. It's guaranteed to work or money back! Desenex—at all drug counters.

*Clinical results were described professionally as "dramatic," "immediate," even "amazing." Key facts from these studies by leading hospitals, medical schools and clinics are available to your physician or your foot specialist.

OFF THE RECORD

"Welcome home, Dick—how did that 'off-the-beaten-path' vacation turn out?"

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I clean stains on my chinaware?

A. Be sure first that you're cleaning off the stains — not taking off the decorations with them. Instead of scouring powder, which is hard on decorations, use salt and baking soda to cleanse away the offending spots.

Q. How can I prevent rust on some of my workshop tools?

A. Keep a few cones of carpenter's blue chalk in your toolbox to absorb moisture, and every couple of months dry the chalk thoroughly in an oven to renew its effectiveness.

Q. How can I most effectively clean combs?

A. If made of hard rubber or bone let them stand for 10 minutes in a basin of warm water containing a couple of tablespoons of household ammonia. Scrub with a small brush. Alcohol and lysol solutions also are good cleaners and disinfectants for hard rubber or bone combs. Wash other plastics in warm (never hot) water, using a mild soap. No ammonia or other chemical which might soften or discolor the plastic!

Q. How can I make a good temporary repair on a section of water pipe that is persistently leaking?

A. One way is to cut out the leaky section with a hacksaw, then join the pipe ends with a piece of automobile hose, fastening this tightly with hose clamps.

Q. What can I do about some wallpaper in one of my rooms, which has lost its grip and formed an unsightly bulge on the wall?

A. Here's one good way of "battling the bulge." Slit the bulge with a razor blade and then, using a knife, insert some library paste thinned to a creamy consistency. Smooth the whole thing out with a stiff brush, and the appearance of your wall should be much improved.

Junior Editors Quiz on ROYALTY

QUESTION: Why do kings wear crowns?

ANSWER: Crowns today are symbols of supreme authority. They did not begin that way. Crowns were used in almost every early culture. Bridal couples and athletic winners in very ancient times were crowned with circlets of flowers and various leaves. Those crowns were symbols of honor, even though the honor might be only for the day. Victor wore crowns of laurel wreaths in some places. It is possible that a conquerer of a city, having had a military victory, decided he was entitled to wear the crown of a victor. An emperor, being a great military and civil victor, adopted the crown too. We know that the earliest Roman emperors copied their crowns from the ancient victory crowns of laurel wreaths, except that the Romans made their wreaths out of gold. Through the ages Western ruling monarchs continued to wear crowns, and the crown has become identified with the kings. In Great Britain and other countries, the monarch also holds a sceptre, or long golden stick, and an orb, a round ball symbolizing the world.

FOR YOU TO DO: Make a crown out of cardboard. For a crown such as the one in the upper left corner of the illustration, fasten the cardboard to an old cap. Paste pieces of glass or colored paper to the cardboard for jewels. Don't forget a strip of leaves or special cardboard along the bottom for a really impressive crown.

Phillip Sollenberger of Chambersburg, Pa., wins $10 for this question. Send your question on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of The Review.

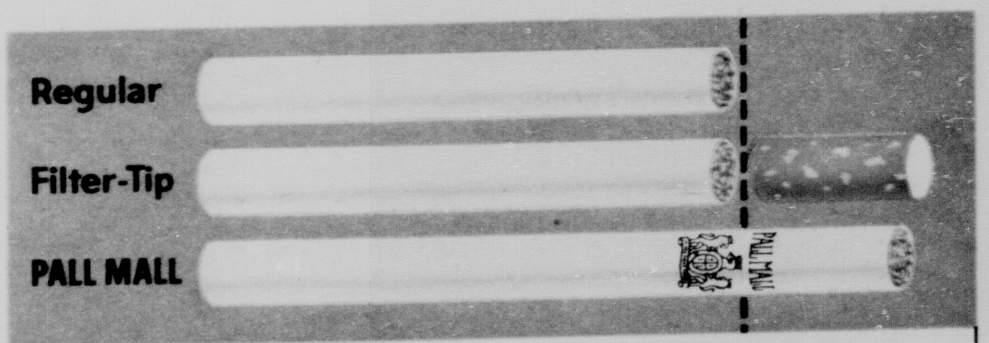
Pall Mall's natural mildness is so good to your taste!

So smooth, so satisfying, so downright smokeable!

See how Pall Mall's famous length of fine tobacco travels and gentles the smoke naturally—makes it mild—but does not filter out that satisfying flavor. Never too strong. Never too weak. Always just right! Enjoy satisfying flavor... so friendly to your taste.

Outstanding... and they are Mild!



Compare all three! Smoke "traveled" through fine tobacco tastes best.

See the difference! With Pall Mall, you get that famous length of the finest tobaccos money can buy. Pall Mall's famous length travels and gentles the smoke naturally... over, under, around and through Pall Mall's fine, mellow tobaccos. Makes it mild . . . but does not filter out that satisfying flavor!

Plant Project Nears Finish

The E. W. Bliss Co. of Canton announced that a $2 million expansion program started several years ago is now almost completed at its Mackintosh-Hemphill Division plants in Midland and Pittsburgh.

C. E. Peterson, vice president and division manager, said the Mackintosh-Hemphill division, primarily a producer of cast iron and steel rolls for rolling mills, is being equipped to produce more, larger and heavier products.

The expansion is necessary, he said, to bring production capacity in line with new orders.

At Midland, where steel rolls, cinder pots and heavy steel castings are made, a $1 million capital improvement program is under way. The program is expected to increase capacity by 25 per cent for production of heavier and a larger cast steel rolls and to increase capability for handling larger rolling mill housings and other types of castings. Two annealing furnaces have already been installed and two more are under construction.

Other new equipment already purchased for Midland includes three 50 - ton traveling cranes which double the capacity of their predecessors.

A new charging machine will go into operation later this year and a new automatic roll-turning lathe, with double the metal-removing capacity of any Mack-Hemp lathe yet built, will be in service soon. A new $65,000 chemical laboratory is also under construction.

SPRING AND YOUR SEPTIC TANK

Surprising though it may seem. Spring, with its sunshine and showers, is just about the most critical time of year for owners of septic tanks.

To correctly understand the aforementioned statement it is first necessary to analyze the workings of septic tanks, and the effect of seasonal changes.

Your septic tank is a chamber wherein exists a complex of micro-organisms, each type equipped to handle and dispose of different types of waste material. Working as a team these infinitesimal forms of life breakdown and liquefy the solids, leaving only a liquid which is free to run out for final disposal in your drainfield or drywell. Regularly activated, these living "garbage disposals" will normally keep up with the flow of waste, and your system will function properly. However, surveys show that, during the spring season, more systems "back-up" and overflow than at any other time of year, creating expensive and highly unsanitary conditions.

WHY ? ? ?

The answer to that question is simply "temperature". Bacterial life dislikes temperature changes, and, since your septic tank has no heating system to keep things cozy so that they can go about their work in comfort, they die off in the millions and billions when winter arrives, leaving only a "skeleton crew" of weakend bacteria to handle the heavy loads. Consequently, as winter months pass slowly by, a build-up of undigested grease and solids occurs, clogging the tank and passing through to the disposal fields. Grease congeals and deposits in the pores of the soil almost to the point of being beyond repair. Melting ice, snow, and spring showers add to the problem by entering the system.

HOW SEA-CAL ENZYMES HELP

The powerful digestive powers of the enzymes contained in SEA-CAL rapidly liquefy the hard grease drainfields, changing such grease and other solids into available food for the bacteria SEA-CAL also contains 80,000,000 anerobic bacteria per gram)28 grams in each ounce), and with each bacteria reproducing itself many times a day, the micro-organism population is rapidly built up to adequate numbers, with the ultimate return of full operating efficiency.

IMPORTANT ! ! ! ! !

FOR THE BEST PROTECTION DURING SPRING DOUBLE YOUR SEA-CAL TREATMENTS, PARTICULARLY WHERE TANKS ARE UNDER-SIZE OR ARE SUBJECT TO OVERLOADS AND/OR AMOUNTS OF DETERGENTS AND BLEACHES.

tas from wheat corn, grain sorghum and barley.

If growers rejected the program, production would be unlimited but price supports would be substantially lower and the secretary of agriculture would be authorized to dump some of the present surplus stocks on the market, further depressing prices.

Other features of the bill:

—Increased penalties for sale of excess production of these crops.

—A 25-acre exemption from production controls for farmers raising wheat or feed grains for their own livestock.

—Payments to wheat growers who divert wheat land for three years.

—A $10-million pilot program for assisting in establishment of recreation facilities on land removed from crop production. Kennedy also sought controls on oats and rye, but the Senate exempted those crops from the bill.

Republicans said the bill will lead to government regimentation of the meat, dairy, livestock and poultry industries.

Sen. George Aiken, R-Vt., predicting farmers will reject the program, said it would mean higher food prices and lower farm income unless there were heavy new government subsidies.

Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., called it "a giant step toward a planned economy."

Even Sen. Milton Young of North Dakota, the only Republican to vote for the omnibus measure, said he opposed the new wheat and feed grain provisions.

The administration got nowhere in its bid for lower dairy marketing quotas accompanied by higher price supports.

The committee rejected all dairy proposals, leaving the program as it is now. And an attempt to write in higher supports for milk producers who voluntarily hold production to this year's level was defeated 70 to 13.

Not Defenseless

LONDON, Ont. (AP) — After a severe rainstorm here a resident and his cat found a crayfish washed up on their doorstep. The cat got a punch on the nose for sniffing around.

Louisville's Louis

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — It was Gen. George Rodgers Clark who named this city in honor of King Louis XVI of France.

Holiday

The crowd will return to the City Hall for the program.

Charles Edwards, president of Council, will be master of ceremonies.

The Rev. James Donald, pastor of the Glenmoor United Presbyterian Church, will give the invocation and W. E. Shaw, minister of the Second Church of Christ, the benediction.

Other participants include Robin Snow, Boy Scout, Pledge of Allegiance; Tom Futhey, a student of East Liverpool High School, "Gettysburg Address," and Joe Judge and Jim Lang, both of the high school, taps. The combined posts will give the Memorial Day salute.

Ernest Lowe, a past commander of American Legion Post 4, will sing a solo, "My Buddy," and Curt Hague of WOHI will give a selection.

Massing of colors will be conducted on the steps. Eight Boy Scouts will stand at attention holding the colors of women's organizations. Girl Scouts will distribute the programs.

Services for the Navy and Marine Corps dead will be held at 10 a.m. on the Chester bridge under the auspices of the Ladies of the GAR, Navy Mothers Club, Gold Star Mothers Chapter and the Marine Corps League Auxiliary.

Participating will be Maj. William Hathorn of the Salvation Army, Post 374 color guard and buglers.

The committees are headed by James Cregar, commander of American Legion Post 374, host this year.

Committees include:

Program, Mrs. Helen Jones, Navy Chief Kenneth Brooks, Mrs. Mary Diddle, Sgt. Edward Vallor, Mrs. Mary Wines and Milton Reese.

Ministers and speakers, Chief Brooks and Sgt. Vallor.

Decorations and flags, John Ruhe, and transportation, Robert Pointer, Louis Krawiec, Sgt. Vallor, Harold Taylor, Mrs. Leslie Tatgenhorst and Mrs. Delores Crawford.

Music and bands, Ed Daily, Mrs. Odessa Burns and Mrs. Wines, and publicity, Ruhe and Mayor Bert Goodballet. The parade committee is headed by all post commanders. Willis O. Hall, past commander of VFW Post 66, is grand marshall.

Crash In Newell Area Causes $700 Damage

Damage was estimated at $700 in a two-car crash in the Newell area Thursday afternoon at 2:45, Hancock County sheriff's deputies reported.

The accident on 6th St. Rd. involved a west-bound 1957 Plymouth operated by John Lyons, 41, of 329 Jackman St., East Liverpool, and a 1961 Plymouth driven by Benjamin F. Booth, 41, of Box 401, Newell.

Deputies said the cars collided on a curve of the grade. Booth was traveling east.

The sheriff's office said both escaped injury. Deputies estimated $300 damage to the city man's car, and $400 ot Booth's sedan.

10,000 Fewer Farms

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The number of farms in Ohio is estimated to have dropped about 10,000 in the period from 1959 to 1961, say Ohio State University economists. They believe this took about 400,000 acres in farmland out of production.

Sherwood Forest of Robin Hood fame still is the most extensive woodland in England's industrial midlands.

Man Nabbed After Hit-Run

A city motorist was arrested Friday night in the downtown area near his home following a crash that caused extensive damage to two cars in East End.

Troxel D. Groves, 52, whose address was listed as 724 Green Ln. and also as Beaver R. D. 2, probably will be given a hearing Monday in Municipal Court.

Groves told police he knew nothing of the accident but said his car had been damaged between the time he left a Mulberry St. tavern and when he was picked up at E. 8th St. and Green Ln.

Police said the crash, which involved Groves' auto and a 1961 sedan operated by Otis Blankenship, 63, of 510 Walnut St., occurred shortly before 10 last night at Pennsylvania Ave. and Supplee St., a short street which enters the main thoroughfare near State St.

Blankenship told police he was headed east on Pennsylvania Ave. when he saw the westbound car approaching left of center. He pulled to hte right as far as possible but was unable to avoid the collision, Blankenship related.

at the Post Office but no home deliveries will be made and the windows will be closed.

Chester offices to be closed include the water works at City Hall and the West Virginia State Liquor Store.

The Hancock County Courthouse in New Cumberland and all other county offices will be closed all day. Only Sheriff Joseph H. Manypenny's office will remain open.

Draft Board 34 in Weirton will be closed Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, according to Mrs. Ila M. Snyder, assistant clerk. The Selective Service office serves Hancock County.

Offices in the Midland Borough Building will be closed.

The Crucible Steel Co. at Midland said individual department schedules for the holiday will be posted in the mill.

The Midland plant of the Mackintosh-Hemphill Division of the E. W. Bliss Co. will work Wednesday, a spokesman said.

Chester Woman Hurt In Collision

Mrs. Janice Cowles, 26, of 174 Pennsylvania Ave., Chester, is in "fair" condition today at City Hospital with injuries received in a two-car accident Friday about 4:50 p.m. at 1st St. and Virginia Ave. in Chester.

She suffered lacerations of the right knee and tongue and a possible fracture of the jaw. Examined but apparently suffering no injuries were her daughter, Beth Ann, 2, and Michael Mooney, 8 months, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Mooney of Fremont, also a passenger in the Cowles' 1958 sedan.

John J. Anderson, 39, of Monroeville, Pa., driver of the other car involved, posted a $30.50 bond for a hearing next Saturday at 10 a.m. before Chester Mayor Ray Collins on a charge of failing to yield the right-of-way and driving left of center.

He was cited by Police Chief Harold Davis after his 1962 sedan hit the auto driven by Mrs. Cowles. Police said Anderson was driving south on 1st St. and started to make a left turn onto Virginia Ave. and hit the Cowles sedan northbound on 1st St. head-on.

There was about $1,500 total damage, police said.

Farm He Farmed 40 Years Will Be Park

LINCOLN CITY, Ind. — Leo Sergesketter has farmed the Lincoln farm, which is to be made a national memorial park, for 40 years.

He became owner of the farm, on which young Abraham Lincoln helped his father, in 1922.

2 Pass Exams For Firemen

Two of three applicants scored passing grades in a Municipal Civil Service Commission examination Friday night to establish a fire department eligilbility list.

In the competitive examination at City Hall, the passing grades were received by William Jerome McKeever, 1013 Avondale St., and John Francis Davies, 340 W. 5th St. McKeever received the top score, the commission said.

The commission will conduct a test Monday night at 8 at City Hall for the post of public health nurse.

Only two are scheduled to take the examination, the second to be offered. Three took the previous test but none received passing scores.

The competitive exam is being held to choose a successor to Mrs. Jeannette Carpenter who is scheduled to retire after 34 years' service.

The commission is composed of Donal I. Burcham, chairman, Atty. Ben H. Berman and A. A. Fiorello with P. K. Calhoon as clerk.

Motorist Tangles With Moth And Loses

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Ray Dunn, 36, of Tucson, tangled with a small moth and lost.

Dunn had a cigarette in his hand when he attempted to smash the moth flying around inside his car. The motorist burned his hand, dropped the cigarette in his lap, attempted to snuff it out, sideswipted the side of an underpass and finally came to a halt. The moth escaped.

Yvette Mimieux may seem shy and demure—but she's really fiercely determined to reach the Hollywood heights

By PEER J. OPPENHEIMER

LANA TURNER was discovered sitting at a counter in Schwab's Drugstore.

Kim Novak was seen by an agent while she was bicycling through Beverly Hills.

But the most unusual movie discovery of all took place three years ago in the Hollywood Hills. A slim, blonde, blue-eyed, 16-year-old girl was galloping her horse along a bridle path when a press agent's helicopter developed engine trouble—and made a forced landing right in her path! Publicist Jim Byron took one look at beautiful Yvette Mimieux, handed her his card, and announced, "If you want to get into the movies, call me."

Yvette didn't wait around for another wild coincidence to boost her toward stardom—she isn't that kind of girl. Despite her aura of shy demureness, she is a strong-willed person who leaves nothing to chance.

Before Yvette had met Jim Byron on the bridle path, she had begun to build up a solid reputation as one of the West Coast's most promising young photographer's models. She had turned to modeling rather than to acting because her father, Rene Mimieux, did not want her in show business. As a young immigrant from France, he had played bit parts in a number of Hollywood movies, including Cecil B. DeMille's silent epic, "King of Kings." But he decided against a film career and took a job with an electronics firm instead.

Yvette's mother, Mexican-born Carmen Montemayor, didn't have strong feelings about a film career for her daughter. She just wanted her to be happy.

SO YVETTE did not meet a solid wall of parental opposition when she decided—after careful consideration—that Jim Byron's card was the key to the career she really wanted. And as soon as she had made her decision Yvette set out like a house afire to become an actress.

"I knew there was a lot of work to be done and the sooner I got started the better prepared I'd be when my chance came," Yvette told me when I visited her recently on the island of Kauai, where she was on location for her latest movie, "Diamond Head."

Yvette heard about a young director from New York who was attempting to form an acting group. But it was Yvette who found an abandoned store that could be rented for $25 a month, and it was she who scrubbed the floors and painted the walls to get the little theater in shape for use as a showcase. The troupe soon developed into a thriving drama workshop that presented a continuing series of plays—and Yvette appeared in most of them.

But Yvette realized she needed a well-rounded education to get ahead. Typically, she refused to settle for anything short of the very best. She earned a scholarship to Nico Charisse's ballet classes, studied modern rhythm with Roland DuPree, and talked the highly selective Maestro Cepparo into teaching her operatic singing.

With determination like that behind it, Yvette's film career couldn't help but skyrocket. "The Light in the Piazza" established her as Hollywood's hottest young star. And "Diamond Head," which has the same director, Guy Green, should do even more to boost her career.

YVETTE'S experience with directors has not always been happy. She did not get along with Vincent Minnelli, who directed her in "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse." She feels his impatience and shouting resulted in her giving a bad performance.

But she has a sure defense against such badgering. If there is a difference of opinion, she will never argue. Instead, a blank look comes over her face as she disappears into a world of her own. And she remains there until she has won her point!

Yvette's talent for keeping silent extends to her relations with the press. She was married in December, 1959, to Evan Harlan Engber, a UCLA psychology major—but she has never admitted it.

Why? Partly because her publicist wants to surround her with an air of mystery. But the reasons go deeper. As Yvette said: "The less I give of myself to the public, the less I can be hurt."

As a result, only her family and close friends know where and how she lives. The only way to contact her is through her parents or her manager.

But studio executives don't mind the inconvenience. Why should they—as long as Yvette continues to captivate a larger and larger audience of movie-goers?

The PT-Boat Commander Who Rescued Him from Corregidor Tells:

MacArthur's Closest Call

By CAPT. JOHN D. BULKELEY U.S.N.

My Most Inspiring Moment

By FANNIE HURST

MacArthur's Closest Call

Memorial Day recalls a great moment in a dark time—snatching Mac from Corregidor in 1942; here is the PT-boat commander's own account of that daring escape

By Capt. JOHN D. BULKELEY, U. S. N.
Congressional Medal of Honor Winner
as told to Jack Ryan

I WAITED until the four PT boats were drawn in column formation, then flashed a signal to proceed.

Lieut. Robert Kelly's PT 34 was first in column, and it went scudding across the surface of Manila Bay. If there were any mines in our path, Kelly would take the full brunt of their deadliness. The rest of us would live to face the next risk.

The sky was overcast, and a heavy early evening mist stung our faces as we clipped over the choppy sea. Rotten weather, I thought, and that was the only thing that pleased me at the moment.

I wasn't at all sure this would be the most successful mission on the logs of Motor Torpedo Boat Squadron 3. First, we would have to weave through six lines of mines dotting the escape route from besieged Bataan and Corregidor, then sneak past a double column of Japanese warships blockading Manila. Bad weather here was a God-send, cloaking our flight. But next came 620 miles of open sea in our little mahogany and plywood eggshells—620 miles dominated by Jap aircraft, destroyers, cruisers, with bad weather the worst enemy of all.

One man aboard was confident though. Below me in the boat's pilothouse, Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Supreme Allied Commander, Far East, rode out the kidney-jarring bumps in a deep wicker armchair, legs crossed and eyes fixed on the wake of Kelly's boat just ahead.

Until an hour ago this March 11, 1942, I had been one of the few persons in the embattled Philippines who knew the General's orders from Washington—leave Corregidor and its defenders, proceed to Australia and take command of the Allied Forces in the South Pacific in preparation for a comeback offensive. Reluctantly, he complied. His staff urged him to make the breakthrough by plane or submarine.

"Exactly what the Japanese expect," he had replied. And then with a supreme tactician's instinct for surprise, he had informed me, as commander of his only PT-boat squadron, that we PT men must make the breakthrough and take him to Cagayan, Mindanao Island, on the first and most hazardous leg of his escape. From Mindanao, a plane would fly him to Australia.

His staff was shocked. A 70-foot PT boat is not built for long-range missions. Its light structure combined with the 3,750 horsepower of its three V-12 Packard engines made even a short trip a bruising grind, especially for landlubbers.

But MacArthur believed in PTs. ("Give me 200 of them," he had told me even before Pearl Harbor, "and I can defend all the Philippines." He had six when war broke out, and now only our four were left.) I've thought since that surprise wasn't the General's sole motive for choosing PTs. The daring of his plan was a gesture of defiance to the Japs poised to capture him. He knew he had to leave his men when the second peremptory order came from President Roosevelt, but he was determined to leave as gallantly as his men were then fighting.

I had virtually memorized the mine-field positions, and I mentally ticked them off—four, five, six. Then I flashed a signal to Kelly: "Open up." The PTs lifted under the surge of extra power, and we soon were hitting about 35 knots through darkness and the columns of Jap blockaders toward our first day's rendezvous at tiny Cuyo.

The General had brought with him 21 officers and men vital to our future campaigns, and these passengers had room only to sprawl beside the torpedo tubes of the four boats while crashing waves drenched them and the decks jarred at them like jackhammers.

But they were tough Army veterans. I was more concerned for the passengers in the cramped cabin of my PT 41. The General's wife, their son Arthur, almost 4, and his Chinese amah (nurse) must be taking a real shaking, I thought. When the family had stepped aboard at Corregidor's North Dock, I had warned: "This will be a rough trip, Mrs. MacArthur." She appeared especially small and delicate.

"Why, we expect it, Lieutenant," she replied. I doubt if the youngster thought he was going on much more than a pleasure jaunt, although he seemed to sense the tension.

We had secured 1,100 gallons of 100-octane gasoline on each PT deck for the long journey—enough extra fuel to send a boat up in a swhoosh of flames if even a fragment of hot steel struck it right. But early on March 12, the 55-gallon drums began presenting another kind of a problem. Under the heavy jarring, they shifted loose—if one tore free, it could smash men and equipment unmercifully.

Both PT 32 and PT 34 were forced to drop out of formation to lash their drums tighter. I soon lost visual contact with PT 35, under Tony Akers, so we each found ourselves on our own, anxious men in little boats navigating in an almost starless night toward an island not much bigger than some back yards.

A Case of Mistaken Identity

Yet later, when I wiped salt spray out of my eyes and peered into the first dawn light, the shape of Cuyo was almost dead ahead and, happily, I could see PT 34 coming in, too, and then the 35 boat. Some officers, trying to stretch the aches out of their bruised bodies, studied the last boat, PT 32, as she approached.

Capt. H. J. Ray, U. S. Navy, chief of staff to Admiral Rockwell, first spotted trouble. "Say, Lieut. Bulkeley," he shouted, "the 32 boat has uncovered its .50 calibers and swung out the torpedo tubes. Looks like she's attacking!"

I saw it myself. The 32 boat was preparing for action—against us. The gasoline drums had so changed our silhouette that 32's crew had mistaken us for a Jap destroyer. Now they were jettisoning gasoline drums in preparation for

AMAZING QUIZZIAC

Fun for the Whole Family automatically answers hundreds of questions — permanent, built-in magnetic power source.

What Is QUIZZIAC?

Quizziac is a real question-and-answer robot. Its whirring, magnetic-powered "Memory Wheel" answers your questions automatically, unerringly. Entertaining for the lone child or adult, Quizziac also is a group game the whole family enjoys. Quizziac is even a modern teaching machine that employs principles similar to full-size classroom models.

QUIZZIAC ANSWERS QUESTIONS LIKE: How do fish breathe? Who wrote "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea"? Baseball's "Hall of Fame" is located where? What is the name of the famous Mongolian desert? What is the chemical symbols of table salt? . . . These are but a few of the more than 300 questions Quizziac can answer immediately.

QUIZZIAC COMES TO YOU COMPLETE. You get dozens of special question-discs that allow you to "program" Quizziac (much the same way scientists "feed" facts to their electronic computers). With Quizziac you also receive a complete 36-page handbook, special letter cards, and score sheets. The Quizziac outfit measures a big 18½" by 12" by 2½" and weighs nearly three pounds. It is regularly priced at $4.95.

QUIZZIAC IMPORTANT PART OF PROGRAM!

If you decide to enroll your child in the Program, he will receive hundreds of extra question discs which "match" the subject matter of monthly Kits. These new discs will make each Golden Adventure more fun — far more resultful — because your child will be able to test himself on what he has learned.

Delight in your child's wide-eyed wonderment when he eagerly opens FORTHCOMING ADVENTURE KITS LIKE THESE — EVERY MONTH!

Plus Many Others — All Guaranteed by Famous GOLDEN BOOKS

GOLDEN ADVENTURE PROGRAM

NOW . . . a new way to explore the endless wonders of the universe at home . . . Educational ADVENTURE KITS with authentic specimens . . . real equipment . . . scientific experiments . . . easy-to-use, fully illustrated Golden Guidebooks.

PARENTS—the world you knew as a youngster has vanished. It is gone forever. In its place is a whole new world that belongs to your child — an exciting world of atomic power, manned spaceships, whirling satellites, electronic brains. Yet the wise parent realizes that if his child takes for granted these push-button miracles . . . if he fails to grasp the meaning of nature's forces and how man harnesses them . . . he may never attain the awareness that makes life richer and more meaningful.

Too many children fall behind — in school, in college, in life — because they aren't given the chance to find out for themselves what makes things "tick." They never really sense the mystery that is nature . . . the wonderful adventure that is science!

Now, there's a fabulous new way to learn about nature and science — and have a barrel of fun, too: the Golden Adventure Program. Already more than 40,000 parents have enrolled their children! Why this huge success? Because the creators of Golden Books know how to "reach" boys and girls . . . to intrigue their minds, trigger their vast energy, satisfy their boundless curiosity.

Complete ADVENTURE KITS Thrill and Teach Your Child

This is not a disappointing sit-and-read-and-imagine "club." Each Golden Adventure brings your youngster real action . . . plenty to do (such as raising brine shrimp in a jar) . . . and see (like actual gold ore and uranium ore samples) . . . and experience (such as forecasting weather) . . . and read, too (like the wonder-filled Golden Guidebooks that unlock nature's secrets). Learning becomes an adventure. Yes, and it awakens a lifelong eagerness to know "how" and "why." Your child's mind grows more perceptive, his thinking more alert. He gains new self-confidence, he "shines" in school, and his grades show it!

Your youngster receives monthly Golden Adventure Kits (each in its own sturdy case). They include quality equipment for safe experimenting. Also actual specimens, clear instructions — and an expertly-written, illustrated Golden Guidebook. Each Kit opens up a new "world" . . . Underwater Life, Astronomy, Birds, Nature Craft, Sea Shells, Insects, Plants, to name a few. Quizziac (with self-grading score sheets) is an important, continuing part of the Program. Each month extra question-discs reinforce your child's learning — even enable him to test himself!

Now, $4.95 QUIZZIAC is Yours FREE Send No Money. Nothing You Must Buy!

Send the coupon now — without money. We'll rush amazing Quizziac free, yours to keep. You'll also receive the "Weather" Adventure Kit (shown at left) to inspect free for 10 days. WEATHER STATION "Sample" Adventure Kit

Predicting tomorrow's weather is a thrilling, never-to-be-forgotten experience! And this real weather station brings your child everything he needs to become an amateur meteorologist. Youngsters and adults share the fascination of learning how to observe, measure — and most fun of all — how to forecast weather.

You get all this equipment: Automatic Cloud Identifier with special Window Sight; Revolving Disc Humidity Computer; Wind Direction Finder (portable); Counterbalanced Wind Velocity Meter; Calibrated Thermometer; Hygrometer Humidity Gauge; Sample Weather Map; Guide to U.S. Weather Bureau Symbols; Forecaster's Log; Instruction Booklet. Sturdy Hinged-Top Case. Big 100-page Golden Guidebook answers intriguing questions like . . . What controls the earth's temperatures? What is air? How much does it weigh? What makes wind blow? Where does water come from? Why do clouds have a silver lining? How do scientists make forecasts? How are balloons, radiosondes and radar used? How space satellites help? Can man change the weather?

Solo

By FANNIE HURST

Author of "Imitation of Life," "Back Street," "Humoresque," and the recent novel, "God Must Be Sad"

tuned up and burst into the overture.

In the wings, I could dimly discern from my point of vantage a little procession of silent figures moving single file through off-stage gloom toward the stage.

First, a small shawled woman holding to her bosom what appeared to be a warmly wrapped infant; following her, a near-sighted young man in heavy glasses; behind him, a man who obviously was his father; and last, three young girls aged about 9, 11, and 13.

I wondered: who could they be? A family of acrobats?

Then, before my fascinated eyes, the woman proceeded to unwrap the bundle she held so tenderly and drew out a violin. After handing it to the young man, she withdrew into the shadows.

THE OVERTURE flourished to its conclusion. The young man with the violin walked onto the stage to thunderous greeting and launched into a brilliant program that ranged from Bach's "Air for the G String" to Kreisler's "Liebeslied."

For almost an hour, the small, lonely-looking young man on the immense stage held his audience in a silence into which a pin would have dropped with a bang. Cheers recalled him for encore after encore, and all the while the shadowy group stood in the wings, the father foremost now, listening, listening.

Who was he?

Finally, I mustered courage to ask the man at my right for a look at his program. I read: Soloist—Mischa Elman.

I was immensely thrilled: Fannie Hurst of Cates Avenue, St. Louis, seated on stage a few feet away from Mischa Elman.

People frequently ask if I obtain my characters and situations from life. The answer is: almost never, insofar as writing of real-life situations or people I have met. But in the last analysis, all impressions indirectly result from people or situations.

I seldom am able to pinpoint the beginning of an idea, a character, or a plot. I might witness an emotional explosion between a man and a woman seated at the next table in a restaurant. But it would never occur to me to introduce it per se in a novel or short story. However, I may some day, subconsciously or unconsciously, use that episode in an unrelated situation. But I never deliberately go after material.

Thus the impressions of that Carnegie Hall concert lingered in my mind: that young genius holding a vast audience spellbound; the splendor of his music; the old man's hypnotic eyes transfixed on his son.

Without quite realizing why, I found myself wandering days on end through the overcrowded lower East Side of New York, winding my way through pushcart markets, peering into unsanitary passageways, riding the elevated trains for glimpses into tenement interiors as we sped past.

From whence had come that shadowy group in the wings of Carnegie Hall? From New York's storied slums? There were countless legends of genius that had sprouted in that fetid world.

It so happened that the Elman family had its roots in far-off Russia. Be that as it may, my mind kept chewing around that group like a candle flame nibbling its wick.

Gradually, a concept of a boy violinist out of a background dark and shadowy began to take shape in my mind. A family came to life, and I finally conceived a short story entitled "Humoresque."

After years of submitting stories and getting enough rejection slips to paper the walls of my room, "Humoresque" marked the beginning of my career as a successful writer. It was published in a national magazine and later in anthologies; it was translated into many languages; it was produced as a play and three times as a motion picture. Even now, it is not unusual for the orchestra to burst into Dvořak's "Humoresque" as I enter a restaurant.

UP TO THAT TIME I had never met Mischa Elman. But I married Jacques S. Danielson, who was his close friend. Thus my association with Mischa began, and it has lasted and intensified over the years.

Now the circle begins to round out to its perfection.

Following the death of my husband, I enjoyed the supreme fulfillment of creating a memorial to him. The medical college which received the endowment acknowledged it with a banquet. On the dais were many of my husband's closest friends, including Mischa Elman.

It had been suggested that he be asked to play. But I opposed it; Mischa was invited as a friend, not a performer. But as the evening moved to its climax, he suddenly rose, walked over to the toastmaster, and whispered to him. The toastmaster nodded excited consent.

Then, unannounced and on a borrowed violin, he proceeded to play, with unforgettable emotion, the "Air for the G String" and Kreisler's "Liebeslied."

No one there except the two of us knew that, in repeating the compositions he had played on another evening long before, he was rounding into a complete circle my most inspiring moment.

Penne Percy—Girl in a Whirl

What happens to a Family Weekly cover girl? This one has won the Maid of Cotton title—and a role in a Hollywood film!

By ROBERT PEER

Penne gets a good-luck kiss from Mom, once a Maid of Cotton finalist herself.

TWO YEARS AGO this week, Penne Percy, a sparkling 17-year-old Texas blonde, became FAMILY WEEKLY'S second Miss Somebody.

A lot has happened to Penne (pronounced Penny) since then—so much that she again rates a cover feature.

In December, the girl from Waco was chosen from among more than 300 Southern belles to reign as the 1962 Maid of Cotton.

"You can't imagine what this means to a girl from the South," she says. "If you live in a cotton state, you grow up with the idea of entering this contest. Why, my two little sisters, who are only 14 and 8, are already thinking about it."

Penne could hardly ask for more—a Southern girl's dream had come true. But more good fortune was on its way. Recently, a famous Hollywood movie producer, Joe Pasternak, asked her the question every American girl would like to hear: "How would you like to be in the movies?"

He first saw Penne on FAMILY WEEKLY'S cover and was so impressed he asked to meet her. After seeing her in person, he offered her a role in his next MGM film, "The Courtship of Eddie's Father," with Glenn Ford.

How have the glamor and excitement affected Penne's outlook? "I still can't believe it's happening to me," she confessed over lunch at the Beverly Hills Hotel recently.

"After my picture appeared on the cover of FAMILY WEEKLY, the phone rang almost constantly. Everywhere I went in Waco people recognized me. When I went to college in Austin, it was the same story all over again."

Penne believes the FAMILY WEEKLY story and cover helped bring her to the attention of the judges of the Maid of Cotton contest. This development was especially pleasing to her because she had a very personal reason for wanting to enter this contest—and win it.

Her mother, the former Ann Green, reached the Maid of Cotton finals in 1941 but was disqualified when it was discovered she was only five-foot-four instead of the required five-foot-five. So, in a way, Penne won the crown for her mother as well as for herself.

As Maid of Cotton, she has been caught up in a wonderful whirl of excitement. She received a 42-piece wardrobe (all cotton, of course), 23 pieces of luggage, a new car, and an opportunity to travel throughout the U.S. and five foreign countries as good-will ambassador for the American cotton industry. Right now she is in Paris on the last leg of her tour.

Of course, being Maid of Cotton requires more than a pretty face. As representative of a great industry, she has to be a personable and levelheaded diplomat, too. Penne has handled this phase of her task well, just as anyone who knows her would have predicted.

Fellow students at the University of Texas remember her as a girl who was serious about her studies and who helped pay her own way by working part time as a fashion adviser in an Austin department store.

Penne enjoyed college life—and she met a boy there she likes very much. But finishing college and getting married may be a long way off for this lovely Miss Somebody from Texas. Her Maid of Cotton tour has taken her away from campus for six months. And she may be away even longer if her movie career turns out to be as promising as it now appears.

PT 32 was preparing for action—against us. I knew we would have to move fast to keep MacArthur from losing his life to his own boats.

ILLUSTRATION BY ISA BARNETT

action, and I knew we'd have to move fast if we were going to keep General MacArthur from losing his life to one of his own boats.

Our crew and passengers yelled and waved at 32 as it pressed on. I swung about to present less target and, I hoped, a more familiar silhouette. The PT 32 seemed to rise out of the sea as it gathered momentum for a hit-and-run punch. I started to try gunning us out of his path when I saw 32's wake subside and its bow slip rather shamefacedly into the sea. We cut back our engines and idled there, dazed at our close call.

Everybody was hoarse by then. Everybody but me, and when I got through telling off the 32's crew I was hoarse, too. But we had too much work to worry about what-might-have-beens. Boats 34 and 35 came in, and we hugged the beaches hoping we would not be sighted.

The MacArthurs stayed by themselves: Mrs. MacArthur calm and busy as ever, the General silent and withdrawn, the child and amah bewildered and pitifully ill from the sea. The night had taken a physical toll, and as the day progressed I guessed we were in for worse.

"The weather will be heavy tonight," I told the staff officers. "We'll leave at dark, though, and with luck we'll be at Mindanao by dawn."

Adm. F. W. Rockwell and some other officers disagreed. "It will be calm—just look at the day! And there shouldn't be any Japs this far out. Let's leave while we have some daylight."

Before we had left Corregidor, MacArthur had told the admirals, generals, and colonels that they'd take orders from Bulkeley, even though I was only a lieutenant. Anything they had to say would be advice only. But such high-echelon opinion made me doubt my estimate, and I compromised. Leaving the 32 boat behind to rendezvous with a submarine in the area, we roared out of Cuyo in the late afternoon, hoping for good weather for our last dash through open seas.

It was a picture-book sunset, and Mrs. MacArthur came up for a breath of air. The General was resting, and for the first time there was a feeling of security. Then a lookout yelled: "Enemy cruiser one point on the port bow." There she was, right off Panay Island.

I caught a glimpse of a grim, low shadow in the distance, and spun the wheel hard. The sun was blazing on the horizon, and I raced to get between it and the cruiser. The choppy sea might obscure our wake and the sunlight blind the Jap lookouts. We had to hope so, anyway.

Mrs. MacArthur stood expressionless and watched our evasive tactics for a while. Then, with surprising agility, she stepped across the pitching deck and went below to her son. The General sat silently in his wicker chair, an almost academic observer.

For long minutes my job was simply to cling to the eye-stinging ribbon of sunlight and sea. A single cloud obscuring the sun could have been disastrous. Both the sun and the cruiser seemed motionless, and I began to wonder if either would ever drop behind the horizon. The lookout kept reassuring us, "She's holding her course. She can't have spotted us." At last I noticed a blue haze gathering around us; the sea was darkening, too, as night closed in unhurriedly. There were whispered words of relief from the passengers, but I didn't share them.

And Now a New Enemy!

The passengers had been too occupied with the cruiser to notice the seas we were plunging into. We had guessed wrong about there being no Japs around, and now, as I fought the wheel, I knew we'd guessed wrong about calm seas.

By the time we were between the Sulu and Mindanao Seas, the waves were some 12 feet high. The PTs' hulls groaned under the blows, and we wondered if we'd hear the splintering sound of cracking wood that would signal the end. We bumped along, though, spotting dim mounds of land that guided us on our course, but even that was an ordeal since the salt water had burned our eyes until they were only slits. We had not slept in two days, and the passengers clung helplessly to the rolling decks, many not caring whether they lived or died. Now it came down to navigation: if I had plotted our course right, we would be safe at Mindanao at dawn. If not, I wondered if either men or boats could keep going.

A gray light began to filter down around 6 a.m., and I saw the top of a point of land. As the dawn light came further over the sea, I knew navigation had beaten the odds and we were on target. Somebody said: "Rouse the General. We've made it—God knows how!"

The Ramrod Carriage—As Always

MacArthur had wrapped himself in a field coat and tried to sleep. Now he meticulously shook salt spray off his famous gold-braid cap and began to show the first signs of impatience. On a long wooden dock at Cagayan, officers were waiting for us, their faces as anxious and gray as ours.

Mrs. MacArthur came from her cabin, unsteady now but still very much occupied with her household. She told me the amah was helpless, so I went below to carry young Arthur to a car.

There wasn't time for lengthy farewells. The General had to be whisked off before anybody realized who he was. The ordeal had left the 62-year-old man drawn and weary, so I was surprised to see him a few minutes later on the dock. The old ramrod carriage was as always, and so, too, the sonorous voice and piercing eyes. He had only a few words for the PT crews, but we aren't likely to forget them:

"You have taken me out of the jaws of death, and I won't forget it. God bless you."

Then he walked off, a jaunty spring coming back in his step. He has remarkable powers of recovery, I thought wearily, and, as history proved, that was a darn good observation.

His only daughter was growing up and was now attending her first spring dance. He watched her across the ballroom, remembering the dungaree-clad tomboy of old.

At the end of the evening, as he helped her with her wrap, she asked, "Daddy, do we have to go right away? Can't we wait for Jimmy?"

A sense of loss touched him. "Why? You danced every dance with Jimmy."

"I know," she replied grimly, "and he stomped all over my feet. Boy, just let me get one kick at his shins, Daddy—just one!" —Herm Albright

Violin

For almost an hour, the young violinist held his audience in silent wonder. I soon learned his name—famed Mischa Elman.

ILLUSTRATION BY NORMAN BAER

Was it merely fate that the paths of a celebrated writer and a famous violinist would cross in such a strange way?

UPON GRADUATION from a Midwestern university, I came to New York, driven by a relentless compulsion to write, which to this day continues to lay on the lash.

From the first day of my arrival in Mecca to this urgent now, it was to remain a city of enchantment; a city fearful and wonderful, one that can crack your bones and eat you, or exalt and inspire you.

But, somehow, its terribleness seldom overwhelmed me. Instead, I succumbed to its stimulation.

Without a friend or acquaintance, I explored it by day and sometimes by night, looking up at the windows of tall apartment houses and thrilling to the thought that within them artists might be at work—musicians, writers, composers, dreamers, doers. Fritz Kreisler might be up there, Edna St. Vincent Millay, Sinclair Lewis.

And to think that I was actually breathing the very same air with them.

Day after day I trudged the exciting streets, peddling my manuscripts and, after each rejection, planning and plotting the next story. It was slow, sometimes tortuous going, but never for a moment did I regret the giant step to the Mecca where so many were struggling for that slippery first rung of the ladder.

One evening, I chanced to pass Carnegie Hall. At the time, I did not even know it by name, but I followed the crowds pouring in. As I approached the box office, I saw a sign which read: "Sold Out Except for Seats on the Stage." The idea of sitting on the stage intrigued me more than the concert itself, so I went in. Finally, I found myself perched in the front row of chairs arranged behind the orchestra—not only facing the packed amphitheater but also with a view off stage into the wings.

What an experience! I was an insider. The large orchestra

Furnishings with a Foreign Flair

By RUTH W. LEE

■ It's no secret that furnishings from Scandinavia and the Far East have inspired American designs of everything from ash trays to sofa beds—and this simple, elegant influence is currently very strong. Designers here are now creating Scandinavian and oriental furniture to rival priceless imports.

And the range is wide—from expensive line-for-line copies to the less expensive, but no less beautiful, adaptations. The reason for the popularity of these décors is self-evident. As these photos show, the two can stand alone brilliantly on their own graceful lines, or, as perfect complements to each other, can be blended into one harmonious design.

Yvette Mimieux may seem shy and demure—but she's really fiercely determined to reach the Hollywood heights

By PEER J. OPPENHEIMER

LANA TURNER was discovered sitting at a counter in Schwab's Drugstore.

Kim Novak was seen by an agent while she was bicycling through Beverly Hills.

But the most unusual movie discovery of all took place three years ago in the Hollywood Hills. A slim, blonde, blue-eyed, 16-year-old girl was galloping her horse along a bridle path when a press agent's helicopter developed engine trouble—and made a forced landing right in her path! Publicist Jim Byron took one look at beautiful Yvette Mimieux, handed her his card, and announced, "If you want to get into the movies, call me."

Yvette didn't wait around for another wild coincidence to boost her toward stardom—she isn't that kind of girl. Despite her aura of shy demureness, she is a strong-willed person who leaves nothing to chance.

Before Yvette had met Jim Byron on the bridle path, she had begun to build up a solid reputation as one of the West Coast's most promising young photographer's models. She had turned to modeling rather than to acting because her father, Rene Mimieux, did not want her in show business. As a young immigrant from France, he had played bit parts in a number of Hollywood movies, including Cecil B. DeMille's silent epic, "King of Kings." But he decided against a film career and took a job with an electronics firm instead.

Yvette's mother, Mexican-born Carmen Montemayor, didn't have strong feelings about a film career for her daughter. She just wanted her to be happy.

SO YVETTE did not meet a solid wall of parental opposition when she decided—after careful consideration—that Jim Byron's card was the key to the career she really wanted. And as soon as she had made her decision Yvette set out like a house afire to become an actress.

"I knew there was a lot of work to be done and the sooner I got started the better prepared I'd be when my chance came," Yvette told me when I visited her recently on the island of Kauai, where she was on location for her latest movie, "Diamond Head."

Yvette heard about a young director from New York who was attempting to form an acting group. But it was Yvette who found an abandoned store that could be rented for $25 a month, and it was she who scrubbed the floors and painted the walls to get the little theater in shape for use as a showcase. The troupe soon developed into a thriving drama workshop that presented a continuing series of plays—and Yvette appeared in most of them.

But Yvette realized she needed a well-rounded education to get ahead. Typically, she refused to settle for anything short of the very best. She earned a scholarship to Nico Charisse's ballet classes, studied modern rhythm with Roland DuPree, and talked the highly selective Maestro Cepparo into teaching her operatic singing.

With determination like that behind it, Yvette's film career couldn't help but skyrocket. "The Light in the Piazza" established her as Hollywood's hottest young star. And "Diamond Head," which has the same director, Guy Green, should do even more to boost her career.

YVETTE'S experience with directors has not always been happy. She did not get along with Vincent Minnelli, who directed her in "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse." She feels his impatience and shouting resulted in her giving a bad performance.

But she has a sure defense against such badgering. If there is a difference of opinion, she will never argue. Instead, a blank look comes over her face as she disappears into a world of her own. And she remains there until she has won her point!

Yvette's talent for keeping silent extends to her relations with the press. She was married in December, 1959, to Evan Harlan Engber, a UCLA psychology major—but she has never admitted it.

Why? Partly because her publicist wants to surround her with an air of mystery. But the reasons go deeper. As Yvette said: "The less I give of myself to the public, the less I can be hurt."

As a result, only her family and close friends know where and how she lives. The only way to contact her is through her parents or her manager.

But studio executives don't mind the inconvenience. Why should they—as long as Yvette continues to captivate a larger and larger audience of movie-goers?

MacArthur's Closest Call

By Capt. JOHN D. BULKELEY, U. S. N.
Congressional Medal of Honor Winner
as told to Jack Ryan

I WAITED until the four PT boats were drawn in column formation, then flashed a signal to proceed.

Lieut. Robert Kelly's PT 34 was first in column, and it went scudding across the surface of Manila Bay. If there were any mines in our path, Kelly would take the full brunt of their deadliness. The rest of us would live to face the next risk.

The sky was overcast, and a heavy early evening mist stung our faces as we clipped over the choppy sea. Rotten weather, I thought, and that was the only thing that pleased me at the moment.

I wasn't at all sure this would be the most successful mission on the logs of Motor Torpedo Boat Squadron 3. First, we would have to weave through six lines of mines dotting the escape route from besieged Bataan and Corregidor, then sneak past a double column of Japanese warships blockading Manila. Bad weather here was a Godsend, cloaking our flight. But next came 620 miles of open sea in our little mahogany and plywood eggshells—620 miles dominated by Jap aircraft, destroyers, cruisers, with bad weather the worst enemy of all.

One man aboard was confident though. Below me in the boat's pilothouse, Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Supreme Allied Commander, Far East, rode out the kidney-jarring bumps in a deep wicker armchair, legs crossed and eyes fixed on the wake of Kelly's boat just ahead.

Until an hour ago this March 11, 1942, I had been one of the few persons in the embattled Philippines who knew the General's orders from Washington—leave Corregidor and its defenders, proceed to Australia and take command of the Allied Forces in the South Pacific in preparation for a comeback offensive. Reluctantly, he complied. His staff urged him to make the breakthrough by plane or submarine.

"Exactly what the Japanese expect," he had replied. And then with a supreme tactician's instinct for surprise, he had informed me, as commander of his only PT-boat squadron, that we PT men must make the breakthrough and take him to Cagayan, Mindanao Island, on the first and most hazardous leg of his escape. From Mindanao, a plane would fly him to Australia.

His staff was shocked. A 70-foot PT boat is not built for long-range missions. Its light structure combined with the 3,750 horsepower of its three V-12 Packard engines made even a short trip a bruising grind, especially for landlubbers.

But MacArthur believed in PTs. ("Give me 200 of them," he had told me even before Pearl Harbor, "and I can defend all the Philippines." He had six when war broke out, and now only our four were left.) I've thought since that surprise wasn't the General's sole motive for choosing PTs. The daring of his plan was a gesture of defiance to the Japs poised to capture him. He knew he had to leave his men when the second peremptory order came from President Roosevelt, but he was determined to leave as gallantly as his men were then fighting.

I had virtually memorized the mine-field positions, and I mentally ticked them off—four, five, six. Then I flashed a signal to Kelly: "Open up." The PTs lifted under the surge of extra power, and we soon were hitting about 35 knots through darkness and the columns of Jap blockaders toward our first day's rendezvous at tiny Cuyo.

The General had brought with him 21 officers and men vital to our future campaigns, and these passengers had room only to sprawl beside the torpedo tubes of the four boats while crashing waves drenched them and the decks jarred at them like jackhammers.

But they were tough Army veterans. I was more concerned for the passengers in the cramped cabin of my PT 41. The General's wife, their son Arthur, almost 4, and his Chinese amah (nurse) must be taking a real shaking, I thought. When the family had stepped aboard at Corregidor's North Dock, I had warned: "This will be a rough trip, Mrs. MacArthur." She appeared especially small and delicate.

"Why, we expect it, Lieutenant," she replied. I doubt if the youngster thought he was going on much more than a pleasure jaunt, although he seemed to sense the tension.

We had secured 1,100 gallons of 100-octane gasoline on each PT deck for the long journey—enough extra fuel to send a boat up in a swhoosh of flames if even a fragment of hot steel struck it right. But early on March 12, the 55-gallon drums began presenting another kind of a problem. Under the heavy jarring, they shifted loose—if one tore free, it could smash men and equipment unmercifully.

Both PT 32 and PT 34 were forced to drop out of formation to lash their drums tighter. I soon lost visual contact with PT 35, under Tony Akers, so we each found ourselves on our own, anxious men in little boats navigating in an almost starless night toward an island not much bigger than some back yards.

A Case of Mistaken Identity

Yet later, when I wiped salt spray out of my eyes and peered into the first dawn light, the shape of Cuyo was almost dead ahead and, happily, I could see PT 34 coming in, too, and then the 35 boat. Some officers, trying to stretch the aches out of their bruised bodies, studied the last boat, PT 32, as she approached.

Capt. H. J. Ray, U. S. Navy, chief of staff to Admiral Rockwell, first spotted trouble. "Say, Lieut. Bulkeley," he shouted, "the 32 boat has uncovered its .50 calibers and swung out the torpedo tubes. Looks like she's attacking!"

I saw it myself. The 32 boat was preparing for action—against us. The gasoline drums had so changed our silhouette that 32's crew had mistaken us for a Jap destroyer. Now they were jettisoning gasoline drums in preparation for

Solo

By FANNIE HURST

Author of "Imitation of Life," "Back Street," "Humoresque," and the recent novel, "God Must Be Sad"

tuned up and burst into the overture.

In the wings, I could dimly discern from my point of vantage a little procession of silent figures moving single file through off-stage gloom toward the stage.

First, a small shawled woman holding to her bosom what appeared to be a warmly wrapped infant; following her, a near-sighted young man in heavy glasses; behind him, a man who obviously was his father; and last, three young girls aged about 9, 11, and 13.

I wondered: who could they be? A family of acrobats?

Then, before my fascinated eyes, the woman proceeded to unwrap the bundle she held so tenderly and drew out a violin. After handing it to the young man, she withdrew into the shadows.

THE OVERTURE flourished to its conclusion. The young man with the violin walked onto the stage to thunderous greeting and launched into a brilliant program that ranged from Bach's "Air for the G String" to Kreisler's "Liebeslied."

For almost an hour, the small, lonely-looking young man on the immense stage held his audience in a silence into which a pin would have dropped with a bang. Cheers recalled him for encore after encore, and all the while the shadowy group stood in the wings, the father foremost now, listening, listening.

Who was he?

Finally, I mustered courage to ask the man at my right for a look at his program. I read: Soloist—Mischa Elman.

I was immensely thrilled: Fannie Hurst of Cates Avenue, St. Louis, seated on stage a few feet away from Mischa Elman.

People frequently ask if I obtain my characters and situations from life. The answer is: almost never, insofar as writing of real-life situations or people I have met. But in the last analysis, all impressions indirectly result from people or situations.

I seldom am able to pinpoint the beginning of an idea, a character, or a plot. I might witness an emotional explosion between a man and a woman seated at the next table in a restaurant. But it would never occur to me to introduce it per se in a novel or short story. However, I may some day, subconsciously or unconsciously, use that episode in an unrelated situation. But I never deliberately go after material.

Thus the impressions of that Carnegie Hall concert lingered in my mind: that young genius holding a vast audience spellbound; the splendor of his music; the old man's hypnotic eyes transfixed on his son.

Without quite realizing why, I found myself wandering days on end through the overcrowded lower East Side of New York, winding my way through pushcart markets, peering into unsanitary passageways, riding the elevated trains for glimpses into tenement interiors as we sped past.

From whence had come that shadowy group in the wings of Carnegie Hall? From New York's storied slums? There were countless legends of genius that had sprouted in that fetid world.

It so happened that the Elman family had its roots in far-off Russia. Be that as it may, my mind kept chewing around that group like a candle flame nibbling its wick.

Gradually, a concept of a boy violinist out of a background dark and shadowy began to take shape in my mind. A family came to life, and I finally conceived a short story entitled "Humoresque."

After years of submitting stories and getting enough rejection slips to paper the walls of my room, "Humoresque" marked the beginning of my career as a successful writer. It was published in a national magazine and later in anthologies; it was translated into many languages; it was produced as a play and three times as a motion picture. Even now, it is not unusual for the orchestra to burst into Dvořak's "Humoresque" as I enter a restaurant.

UP TO THAT TIME I had never met Mischa Elman. But I married Jacques S. Danielson, who was his close friend. Thus my association with Mischa began, and it has lasted and intensified over the years.

Now the circle begins to round out to its perfection.

Following the death of my husband, I enjoyed the supreme fulfillment of creating a memorial to him. The medical college which received the endowment acknowledged it with a banquet. On the dais were many of my husband's closest friends, including Mischa Elman.

It had been suggested that he be asked to play. But I opposed it; Mischa was invited as a friend, not a performer. But as the evening moved to its climax, he suddenly rose, walked over to the toastmaster, and whispered to him. The toastmaster nodded excited consent.

Then, unannounced and on a borrowed violin, he proceeded to play, with unforgettable emotion, the "Air for the G String" and Kreisler's "Liebeslied."

No one there except the two of us knew that, in repeating the compositions he had played on another evening long before, he was rounding into a complete circle my most inspiring moment.

Four Corners

By Bill Ross

This is great fun to pep up a dancing party. Make four placards, printing the name of a country on each—such as Italy, United States, or any others you may want. Place one player in each corner of the dance floor, armed with one of the signs which he holds aloft. Have the music stop suddenly ever so often, and tell the dancers they must make a mad dash to one of the countries for safety. Then, one of the countries is declared out and everyone who chose that corner goes with it. The last ones to guess right as the game progresses are the winners.

Riddles!

1. Why is a fish like a meat market?
2. What is the sickest state in the U.S?
3. What flies but has no wings?
4. Why is a deer hunter like a traveling salesman?

Answers:

1. They both have scales; 2. Illinois (Ill.); 3. Time; 4. Both are looking for a fast buck.

Curry-Almond Stuffed Eggs

Follow recipe for Stuffed Eggs Sophisticate. Mix ½ teaspoon curry powder with salt and mustard. Blend ½ cup toasted blanched almonds, finely chopped, into the egg yolk mixture.

Raspberry Chiffon Mold

TO PREPARE: 20 MIN. TO CHILL: 4-5 HRS.

- ¼ cup red currant jelly
- ¾ cup water
- 1 3-oz. pkg. red raspberry-flavored gelatin
- 1 10-oz. pkg. frozen red raspberries, thawed and drained (reserve sirup)
- 1 12-oz. pkg. frozen mixed fruits, thawed and drained (reserve sirup)

1. Lightly oil a 1-qt. melon mold with salad or cooking oil (not olive oil); set aside to drain.
2. Combine currant jelly and water in a small saucepan and heat, stirring occasionally, until jelly is melted and mixture is hot.
3. Pour hot jelly over gelatin in a bowl and stir until gelatin is completely dissolved.
4. Mix enough of the reserved fruit sirups together to make 1 cup; stir into gelatin mixture.
5. Chill until mixture is slightly thicker than the consistency of thick, unbeaten egg white. If chilled over ice and water, stir frequently; if chilled in refrigerator, stir occasionally.
6. Whip thickened gelatin mixture until frothy.
7. Fold in the drained fruits. Turn into the mold. Chill until firm, about 4 hrs.

Crescent Rolls

GOOD FOR FREEZING

TO PREPARE: 45 MIN. TO BAKE: 30 MIN.
(allow time for chilling and rising)

- 1 pkg. active dry yeast
- ¼ cup warm water, 110°F to 115°F (Or if using compressed yeast, soften 1 cake in ¼ cup lukewarm water, 80°F to 85°F.)
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- ¾ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup milk, scalded
- 2½ cups flour
- 1 cup butter

1. Soften yeast in warm water 5 to 10 min.
2. Meanwhile, combine the sugar, salt, and scalded milk in a large bowl; stir until sugar is dissolved. Cool to lukewarm.
3. Beat in ½ cup of the flour. Stir softened yeast, add to the mixture, and blend well; beat in remaining flour. Turn dough onto a lightly floured surface and allow to rest 5 to 10 min. Knead until dough is smooth and elastic.
4. Form dough into a ball and put into a buttered deep bowl. Turn dough to bring buttered surface to top. Cover with waxed paper and a towel and let stand in a warm place (about 80°F) until dough is doubled, about 1 hr.
5. When doubled, chill dough 2 hrs.
6. Cream butter until softened. Turn chilled dough onto lightly floured surface; roll into a ¼-in. thick rectangle. Spread surface with ¼ cup creamed butter and fold dough from each end over center, making three layers. Turn a quarter of the way around. Repeat rolling, spreading with butter, folding, and turning three more times.
7. Chill dough 2 hrs. or longer; divide dough in half. Roll each portion on a lightly floured surface into a round ¼ in. thick. Cut each round into 12 wedge-shaped pieces. Roll up each piece beginning at outer edge. Place with points underneath on baking sheets covered with brown paper. Curve into crescents. Chill 20 min. Brush tops lightly with cream.
8. Bake at 400°F for 15 min.; reduce heat to 350°F and continue baking 15 min. longer, or until golden brown.

2 doz. rolls

Sparkling Ginger-Fruit Mold

TO PREPARE: ABOUT 15 MIN. TO CHILL: 4-5 HRS.

- 3 cups ginger ale
- 1½ tablespoons (1½ env.) unflavored gelatin
- 1 12-oz. pkg. frozen peach slices, thawed and drained
- ¼ cup maraschino cherries, cut in halves

1. Lightly oil a 1-qt. melon mold with salad or cooking oil (not olive oil); set aside to drain.
2. Sprinkle gelatin evenly over 1 cup of the ginger ale; let stand 5 min. to soften. Dissolve completely over very hot water. Stir the dissolved gelatin and blend in the remaining ginger ale.
3. Chill until slightly thickened. Blend in the peaches and maraschino cherries. Turn into mold. Chill until firm, about 4 hrs.

6 to 8 servings

Note: If desired, canned fruits for salad may be substituted for the peaches and cherries.

PT 32 was preparing for action—against us. I knew we would have to move fast to keep MacArthur from losing his life to his own boats.

ILLUSTRATION BY ISA BARNETT

action, and I knew we'd have to move fast if we were going to keep General MacArthur from losing his life to one of his own boats.

Our crew and passengers yelled and waved at 32 as it pressed on. I swung about to present less target and, I hoped, a more familiar silhouette. The PT 32 seemed to rise out of the sea as it gathered momentum for a hit-and-run punch. I started to try gunning us out of his path when I saw 32's wake subside and its bow slip rather shamefacedly into the sea. We cut back our engines and idled there, dazed at our close call.

Everybody was hoarse by then. Everybody but me, and when I got through telling off the 32's crew I was hoarse, too. But we had too much work to worry about what-might-have-beens. Boats 34 and 35 came in, and we hugged the beaches hoping we would not be sighted.

The MacArthurs stayed by themselves: Mrs. MacArthur calm and busy as ever, the General silent and withdrawn, the child and amah bewildered and pitifully ill from the sea. The night had taken a physical toll, and as the day progressed I guessed we were in for worse.

"The weather will be heavy tonight," I told the staff officers. "We'll leave at dark, though, and with luck we'll be at Mindanao by dawn."

Adm. F. W. Rockwell and some other officers disagreed. "It will be calm—just look at the day! And there shouldn't be any Japs this far out. Let's leave while we have some daylight."

Before we had left Corregidor, MacArthur had told the admirals, generals, and colonels that they'd take orders from Bulkeley, even though I was only a lieutenant. Anything they had to say would be advice only. But such high-echelon opinion made me doubt my estimate, and I compromised. Leaving the 32 boat behind to rendezvous with a submarine in the area, we roared out of Cuyo in the late afternoon, hoping for good weather for our last dash through open seas.

It was a picture-book sunset, and Mrs. MacArthur came up for a breath of air. The General was resting, and for the first time there was a feeling of security. Then a lookout yelled: "Enemy cruiser one point on the port bow." There she was, right off Panay Island.

I caught a glimpse of a grim, low shadow in the distance, and spun the wheel hard. The sun was blazing on the horizon, and I raced to get between it and the cruiser. The choppy sea might obscure our wake and the sunlight blind the Jap lookouts. We had to hope so, anyway.

Mrs. MacArthur stood expressionless and watched our evasive tactics for a while. Then, with surprising agility, she stepped across the pitching deck and went below to her son. The General sat silently in his wicker chair, an almost academic observer.

For long minutes my job was simply to cling to the eye-stinging ribbon of sunlight and sea. A single cloud obscuring the sun could have been disastrous. Both the sun and the cruiser seemed motionless, and I began to wonder if either would ever drop behind the horizon. The lookout kept reassuring us, "She's holding her course. She can't have spotted us." At last I noticed a blue haze gathering around us; the sea was darkening, too, as night closed in unhurriedly. There were whispered words of relief from the passengers, but I didn't share them.

And Now a New Enemy!

The passengers had been too occupied with the cruiser to notice the seas we were plunging into. We had guessed wrong about there being no Japs around, and now, as I fought the wheel, I knew we'd guessed wrong about calm seas.

By the time we were between the Sulu and Mindanao Seas, the waves were some 12 feet high. The PTs' hulls groaned under the blows, and we wondered if we'd hear the splintering sound of cracking wood that would signal the end. We bumped along, though, spotting dim mounds of land that guided us on our course, but even that was an ordeal since the salt water had burned our eyes until they were only slits. We had not slept in two days, and the passengers clung helplessly to the rolling decks, many not caring whether they lived or died. Now it came down to navigation: if I had plotted our course right, we would be safe at Mindanao at dawn. If not, I wondered if either men or boats could keep going.

A gray light began to filter down around 6 a.m., and I saw the top of a point of land. As the dawn light came further over the sea, I knew navigation had beaten the odds and we were on target. Somebody said: "Rouse the General. We've made it—God knows how!"

The Ramrod Carriage—As Always

MacArthur had wrapped himself in a field coat and tried to sleep. Now he meticulously shook salt spray off his famous gold-braid cap and began to show the first signs of impatience. On a long wooden dock at Cagayan, officers were waiting for us, their faces as anxious and gray as ours.

Mrs. MacArthur came from her cabin, unsteady now but still very much occupied with her household. She told me the amah was helpless, so I went below to carry young Arthur to a car.

There wasn't time for lengthy farewells. The General had to be whisked off before anybody realized who he was. The ordeal had left the 62-year-old man drawn and weary, so I was surprised to see him a few minutes later on the dock. The old ramrod carriage was as always, and so, too, the sonorous voice and piercing eyes. He had only a few words for the PT crews, but we aren't likely to forget them:

"You have taken me out of the jaws of death, and I won't forget it. God bless you."

Then he walked off, a jaunty spring coming back in his step. He has remarkable powers of recovery, I thought wearily, and, as history proved, that was a darn good observation.

The At-Home Wedding Reception

Roast Turkey

Place turkey on a rack in a shallow roasting pan and cover with cheesecloth soaked in melted fat. Occasionally moisten cloth with fat during roasting. Roast at 325°F from 4½ hrs. for a 10-lb. turkey to 6 hrs. for a 15-lb. turkey. Test for doneness by moving a drumstick up and down. When the turkey is done, the drumstick will move readily. For easier carving, allow turkey to stand 30 to 40 min.

Hostess Cranberry Sauce

TO PREPARE: 5 MIN.

(allow time for chilling)

- 1 cup jellied cranberry sauce
- 2 tablespoons confectioners' sugar
- ⅔ cup (5-oz. jar) prepared horse-radish
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup chilled whipping cream, whipped

1. Crush cranberry sauce with a fork; blend in sugar, horse-radish, and salt. Chill thoroughly.

2. When ready to serve, fold cranberry mixture into whipped cream. About 3 cups sauce

Imperial Punch

TO PREPARE: 15 MIN.

(allow time for chilling)

- 3 cups orange juice
- 1½ cups unsweetened pineapple juice
- 1½ cups lemon juice
- ½ cup lime juice
- 1½ cups grenadine
- 1 cup sugar
- 6 cups chilled ginger ale
- 2 cups chilled sparkling water

1. Blend the fruit juices, grenadine, and sugar together; stir until sugar is completely dissolved. Chill thoroughly.

2. When ready to serve, pour fruit-juice mixture into a punch bowl. Add the ginger ale and sparkling water; stir gently to blend. Garnish with slices of strawberries and orange.

About 4 qts. punch

Stuffed Eggs Sophisticate

TO PREPARE: 15 MIN.

- 12 hard-cooked eggs
- 1 3-oz. pkg. cream cheese, softened
- ½ cup thick sour cream
- 2 tablespoons melted butter
- ¼ teaspoon Tabasco
- ¾ to 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon dry mustard

1. Cut eggs lengthwise into quarters and remove egg yolks, leaving egg whites intact. Put egg yolks through a sieve. Set aside.

2. Beat cream cheese until fluffy; blend in sour cream, butter, Tabasco, and a mixture of the salt and mustard. Add egg yolks; mix lightly.

3. Fill egg whites by piping the mixture through a pastry bag and tube. Sprinkle with paprika.

Violin

For almost an hour, the young violinist held his audience in silent wonder. I soon learned his name—famed Mischa Elman.

ILLUSTRATION BY NORMAN BAER

Was it merely fate that the paths of a celebrated writer and a famous violinist would cross in such a strange way?

UPON GRADUATION from a Midwestern university, I came to New York, driven by a relentless compulsion to write, which to this day continues to lay on the lash.

From the first day of my arrival in Mecca to this urgent now, it was to remain a city of enchantment; a city fearful and wonderful, one that can crack your bones and eat you, or exalt and inspire you.

But, somehow, its terribleness seldom overwhelmed me. Instead, I succumbed to its stimulation.

Without a friend or acquaintance, I explored it by day and sometimes by night, looking up at the windows of tall apartment houses and thrilling to the thought that within them artists might be at work—musicians, writers, composers, dreamers, doers. Fritz Kreisler might be up there, Edna St. Vincent Millay, Sinclair Lewis.

And to think that I was actually breathing the very same air with them.

Day after day I trudged the exciting streets, peddling my manuscripts and, after each rejection, planning and plotting the next story. It was slow, sometimes tortuous going, but never for a moment did I regret the giant step to the Mecca where so many were struggling for that slippery first rung of the ladder.

One evening, I chanced to pass Carnegie Hall. At the time, I did not even know it by name, but I followed the crowds pouring in. As I approached the box office, I saw a sign which read: "Sold Out Except for Seats on the Stage." The idea of sitting on the stage intrigued me more than the concert itself, so I went in. Finally, I found myself perched in the front row of chairs arranged behind the orchestra—not only facing the packed amphitheater but also with a view off stage into the wings.

What an experience! I was an insider. The large orchestra

By RUTH W. LEE

■ It's no secret that furnishings from Scandinavia and the Far East have inspired American designs of everything from ash trays to sofa beds—and this simple, elegant influence is currently very strong. Designers here are now creating Scandinavian and oriental furniture to rival priceless imports. And the range is wide—from expensive line-for-line copies to the less expensive, but no less beautiful, adaptations. The reason for the popularity of these décors is self-evident. As these photos show, the two can stand alone brilliantly on their own graceful lines, or, as perfect complements to each other, can be blended into one harmonious design.

The At-Home Wedding Reception

Roast Turkey

Place turkey on a rack in a shallow roasting pan and cover with cheesecloth soaked in melted fat. Occasionally moisten cloth with fat during roasting. Roast at 325°F from 4½ hrs. for a 10-lb. turkey to 6 hrs. for a 15-lb. turkey. Test for doneness by moving a drumstick up and down. When the turkey is done, the drumstick will move readily. For easier carving, allow turkey to stand 30 to 40 min.

Hostess Cranberry Sauce

TO PREPARE: 5 MIN.

(allow time for chilling)

- 1 cup jellied cranberry sauce
- 2 tablespoons confectioners' sugar
- ⅔ cup (5-oz. jar) prepared horse-radish
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup chilled whipping cream, whipped

1. Crush cranberry sauce with a fork; blend in sugar, horse-radish, and salt. Chill thoroughly.

2. When ready to serve, fold cranberry mixture into whipped cream. About 3 cups sauce

Imperial Punch

TO PREPARE: 15 MIN.

(allow time for chilling)

- 3 cups orange juice
- 1½ cups unsweetened pineapple juice
- 1½ cups lemon juice
- ½ cup lime juice
- 1½ cups grenadine
- 1 cup sugar
- 6 cups chilled ginger ale
- 2 cups chilled sparkling water

1. Blend the fruit juices, grenadine, and sugar together; stir until sugar is completely dissolved. Chill thoroughly.

2. When ready to serve, pour fruit-juice mixture into a punch bowl. Add the ginger ale and sparkling water; stir gently to blend. Garnish with slices of strawberries and orange.

About 4 qts. punch

Stuffed Eggs Sophisticate

TO PREPARE: 15 MIN.

- 12 hard-cooked eggs
- 1 3-oz. pkg. cream cheese, softened
- ½ cup thick sour cream
- 2 tablespoons melted butter
- ¼ teaspoon Tabasco
- ¾ to 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon dry mustard

1. Cut eggs lengthwise into quarters and remove egg yolks, leaving egg whites intact. Put egg yolks through a sieve. Set aside.

2. Beat cream cheese until fluffy; blend in sour cream, butter, Tabasco, and a mixture of the salt and mustard. Add egg yolks; mix lightly.

'In Orbit' On Market St.

Runaway Loader Hits 4 Vehicles

A new $3,200 sedan was smashed into junk and two other autos and a panel truck were damaged Friday afternoon at 3:55 when a big front-end loading machine ran out of control in the two-block stretch on Market St. between 4th St. and 2nd St.

The Trojan Loadster vehicle owned by the Parsons Coal Co. of 1st and Jackson Sts. richocheted from side to side on Market St., bumping three parked vehicles before it finally struck a 1962 two-door sedan owned by Ross Jackson Jr., 838 Spring Grove Ave., shoving it over the curb and the sidewalk and mashing it against a brick wall of the Milliron Co. Building at E. 2nd and Market, officers reported.

Officers wrote off Jackson's auto as "demolished" and the owner added ruefully that it appears a total loss. He purchased the 1962 model about six weeks ago.

The equipment operator, Carlton D. David, 117 Center Alley, escaped injury in the runaway accident. There was no apparent damage to the brick wall of the Milliron Building despite the heavy impact.

The runaway machinery also struck these parked vehicles: A 1953 sedan owned by Elsie P. Reynolds, 217 Market St.; a 1962 model panel truck owned by Montgomery Ward & Co. of E. 5th St. and a 1953 four-door sedan owned by Robert Camerlin of New Cumberland R.D. 2.

David told police his equipment "stalled out" as he passed 4th St. while driving south on Market St. That knocked out the vacuum system, which meant the vehicles had no brakes, he explained.

All the damaged vehicles were parked on Market St. between 3rd St. and 2nd St., officers said. The first car was struck on the west side of Market St. just below 3rd St. Then the vehicle crossed Market diagonally and struck the Montgomery Ward truck, which was parked outside the company's warehouse space in the northwest corner of the Milliron Building.

The loading machine then crossed to the west side of Market St., hit the second car, then veered to the east side and hit Jackson's new auto. Jackson's auto, headed uphill, was parked just above 2nd St. The speedometer shows only 1,500 miles.

Reconstruction of the mishap indicates the vehicles were hit in this order: First, the Reynolds sedan, which was damaged in the left rear; second, the Montgomery Ward truck, which had damage to the left front, then Camerlin's sedan, damaged on the left side, and finally Jackson's auto.

The heavy loading machine carries a big scoop on the front end. Patrolmen Charles A. Winters and Jack Strobel investigated.

AFL-CIO President Expects U.S.-Wide Labor Campaign

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, says he expects the merged labor movement to very seriously consider a nationwide campaign to reduce the standard work week from 40 to 35 hours.

Such a campaign, Meany said Friday, likely will be deliberated by the AFL-CIO Executive Council when it meets in August.

He told the convention of the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union, "I am of the opinion that a reduction of the work week, with the same take-home pay, would have a tremendous impact."

Meany first endorsed the 35-hour week at another convention here last week. He is at odds with the Kennedy administration and Secretary of Labor Arthur Goldberg, who feels that the present 40-hour week is best for the nation's economy.

Said Meany, to cheering delegates:

"I do not like to disagree with Arthur Goldberg any more than Dave Dubinsky (president of the ILGWU) does...But I feel that we have got to look at this question of how many hours do we work."

Dubinsky's union already has the 35-hour week. He has said he favors it on a nationwide basis.

Meany said he does not have "the confidence in American management to believe that an increase in their profits would solve the unemployment problem."

He criticized the National Association of Manufacturers (NAM) telling the garment workers:

"Their proposal is, the way to meet this problem (of ending unemployment and spurring econom-

Sealed Up Quickly

4 Explosions Rip Six-Foot Hole In Reds Berlin Wall

BERLIN (AP) — Somebody blasted a big hole in the Red wall through Berlin early today. The Communist regime rushed workers to the scene to seal the six-foot gap and before noon it was solid again.

There were four mysterious explosions around the area of Bernauerstrasse, scene of many dramatic escapes.

West Berlin afternoon papers speculated they were the work of an East Berlin resistance group. Several times wooden screens, put up to stop people from the West peeking over the wall, have gone up in flames in the neighborhood.

West police said they did not know who set off the blasts.

Bernauerstrasse is one of the most heavily fortified stretches of the 25-mile wall. Behind the wall are coils of barbed wire, a double row of steel antitank barriers and finally huge screens to block the view into East Berlin.

The atmosphere was very tense along the wall as the Communist regime gave a military funeral to Peter Goering, 21-year-old East German policeman who was shot dead in a gun battle with West German police Wednesday.

All East German radio stations went off the air for one minute during the funeral at his home town, Glashuette.

The Communist regime has proclaimed Goering a martyr. A fierce campaign in the controlled East German press calls for punishment of his "treacherous murderers."

Western guards said the Vopos, the East German guards were showing "a very hostile attitude," apparently looking for an opportunity to avenge their dead comrade.

The British sent a stiff protest to the Soviet commander in East Berlin, Maj. Gen. Andrei Solovyev, blaming the East Germans for the incident. But Solovyev sent the letter back to British headquarters.

Astronaut's Version Of Trip Waited

Will Have Chance To Give Answers On His Condition

GRAND TURK, B.W.I. (AP) — Was astronaut Malcolm Scott Carpenter confused, preoccupied or simply reflective during his last whirl around the globe? Space officials seem unable to agree on an answer.

As they weighed today this and other questions which arose during the 37-year-old naval officer's thrilling space journey, he had a date to go skindiving with other astronauts off this tiny West Indies island.

Then there were to be more questions about his three-orbit flight, more debriefing, with astronauts John H. Glenn Jr., Walter M. Schirra Jr., Virgil I. Grissom and Leroy Gordon Cooper Jr. joining in the interrogation.

Carpenter himself will have a chance to answer questions about his condition during flight when he returns to Cape Canaveral Sunday for a welcome home celebration and a news conference. On Monday he will fly to his hometown of Boulder, Colo., for another welcome.

Sea Water Damaged Orbit Picture Film

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—The motion picture film record of America's second manned orbit in space was heavily damaged by sea water and may be of little use to space scientists, it was learned in Rochester today.

Sometime during the period when astronaut Scott Carpenter's space capsule bobbed in the water awaiting pickup, enough water sloshed into the capsule to reach the pilot-observer camera, Eastman Kodak Co., spokesmen said.

Senate Puts Its Approval On Farm Bill

Democrats Outlast GOP's Opposition In 42 To 38 Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democrats overcame stubborn Republican opposition and passed a farm bill containing most of the mandatory production controls sought by President Kennedy in an effort to reduce surplus wheat and feed grain stocks.

The vote Friday after a week of debate was 42 to 38 with one Republican joining 41 Democrats. Eight Democrats voted with 30 Republicans against the measure. It now goes to the House, where a similar bill has been approved by the Agriculture Committee and awaits floor action.

The new program would be put to a vote of farmers, with a two-thirds majority needed for adoption. The main feature of the bill is higher price supports and substantially reduced production quo-

2 More Held As Suspects In Burglaries

Charges Now Await 7 In Mine Lootings Totaling $100,000

Two more suspects in a $100,000 burglary ring were arrested Friday by Mahoning County authorities joining five other men already in custody in the investigation of the large-scale theft, chiefly of strip mine equipment.

Arrested last night was Harry Chamberlain Jr. of North Lima while James Dinsio, 642 Franklin Ave., Salem, was taken into custody earlier yesterday, after turning himself in, Mahoning officials said.

No formal charges have been filed against the seven yet. The others held include three of Dinsio's brothers — William D. Dinsio, 35, of near Salem; Vincent M. Dinsio, 39, of Washingtonville; Amil A. Dinsio, 26, of near Greenford — and Charles Mulligan, 28,

Area Clinics For Polio To End Tonight

Concluding clinics in the Columbiana County Medical Society's mass polio protection program with the Sabin oral vaccine began this afternoon. They will remain open tonight as long as persons appear for the final inoculation in the series of three.

Some 3,580 adults and youngsters in the East Liverpool, Wellsville and Salineville areas received the vaccine Thursday — down from first-day sessions in previous clinics—and medical authorities urged those who have not received the inoculation to attend today's clinics.

Eleven centers throughout Columbiana County will provide the Type II vaccine.

Dr. Alex Fisher, co-chairman for the East Liverpool district, again requested all adults and children to obtain the Type II oral series without charge.

He emphasized that the previous clinics provided vaccines which give protection only against Type I and Type III polio, and Type II vaccine is needed for protection against Type II.

Thursday, 1,325 received the dosages at Westgate School, 865 at Calcutta fire station, 600 at East Junior High, 638 at Wellsville's McDonald School, and 160 at Salineville High School.

Clinic sites will be the same

Worst Fall In Over 30 Years

Stock Market Prices Dip During Emotional Selling

NEW YORK (AP) — Emotional selling once more drove stock market prices down to steep losses this week and—as in the break of two weeks ago—the weekly fall was the worst in more than 30 years.

That brings the market decline back to a comparison with the bad old days of 1932—the pit of the depression—or beyond. Weekly records of stock averages were not kept beyond then on a comparable basis.

The Dow Jones industrial average plummeted 38.82 points to 611.88. It was at a high of 734.91 last Dec. 13. Two weeks ago the Dow took a loss of 30.57.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell 16.30 to 224.60, putting this indicator at its lowest level since Jan. 6, 1961, when it stood at 223.50. The AP average fell 11.00 in the decline of two weeks ago.

Based on the drop in the AP average, an estimated $23.7 billion was clipped from the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange. This brought the total down to an estimated $321 billion from about $388 billion at the end of 1961.

Meanwhile, stock analysts expressed hope that the list might find "support" at around 600 to 610 in the Dow industrials, but the great stock market skid of 1962 has paid no heed to these theoretical supports.

Weekly volume swelled to 22,988,850 shares from 19,566,770 in the previous week's recovering market. It was the highest weekly total since May 24, 1961, when turnover was 24,274,430 shares.

Beaver Grand Jury To Convene Monday

The Beaver County Grand Jury will convene Monday at Beaver and begin considering 88 cases, including several from the East Liverpool-Midland area.

They include James Humphrey of East Liverpool, charged with operating a vehicle while intoxicated; Jim Washington Jr. of Midland, delivering worthless checks, Eli McCullough and Leroy Green Jr., both of Midland, charged with liquor violation by the State Liquor Control Board, and Andrew Sopko of Midland and Phyllis Welch of Ambridge, both charged with adultery by Ethel Sopko.

Lawrence J. Dwyer of East Palestine is charged with operating a vehicle while his license was suspended.

11 Injured In Ravenna Train Mishap

RAVENNA, Ohio (AP) — Three cars of a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad passenger train were knocked off the rails by the derailment of a passing freight train today. Eleven persons were injured, but none was hospitalized.

One passenger car was knocked virtually on its side, the second was tilted at a 45-degree angle, and the third was tilted only slightly.

M. S. Compton of Akron, a passenger in the third car, said he was awakened by a jolt and shortly afterward saw a porter being carried out the door of the car ahead. He said he saw another man carried out a window.

Everyone in his sleeping car remained calm, Compton said.

The passenger which had left Washington at 9:20 p. m. Friday bound for Cleveland, apparently was traveling slowly through down town Ravenna when the accident happened about 7:30 a. m. (Eastern Daylight Time).

The freight train, bound from Lorain to New Castle, Pa., left a pattern of about eight cars jackknifed along the right of way.

Railroad officials said it appeared a car derailing near the middle of the freight train hit the passenger. It gouged the side of the passenger's engine before knocking the cars from the track.

Autoist Hurt In Car Plunge

Victim Is Resident Of Hammondsville

A Hammondsville motorist was hospitalized with injuries suffered when his car plunged over an embankment at the lower end of Wellsville at 5:50 a.m. today.

Paul Jackson, 56, is in "fair" condition at the Osteopathic Hospital. He suffered possible fractured ribs and internal injuries.

Police said Jackson's 1953 sedan was demolished. It rolled about 25 feet over the embankment off the super-road below Clark Ave.

Officers said Jackson lost control of the vehicle after striking the medial strip.

At 4:05 a.m., a car driven by Frank Newlin, 2107 Nevada St., Wellsville, struck the rear of another driven by Charles B. Coen of Shadyside Ave., East Liverpool R.D., on Wells Ave.

Newlin was cited for following another vehicle too closely. He was fined $25 at a hearing this morning before Mayor William Daugherty.

Cars driven by Charles L. Henry of Edison R.D. 1 and Rexford Brock, 2010 Clark, Ave., Wellsville, were damaged in a collision near the intersection of Routes 7 and 45 Friday night at 11:40.

Officers said Henry became confused over the lane markings and forced the Brock car to the curb. He was cited for improper lane usuage and posted a $10 bond for a hearing before the mayor.

Address, Parade Set

Program Ready For City Memorial Observances

East Liverpool's traditional observance of Memorial Day will consist of a forenoon parade, an address at the City Hall and services from the Chester bridge, the Joint Memorial Day Committee announced today as it completed details of the program.

Maj. William O. Butler, commanding officer of the Navy and Marine Corps Reserve Training Center in Steubenville will give the principal address from the steps of City Hall.

In event of rain, the program will be held in the VFW Post auditorium.

Veterans posts, patriotic orders, other organizations and scout groups will be in the line of march and bands from East Liverpool and Beaver Local high schools will furnish the music.

The parade will form at 11 a. m. on Bradshaw Ave. and Walnut St., move over Walnut to E. 5th St., 5th to Jefferson St., on Jefferson to E. 6th St. and to the City Hall, where it will pause for a ceremony.

Mrs. Marie White, gold star mother and president of the Ohio and Kentucky Departments, will place a memorial wreath at the honor roll. The parade will then proceed to Walnut and disband.

(Turn to HOLIDAY, Page 16)

Public Offices Wait Holiday

Some Industries To Curtail Wednesday

Memorial Day will provide a mid-week holiday for East Liverpool area public offices, businesses and banks with some industries closing or curtailing Wednesday. All schools observe the holiday.

It will be a holiday for virtually all district pottery employes, as dinnerware plants will suspend except for essential operations.

East Liverpool stores will be closed Wednesday, but they will follow their usual schedules in the balance of next week.

Financial institutions, the Post Office, Ohio State Employment Service and Carnegie Public Library will be closed Wednesday.

The OSES asked claimants who normally report on Wednesday to report Tuesday.

Memorial Day is one of the official holidays designated in the City Code, so City Hall will be closed and parking meter fees will not be required.

The East Liverpool and Wellsville State Liquor Stores will be closed.

Wellsville City Hall offices will be closed along with the Post Office, and Carnegie Library. Mail will be received and dispatched

PUZZLE: Find three fish, two ducks, one deer, and a dog.

Four Corners

By Bill Ross

This is great fun to pep up a dancing party. Make four placards, printing the name of a country on each—such as Italy, United States, or any others you may want. Place one player in each corner of the dance floor, armed with one of the signs which he holds aloft. Have the music stop suddenly ever so often, and tell the dancers they must make a mad dash to one of the countries for safety. Then, one of the countries is declared out and everyone who chose that corner goes with it. The last ones to guess right as the game progresses are the winners.

Riddles!

1. Why is a fish like a meat market?
2. What is the sickest state in the U.S?
3. What flies but has no wings?
4. Why is a deer hunter like a traveling salesman?

Answers:

1. They both have scales; 2. Illinois (Ill.); 3. Time; 4. Both are looking for a fast buck.

Follow recipe for Stuffed Eggs Sophisticate. Mix ½ teaspoon curry powder with salt and mustard. Blend ½ cup toasted blanched almonds, finely chopped, into the egg yolk mixture.

Raspberry Chiffon Mold

TO PREPARE: 20 MIN. TO CHILL: 4-5 HRS.

- ¼ cup red currant jelly
- ¾ cup water
- 1 3-oz. pkg. red raspberry-flavored gelatin
- 1 10-oz. pkg. frozen red raspberries, thawed and drained (reserve sirup)
- 1 12-oz. pkg. frozen mixed fruits, thawed and drained (reserve sirup)

1. Lightly oil a 1-qt. melon mold with salad or cooking oil (not olive oil); set aside to drain.
2. Combine currant jelly and water in a small saucepan and heat, stirring occasionally, until jelly is melted and mixture is hot.
3. Pour hot jelly over gelatin in a bowl and stir until gelatin is completely dissolved.
4. Mix enough of the reserved fruit sirups together to make 1 cup; stir into gelatin mixture.
5. Chill until mixture is slightly thicker than the consistency of thick, unbeaten egg white. If chilled over ice and water, stir frequently; if chilled in refrigerator, stir occasionally.
6. Whip thickened gelatin mixture until frothy.
7. Fold in the drained fruits. Turn into the mold. Chill until firm, about 4 hrs.

Crescent Rolls

GOOD FOR FREEZING

TO PREPARE: 45 MIN. TO BAKE: 30 MIN.
(allow time for chilling and rising)

- 1 pkg. active dry yeast
- ¼ cup warm water, 110°F to 115°F (Or if using compressed yeast, soften 1 cake in ¼ cup lukewarm water, 80°F to 85°F.)
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- ¾ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup milk, scalded
- 2½ cups flour
- 1 cup butter

1. Soften yeast in warm water 5 to 10 min.
2. Meanwhile, combine the sugar, salt, and scalded milk in a large bowl; stir until sugar is dissolved. Cool to lukewarm.
3. Beat in ½ cup of the flour. Stir softened yeast, add to the mixture, and blend well; beat in remaining flour. Turn dough onto a lightly floured surface and allow to rest 5 to 10 min. Knead until dough is smooth and elastic.
4. Form dough into a ball and put into a buttered deep bowl. Turn dough to bring buttered surface to top. Cover with waxed paper and a towel and let stand in a warm place (about 80°F) until dough is doubled, about 1 hr.
5. When doubled, chill dough 2 hrs.
6. Cream butter until softened. Turn chilled dough onto lightly floured surface; roll into a ¼-in. thick rectangle. Spread surface with ¼ cup creamed butter and fold dough from each end over center, making three layers. Turn a quarter of the way around. Repeat rolling, spreading with butter, folding, and turning three more times.
7. Chill dough 2 hrs. or longer; divide dough in half. Roll each portion on a lightly floured surface into a round ¼ in. thick. Cut each round into 12 wedge-shaped pieces. Roll up each piece beginning at outer edge. Place with points underneath on baking sheets covered with brown paper. Curve into crescents. Chill 20 min. Brush tops lightly with cream.
8. Bake at 400°F for 15 min.; reduce heat to 350°F and continue baking 15 min. longer, or until golden brown.

2 doz. rolls

Sparkling Ginger-Fruit Mold

TO PREPARE: ABOUT 15 MIN. TO CHILL: 4-5 HRS.

- 3 cups ginger ale
- 1½ tablespoons (1½ env.) unflavored gelatin
- 1 12-oz. pkg. frozen peach slices, thawed and drained
- ¼ cup maraschino cherries, cut in halves

1. Lightly oil a 1-qt. melon mold with salad or cooking oil (not olive oil); set aside to drain.
2. Sprinkle gelatin evenly over 1 cup of the ginger ale; let stand 5 min. to soften. Dissolve completely over very hot water. Stir the dissolved gelatin and blend in the remaining ginger ale.
3. Chill until slightly thickened. Blend in the peaches and maraschino cherries. Turn into mold. Chill until firm, about 4 hrs.

6 to 8 servings

Note: If desired, canned fruits for salad may be substituted for the peaches and cherries.

James Blazer Dies Suddenly

James D. Blazer, 408 Walnut St., a batterout at the Homer Laughlin China Co., was pronounced dead on arrival at City Hospital this morning at 9. He was 62.

Mr. Blazer was taken ill earlier at his home and apparently died of a heart attack.

He was born in East Liverpool and was a lifetime resident. He was employed at the pottery for 30 years and worked last on Thursday. He was a member of the IBOP.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Mary Blazer at home, and several nephews and nieces.

Services will be held Monday at 3:30 p.m. at the Martin Funeral Home by John N. Mostoller, minister of the First Church of Christ. Burial will be in Spring Grove Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home Sunday afternoon and evening.

Mrs. Lula Wilson

Mrs. Lula Wilson, 323 Penn Ave., Midland, widow of Mitchell Wilson, died Friday at 8:30 a. m. at her home after an illness of several weeks.

She was a resident of Midland 43 years and belonged to the Mt. Olive Baptist Church.

She leaves two daughters, Mrs. Mary Vaughn and Mrs. Willie Mae Jackson, both of Midland, and two brothers, Thomas Anderson of Metropolis, Ill., and Henry Anderson of Mayfield, Ky., and four grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

Services will be held Monday at 1 p. m. at the church by the Rev. W. L. Harris. Burial will be in Oak Grove Cemetery in Industry.

Friends may call at the Leavell Funeral Home in Midland Sunday afternoon and evening.

Dr. Frank Mercer

Dr. Frank W. Mercer, 66, of San Marino, Calif., a retired dentist and former Chester resident, died Thursday evening of a heart attack at his home.

Dr. Mercer was born in Chester to Harry G. Mercer and Martha A. Mercer. He was a dentist in Detroit for 30 years before retiring.

He leaves his widow, Mrs. Mary Mercer at home; a son, Frank Mercer Jr., and a daughter, Mrs. Robert Nuccio, both of San Marino; two sisters, Mrs. Mary Sturgis and Mrs. Charles (Eloise) Anderson, both of Chester, and three grandchildren and three nieces all of Chester.

Services and burial will be held Monday at Forest Lawn Memorial Park in Glendale, Calif.

Mrs. Edith Todd

Mrs. Edith O. Todd, 809½ Biltmore Ave., Toronto, widow of Jessie W. Todd, died Thursday at 7:15 p.m. at the Ohio Valley Hospital in Steubenville, following a brief illness.

Mrs. Todd was born in Pomeroy to Mr. and Mrs. John Byrne. She was a member of the United Presbyterian Church in Toronto.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. T. J. (Phurma) Murray and Mrs. Roy (Georgia) Clark, both of Toronto; a son, Victor Todd of Erie; a sister, Mrs. S. J. Dobson of East Liverpool; a brother, Dennis Byrne of St. Petersburg, Fla., and 10 grandchildren and 13 great-grandchildren.

Services will be held Monday at 10 a.m. at the Clarke Funeral Home in Toronto by the Rev. Mark Allen. Burial will be in Riverview Cemetery, East Liverpool.

Friends may call at the funeral home after 7 tonight.

Earl R. Ward

Services for Earl R. Ward, 314 18th St., Wellsville, who died Friday morning at the Osteopathic Hospital, will be held Monday at 3:30 p.m. at the MacLean Funeral Home by the Rev. Bruce Davis of the Covenant United Presbyterian Church. Burial will be in Springhill Cemetery, Wellsville.

Friends may call at the funeral home in Wellsville tonight and Sunday afternoon and evening.

Dr. Charles Plum

Services for Dr. Charles E. Plum, 740 Bradshaw Ave., who died Thursday evening at City Hospital, will be held Monday at 2 p.m. at the Martin Funeral Home. Burial will be in Riverview Cemetery.

Survivors include a sister, Mrs. H. L. Cook of East Liverpool.

Friends may call at the funeral home tonight and Sunday afternoon and evening.

Ralph Cunningham

Funeral Set Tuesday

James A. McKinnon, 75, Incinerator Head, Dies

James Addison McKinnon, 75, city incinerator superintendent for more than 14 years, died suddenly this morning while at work at the municipal landfill site in St. Clair Township.

Mr. McKinnon was stricken with an apparent heart attack about 8:30 a. m. after reporting for work half an hour earlier. He was rushed to City Hospital but was dead on arrival.

Mr. McKinnon, who resided on S. Shady Lane Dr., was named foreman of the department Jan. 13, 1948, in the administration of the late Harry C. Smith, succeeding Charles Zeder.

When the post was placed under Civil Service, the job classification title was changed to superintendent.

Mr. McKinnon is the second city department head to die at work within the last year. Safety-Service Director Lee Copenhaver expired suddenly Aug. 23.

He was born in East Liverpool May 14, 1887, to James B. McKinnon and Frances Haney McKinnon, and spent his lifetime here. He worked for the former Valley Motor Transit Co. for 30 years previously. He was a member of the First Church of Christ.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Nettie Goodman McKinnon at home; a son, James G. McKinnon of East Liverpool; a sister, Mrs. Minnie Underwood of California, Pa., and two grandchildren.

Services will be held Tuesday at 2 p.m. at the Martin Funeral Home by John H. Mostoller, minister. Burial will be in Riverview Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home Sunday and Monday evenings.

350 Attend Calcutta District Girl Scouts 'Get-Together'

About 350 attended the "get-together" of the Calcutta area Girls Scouts Wednesday evening at Thompson Park. Parents of the girls were guests. A ham dinner was served.

A flag ceremony, led by Troop 59, opened the program, followed with the Brownie Promise by Jane Simmens and the Girls Scout Promise by Troop 59.

A candlelight fly-up ceremony was conducted by Troop 9 and the girls received wings and were invested into the Girl Scouts.

The group includes Courtnay Cloran, Carol Hickman, Jennifer Jacobs, Linda Croxall, Brenda Sias, Darlene Smith, Cindy Dray, Rebecca Silliman, Kay Craig, Vivian Palmer, Patti Vincent, Janie Dunn, Peggy Cahoun, Barbara Burris, Lois Richman, Debbie Adkins, Sherry Gorrell and Cynthia Glynn. Mrs. Coralee Hickman and Mrs. Gloria Palmer are leaders.

Other Brownie units participating were Troop 25, with Mrs. Rose Squires and Mrs. Rhea Vaneerdan as leaders and Troop 54, with Mrs. Ruth Dunn and Mrs. Mary Cannon, leaders.

Intermediate Scouts of Troop 59, of which Mrs. June Robinson and Mrs. Jane McDaniel are leaders, received badges, including Janice Barker, Winifred Cloran, Patty Entriken, Vicki Green, Cathy Hickman, Vicki McDaniel, Jane Patterson, Linda Robinson, Sharon Rowley, Leslie Simmen and Darla Shields.

Recipients of Troop 8, with Mrs. Mary Wagers and Mrs. Lulu Durbin, leaders, include Paulette Durbin, Patricia Wagers, Loucinda Gamble, Rita Richards, Sandy Plemmons, Cynthia Veness, Penny Dutterer, Linda Pugh, Rebecca Roller, Carol Weber, Marilyn Newtz and Marilyn Palmer.

Members of Troop 58, with Misses Pat Dunn and Janet Glover as leaders, given badges were Jennifer Dunn, Anita Rayburn, Donna Dunn, Carol Lynn, Susan Kjellman, Nancy Williams, and Virginia Williams.

Ten Senior Scouts, led by Mrs. Beth Dailey and Mrs. Phyllis Davis, were honored. This will be their last year in scouting. Together about 11 years, starting as Brownies, they include Paula Bryan, Paula Dailey, Sue Davis, Marsha Dutterer, Marcia Emmerling, Jane Entriken, Barbara Slayton, Marilyn Smith, Dorothy Thompson and Beverly Windle.

On behalf of Troop 5, Mrs. Dailey presented silver dollars to three roundup girls, Jill Myler, Chetty Muscari and Marilee Mason. The girls will leave for Button Bay, Vt., July 18, and return July 30.

Senior Troop 63 received five point pins and senior aide bars. The group includes Jill Myler, Chetty Muscari, Margie Mason, Jane Pethtel, Kathy Blackburn and Cheryl Rice. Mrs. Jerry Myler is leader.

There was group singing.

Troop 8 sang the Girl Scout grace before the dinner.

The meeting closed with taps.

Wellsville Historical Group To Resume Echoes Issuance

The Wellsville Historical Society voted Friday night to resume publication of "Wellsville Echoes," a historical paper.

Fifty attended the session at the River Museum. The material for the first issue of the paper, which has not been printed for several years, has been gathered and the society will begin printing as soon as possible. The first issue will contain Civil War material.

The society also agreed to ask various other civic organizations to aid with keeping the River Museum open to the public during June, July and August. One group already has volunteered time.

The museum will be open Monday through Saturday from 1 to 5 p.m. and 1 to 6 p.m. on Sundays if enough aid is obtained.

Plans were made for a Civil War display at the museum. The articles will be listed in a booklet to be sold in an effort to raise needed funds.

A member of the historical group from Mt. Pleasant will be invited to speak at the meeting June 29.

Ed Pugh, president, conducted business. Wayne Wallace, president of the Tri-State Civil War Roundtable, was guest speaker.

He gave his impressions of the Civil War and said President Lincoln is considered the sixth greatest man in history, according to a poll of historians. Wallace screened slides of Kentucky, Tennessee and the area around Yellow Creek and Bergholz.

Several sixth grade students attended. Refreshments were served.

Liquor Board Rejects Permit At Waterford

NEW WATERFORD — Renewal of a C-1 permit sought by Raymond Borelli of W. Main St. has been rejected by the Ohio Department of Liquor Control at Columbus.

The department said the application was turned down because Borelli no longer operates a retail business at the permit address and the premises have been leased to Donald Clark, who has an automatic washing machine service at the site.

late Thursday night, several hours after he had been plucked from his tiny lift raft in the Atlantic 250 miles beyond his target landing area. The 17 Project Mercury tracking stations got together on their world-girdling radio network for a post-flight critique.

The Kauai, Hawaii, station said Carpenter sounded tired and his voice was weak as he flew over:

"He was quite concerned about his capsule attitude and therefore, on several occasions, when Capcom (the capsule communicator) tried to get him on his retrosequence, he kept returning to what he was doing.

"We told him to get ready for the retrosequence and he started doing something else. There was some confusion whether he understood what the order was.

"We had the impression that he was very confused about what was going on. But it was very difficult to assess whether he was confused or preoccupied."

The Woomera, Australia, station came in to say, "We also feel the astronaut was acting somewhat tired on the last pass." It said his voice was weak.

When he was asked to comment later on the critique, the medical expert who monitored Carpenter's flight said the astronaut obviously was tired. But, Dr. Stanley T. White said, Carpenter performed his tasks "in an appropriate manner".

His theory was that the tracking stations thought Carpenter was confused because he was too busy—too preoccupied—at times to make the requested responses.

At Grand Turk, the psychiatrist who talked to Carpenter after he came back to earth said he didn't even think the astronaut was tired during the trip.

"Quite the opposite," said Dr. George Ruff, of the University of Pennsylvania, "I think he was quite alert on the whole flight."

So far as making decisions goes, Dr. Ruff said, people differ. Some, given 10 seconds for a decision, will make it in the first second. But Carpenter, he said, is the type who will think about it for nine seconds, considering the alternatives, before making the decision in the 10th second.

Whatever his condition on the last orbit, Carpenter was hungry, exhilarated and apologetic once he came back to earth.

As he bobbed in his life raft waiting for recovery forces to pick him up, Carpenter sampled the food from his survival kit and sipped water.

"He pulled out a bar of concentrated food and began munching on it," said Sgt. Ray E. McClure of Mt. Sterling, Ky., one of the two paramedics who jumped into the Atlantic to aid the astronaut.

Wellsville Motorist Cited Following Crash

Officers of the Lisbon State Highway patrol said a car driven by Stuart Wilson, 41, of 511 Riverside Ave., Wellsville, struck the rear of another driven by John P. Flaherty, 28, of Waterford, Conn., at 10 a. m. at the intersection of Routes 7 and 30 Friday morning.

Flaherty had halted at the intersection, officers said. Wilson was cited for failure to stop in the assured clear distance.

Mrs. Ruth Flaherty, a passenger in her husband's car, along with two children, was treated at City Hospital for a stiff neck. John P. Flaherty Jr., 4, and Richard M. Flaherty, 3, and their father were examined and released.

Diner Cash, Items Stolen

Chester police are investigating a breaking and entering of Harmon's Diner sometime Friday night when about $30 in change was taken, along with several valuable articles.

Merchandise reported missing includes a tape recorder, valued at $250, a record player, $33, and a transistor radio, $30.

Billfolds, cigarette lighters and other articles also are missing.

About $30 in change was taken from a cash register and a cigar box under a counter. An undetermined amount of money was taken from the juke box and pinball machine, which were broken open and the coin containers left on the floor.

Entrance was gained by breaking a lock on the front door. Charles Harmon of 4th St., Chester, is owner of the diner on Carolina Ave., near Dunn St.

He closed the diner at 10:15 last night and discovered the burglary when he opened at 9:30 this morning.

Motorists Uninjured In Ohioville Collision

Both drivers escaped injury in the crash of a station wagon and a sedan today at 8 a.m. on Route 168 at the entrance to Meadowbrook Estates in Ohioville.

The crash involved a station wagon operated by Donald Craik, 561 Penn Ave., Midland, and a sedan driven by Jerry Miller of Smiths Ferry R.D. 1, traveling in opposite directions on a hill.

Police said Craik made a left turn in front of Miller. Miller's vehicle was demolished, and the other car was damaged. No charges were filed.

of Youngstown and Harry Barber, 21, of near Greenford.

Chamberlain and Amil Dinsio were bound to the Harrison County Grand Jury Wednesday on charges of breaking and entering and theft of a truck.

Carroll County officials apprehended Amil Dinsio after he and Chamberlain fled from a routine check by a deputy sheriff of the truck they were operating, which had been stolen from a Route 22 coal hauler.

The investigation spread and officials found some $20,000 worth of stolen motors at a Dinsio mine near Leetonia.

The continuing search led to another Dinsio mine at Greenford in Mahoning County where stolen strip mine equipment and accessories were found.

At least one of the five 50-foot tipples used at the Greenford mine has been identified as stolen and a Hanna Coal Co. representative identified about $14,000 of the equipment as stolen from a company mine at Cadiz.

The At-Home Wedding Reception

Roast Turkey

Place turkey on a rack in a shallow roasting pan and cover with cheesecloth soaked in melted fat. Occasionally moisten cloth with fat during roasting. Roast at 325°F from 4½ hrs. for a 10-lb. turkey to 6 hrs. for a 15-lb. turkey. Test for doneness by moving a drumstick up and down. When the turkey is done, the drumstick will move readily. For easier carving, allow turkey to stand 30 to 40 min.

Hostess Cranberry Sauce

TO PREPARE: 5 MIN.

(allow time for chilling)

- 1 cup jellied cranberry sauce
- 2 tablespoons confectioners' sugar
- ⅔ cup (5-oz. jar) prepared horse-radish
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup chilled whipping cream, whipped

1. Crush cranberry sauce with a fork; blend in sugar, horse-radish, and salt. Chill thoroughly.

2. When ready to serve, fold cranberry mixture into whipped cream. About 3 cups sauce

Imperial Punch

TO PREPARE: 15 MIN.

(allow time for chilling)

- 3 cups orange juice
- 1½ cups unsweetened pineapple juice
- 1½ cups lemon juice
- ½ cup lime juice
- 1½ cups grenadine
- 1 cup sugar
- 6 cups chilled ginger ale
- 2 cups chilled sparkling water

1. Blend the fruit juices, grenadine, and sugar together; stir until sugar is completely dissolved. Chill thoroughly.

2. When ready to serve, pour fruit-juice mixture into a punch bowl. Add the ginger ale and sparkling water; stir gently to blend. Garnish with slices of strawberries and orange.

About 4 qts. punch

Stuffed Eggs Sophisticate

TO PREPARE: 15 MIN.

- 12 hard-cooked eggs
- 1 3-oz. pkg. cream cheese, softened
- ½ cup thick sour cream
- 2 tablespoons melted butter
- ¼ teaspoon Tabasco
- ¾ to 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon dry mustard

1. Cut eggs lengthwise into quarters and remove egg yolks, leaving egg whites intact. Put egg yolks through a sieve. Set aside.

2. Beat cream cheese until fluffy; blend in sour cream, butter, Tabasco, and a mixture of the salt and mustard. Add egg yolks; mix lightly.

3. Fill egg whites by piping the mixture through a pastry bag and tube. Sprinkle with paprika.

4 doz. stuffed egg quarters

7 Bids Received

Contracts Slated For Parking Lot

Contracts for blacktop surfacing and installation of 40 meters — which will put the finishing touches on the new municipal parking lot on the site of the former Ceramic Theater — will be let at a meeting of the Board of Control Monday at 11 a.m.

Mayor Bert H. Goodballet and Safety - Service Director Robert Owen, who comprise the board, set the meeting Friday noon after opening three bids on the blacktop project and four on the installation of the meters.

Two questions still hang over the status of the blacktop bids and the mayor and director expect to seek opinions from Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper before taking action on a contract.

THE APPARENT low bid for furnishing and installing the 1,502 square yards of blacktop was $2,628.50, filed by the Kenny Nichols Trucking Co. of Hill Blvd.

H. & H. Contractors of Oakmont bid $2,700. Tri-State Asphalt Corp. of Martins Ferry and East Liverpool set a price of $2,757.50 — $1,792.38 for material and $965.12 for labor.

F. J. Hamilton, sales representative for Tri-State, who attended the board's session yesterday, objected to the offers of both Nichols and H. & H., declaring that they bid lump sums without breaking down the prices for material and labor. He said state law requires a breakdown.

The mayor and director said Hamilton's objections would be noted and instructed City Engineer George S. Bloomgren, the clerk, to enter them in the minutes. Later, the mayor said the point would be cleared with the solicitor.

IN ANOTHER apparent flaw, H. & H. failed to enclose a certified check representing 5 per cent of its bid, as required in the city's legal advertisement. H. & H. enclosed a $135 personal check signed by Elzie Horner, one of the operators.

In its legal notice, the city required a certified check as a guarantee the bidder would enter into a contract and post a surety for performance if his offer were accepted.

Four widely - varying bids on eight types of meters were received from four concerns.

The lowest net price without a trade-in was specified by M. H. Rhodes, Inc., of Hartford, Conn., which offered 40 manual Mark-Time Parking Meters at $52 each, plus $4.28 each for yoke mounting brackets.

IT PROMISED delivery in 30 days. The firm offered four methods of payment: A 50-50 split of the revenue between the city and the supplier; payment in 24 equal monthly amounts; payments of $2.50 per meter per month or a cash settlement, which would entitle the city to a 5 per cent discount.

The Magee-Hale Park-O-Meter Co. of Oklahoma City, Okla., offered either manual or automatic meters at $56.50 each, less a $10 trade-in allowance for old meters, for a net price of $46.50. It offered a 5 per cent discount if the full amount is paid within 60 days. None of the other bidders specified a trade-in allowance.

Koontz Equipment Co. of Pittsburgh, distributor of the Duncan-Miller Parking Meter, offered a "deluxe" manual meter at $59.50 each and a "standard" manual model at $47.30. It bid $3 each on yokes for mounting two meters on a single standard. Promising delivery in 30 days, Koontz said the city may pay for the meters out of receipts or at the rate of $2 per month for each device.

ROCKWELL Manufacturing Co. of Pittsburgh submitted prices on four types of meters, all FOB its factory. It quoted prices on conventional meters and a "twin" type in which two meter heads are mounted on a single standard.

For the standard manual or automatic type, it bid $57.50; for a "twin" automatic, $98; for a standard manual type, $55.50, and for a "twin" manual, $94.

Rockwell also added 50 cents to the price of each meter for freight and quoted a $5 charge for mounting adaptors. It offered a 5 per cent discount for payment in 30 days.

The project for converting the old theater site to public parking dates back to January 1961. In March of last year, Council was notified heirs of the Tallman Estate had accepted the city's offer of $45,000 for the towering structure.

SEVERAL months later, the purchase was completed. Then a Youngstown wrecking contractor razed the building for a fee of $10,000.

Council issued $60,000 in self-liquidating bonds for the project. Later, a Chamber of Commerce committee contributed $5,000. Revenue from the meters will retire the bonds.

In the meeting yesterday, the Board of Control also authorized payment of $850 to the Boyd Lumber Co. of Glenmoor for repair of a bulldozer storage building at the landfill dump in Bloomfield. The building was damaged by a fire several months ago.

TODAY'S POPPY DAY. Various service organizations got an early start by selling the first poppy to Mayor Bert H. Goodballet Friday afternoon. The representatives, left to right, are H. E. Taylor of American Legion Post 4, Mrs. Helen Wilson of VFW Post 66 auxiliary, Mrs. Norma Poynter, American Legion Post 374 auxiliary; James Cregar of Post 374; Mayor Goodballet; Nelson E. Fund Cleared For Trucks, Sewer Plans

Council gave unanimous approval Friday night to an amended appropriation ordinance providing a supplemental fund of $4,000 to enable the administration to purchase two trucks for the street department and allocating $2,000 for engineering expenses in connection with planning a $40,000 Gardendale trunk line sewer project.

Passed without comment in a special meeting, the legislation will make a total of $10,000 available to Mayor Bert H. Goodballet and Safety - Service Director Robert Owen with which to purchase two new two-ton dump trucks.

Council originally provided $6,000 for the truck purchase in the annual appropriation ordinance approved in March, allocating the funds from income tax receipts.

But when the mayor and director opened sealed bids from five concerns Monday, the lowest offer was $8,325 — $2,325 over the amount available. Appropriation of the additional $4,000 will give the two officials full leeway in signing a contract for the trucks. Any amount unexpended will go back into the general fund.

Other net prices on the trucks were $8,387, $8,458 and $8,999.

The appropriation for planning the sewer project was recommended several weeks ago by the Council finance committee. Engineer George S. Bloomgren and his staff will prepare the detailed plans, specifications, estimates and profiles and furnish supervision of the project.

The trunk line will begin in the North Side area, near Gardendale, and extend through the residential district to link with the Carpenters Run trunk line sewer in California Hollow. There will be no direct expense to the property-owners, as the project will be financed out of sewage department improvement funds.

However, individual sewers will have to be installed later on each street to link with the trunk line. The property - owners will be assessed for the cost of the second job.

The city also financed construction of a trunk line in the Pleasant Heights - Fisher Park area approximately eight years ago.

The appropriation measure enacted last night carries an emergency clause, which means it will go into effect as soon as it is signed by Mayor Goodballet. The mayor indicated yesterday the Board of Control will award the truck contract at a meeting Monday at 11 a. m.

Six members attended. Councilman Frank Duffy was excused.

Red Cross Launches Signup In Water Safety Program

Registrations for the annual free water safety program of the East Liverpool Red Cross Chapter are being accepted at the chapter office in Mary Patterson Memorial, Mrs. R. J. Schiff, water safety chairman, announced today. It will be at the Thompson Park Pool.

Miss Marilyn Eckert will be director of the swimming sessions, aided by an adult supervisory committee including Miss Eckert's father, Don Eckert; George Mueller, Mrs. Howard Crossley, Mrs. Richard Martin, Mrs. E. W. Hossler and Mrs. Schiff.

Miss Eckert attended a 10-day course in advanced water safety last June at the Red Cross national aquatic school at Camp Lutherlyn, Pa., and received an instructor's certificate qualifying her as a director.

The swimming lessons are open, free-of-charge, to all in the community over the age of 6. All application cards must be signed by a physican and those under 21 must have a parent's signature as well, Mrs. Schiff said.

The program will be divided into two three - week instruction periods, the first beginning June 18 and the second July 9. A training course for instructor's aides will be held June 11-15.

Swimming instruction for beginning, intermediate and advanced pupils will be given daily from 9:30 to 12 through both sessions.

Eligibility for the senior life-saving course will be based on the applicant's competence in a swimming test, which will include diving, swimming with various strokes, treading water and floating. In addition, swimmers must be 16 or older.

Boys and girls from 12 to 15, or in the seventh to 10th school grades, will be eligible for the junior life-saving course if they pass a similar test.

A water show and presentation of certificates will climax the program July 27, Mrs. Schiff announced. The 1961 water safety program resulted in certificates to 267 swimmers.

Arrangements for the program are being made by Mrs. Schiff, Mrs. Martin, Mrs. Crossley, Mueller and James Walker, chapter chairman.

Questions concerning registration or eligibility requirements should be referred to the Red Cross office in person or by telephoning FU 6-4144, Mrs. Schiff said.

Orchard Grove Cub Scouts Seat Member, Give Awards

Curtis Martin was welcomed as a new cub at the first summer session of Cub Scout Pack 31 of the Orchard Grove Community Methodist Church Thursday evening at Thompson Park.

Receiving awards were Richard Jackson, and Steve Crowder, lion badge, gold and silver arrows under lion; Ricky Crawford, and Billy Brenneman, wolf and gold arrows.

Mrs. Helen Bourne was introduced as a new den mother and received her pin. Mrs. Betty Rolley received her den mother's pin and certificate for completing a year as a den mother.

During business, a discussion on the need for den dads and chiefs was held. The group also outlined plans for interesting programs.

Cub Pack 31 will be in charge of the refreshments for the Cherokee District Roundtable meeting June 13 at the large pavilion at the Park.

Fred Brenneman reported on the candy sale and pop bottle drive and also gave the treasurer's report. Herb Snow spoke briefly on cub insurance.

The cubs and parents were urged to attend the Boy Scout Camporal at Hammond Park in Wellsville.

Don Hoyt, cubmaster, presided and Fred Crawford, advancement chairman, assisted in presenting the awards. The meeting opened with Den 3 presenting the flag ceremony under the supervision of Mrs. Mary Brenneman, den mother. Mrs. Martha Badgley's Den 6 gave the Cub Scout prayer.

Gerry Lutton of Den 2 was in charge of the children's games and prizes went to David Jordan, Frank Chronister and Terry Hoyt. Mrs. Martha Badgley won the adult prize.

A family wiener roast climaxed the meeting.

The committee meeting will be held June 7 at 7:30 p. m. at the home of Fred Crawford of Beechwood St.

Next pack meeting is June 27 at 6:30 p. m. at the park.

County's Draft Quota Will Leave June 26

LISBON — Thirteen Columbiana County registrants will leave June 26 for Cleveland for induction into the armed forces, and three will go the same day for pre-induction physicals, according to Columbiana County Draft Board 16.

This will conclude the draft call for June.

Living Costs Hit New High During April

WASHINGTON (AP) — Living costs rose two-tenths of one per cent in April—setting a record for the third straight month.

The government reported consumer prices have risen seven-tenths of one per cent so far in 1962, equaling the total rise recorded during the entire 12 months of 1961.

The Labor Department index of consumer prices rose in April to 105.2 per cent of the 1957-59 average. This is 1.3 per cent higher than in April last year.

The April increase will bring pay raises of one to two cents an hour to an estimated one million workers of the auto, farm equipment and aerospace industries, and various local transit systems.

These workers have union contracts calling for wage adjustments in relation to the government's living costs index.

Steubenville College Degree Due 4 Of Area

Four district students at the College of Steubenville will receive bachelor degrees June 10 during an outdoor commencement exercise at the new Starvaggi Memorial library.

They are Marjorie Bernyce Carter, 1306 Commerce St., Wellsville, elementary education; David Anthony Rosak of Georgetown R. D. 1, chemistry; Billy Eugene Whaley of Toronto R. D. 2, accounting, and Thomas Michael Andrews of Toronto, secondary education.

The Alumni Association will be host to the graduates and their families June 9 when Senior Honors Day will be held.

Joblessness Claims Go Up—As Scheduled

Rising and falling like an elevator, unemployment claims were scheduled to go up this week—and they did.

Harry L. Dinsmore, manager of the Ohio State Employment Service office, reported claims processed this week totaled 480—47 more than last week and 17 more than the week ending May 12.

The claims included 102 new and 353 continuing handled under the regular benefits program and one initial and 24 continuing under the federal extended act, Dinsmore said.

Food Used To Bolster Feeling Of Security

Prior to attempting to reduce it is important to analyze the problem. In today's letter the young mother has about 30 excess pounds but, frustrated by her failure to lose, the weight looms so large in her mind as to make her constantly miserable. She writes:

Ida Jean Kain

"From your column it is evident you receive many letters from unhappy fatties. I am 33, 5 feet 5 tall and pounds. I have four children but I gained most of the excess with my first child. Due to seasonal layoffs in my husband's work we can ill afford to go to any expense in my on-again, off-again dieting.

"The only way I can lose is on an 1,100 calorie diet and I cannot subsist on that amount of food—dizziness, headaches and insomnia result.

"IS THERE some way to lose weight without feeling ill and having the temperament of a wounded tiger?

"My husband wants me to lose, but while he's encouraging at times, he also upsets me so that I start eating again, from sheer nervousness. I feel better when I eat something. This fat is humiliating and a source of remarks by my sister-in-law. I would be forever grateful for your help."

So much is revealed in this sentence, "I feel better when I eat something." Yes, food is comforting and available. It is important to recognize that eating can be a substitute for all sorts of satisfactions. Even more significant, food is often used to bolster one's feeling of security.

Since you have a large family to take care of, it is not necessary for you to keep the calories at 1,100. You could have 500 calories more a day and still reduce a half to one pound a week. At that rate you would be half way to your goal before the summer is over.

Try to gain insight into why you turn to food when you are upset. It is important to understand that the physical reaction or effects when you try to cut down on food are often manifestations of some inner resentment, and a feeling of bitterness that life doesn't give you all it should.

In the county in which you live there is available counseling service which can be had without cost. You will find it unexpectedly helpful for you to talk your problems out with a trained, understanding person.

ENLIGHTENMENT can help to put you on the right road. With a better understanding of yourself, hope will be renewed, and your weight problem will assume normal proportions.

When you learn to deal with your frustrations in a way that makes life more interesting, then you will find the compulsion to eat excessively will gradually lessen.

Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for "Choose To Lose Diet." Address your request to Ida Jean Kain, in care of The Review. Postcard requests cannot be answered.

YMCA Begins Registration To Annual Camping Season

Although the opening of the camping season is more than a month away, registrations have started for the YMCA's summer program at Pine Ridge Camp, General Secretary Carl A. Werner said today.

The camp officially will open July 3 with a 3½-day session for midget boys 8-9 years old. A similar session will be held Aug. 19-22.

Boys and girls between 10 and 14 will have three sessions each. The girls' camps will be held July 8-14, July 22-28 and Aug. 5-11 while the periods for boys will be July 15-21, July 29-Aug. 4 and Aug. 12-18.

Youngsters do not have to be members of the "Y" to attend, Werner said. Some 14 cities were represented by the campers last year, he added.

He urged early registration to be certain of a place in the period the camper desires to attend, explaining the capacity is 63 campers plus leaders of each cabin. The registrations may be made any weekday except a holiday.

Werner will direct the camp and the assistant directors will be Mrs. Werner, John Pilliti and Jan Burke. Mrs. Laveda Moore and Mrs. Garnet Govell will return as camp cooks.

The cabin leaders will be older high school youths, most of whom are former campers.

Tomlinson Run Pool Will Be Open Today

With a fair weekend promised by the weatherman, Tomlinson Run State Park's outdoor swimming pool was to be opened for the public today and Sunday, N. T. Holbrook, park supervisor, announced.

Following the usual practice of opening the pool on the weekend before Memorial Day — providing the weather is warm enough—Holbrook reported the pool on State Route 2 will be open this afternoon and Sunday at 12:30 p. m.

The pool will be closed both Monday and Tuesday, but will open again Wednesday for the duration of the summer season. Hours each day will be from 12:30 to 8 p. m.

Jerry Pierce and Peggy Miller are lifeguards, Mrs. David Wern, cashier, and Mrs. Howard McCullough, basket attendant in the bathhouse.

Confidence Begets Confidence

Henry Ford II took a deep breath at the Ford Co.'s stockholders meeting last week and said the Kennedy administration was undermining business confidence by meddling in economic decisions. The chairman of the board of one of the nation's greatest producers of wealth was concerned. Many businessmen are accusing government of rocking the economic boat.

The chief spokesman for the Kennedy administration, speaking to the White House Conference on National Issues, was in no mood last week to accept blame for lack of business confidence. President Kennedy declared:

"I would like to say a word about the difference between myth and reality. Most of us are conditioned for many years to have a political viewpoint — Republican or Democratic, liberal, conservative or moderate. The fact of the matter is that most of the problems we now face are technical. They are administrative problems. They are very sophisticated judgments which do not lend themselves to the great sort of passionate movements which have stirred this country so often in the past."

THIS CAME very close to saying that politics — which clearly is one kind of "passionate movement" — is not a prime factor in the kind of sophisticated business judgments Mr. Kennedy had in mind.

It came close to saying businessmen don't know what they are talking about when they blame the Kennedy administration for business uncertainty.

It says technical causes underlie business uncertainty and if these were cleared away it wouldn't matter what a Democratic president said that rattled the composure of Republican businessmen.

The fact is, nevertheless, that businessmen point to politics when business lags. Perhaps this is because politicians so eagerly claim credit when business booms. It seems only fair to blame them, when it bursts.

No businessman would argue that confidence is caused by some mechanistic miracle that takes place regardless of the political climate.

It is more reasonable to believe that confidence grows out of emotional judgment about things; that President Kennedy's myth is the only reality.

MR. KENNEDY, commenting on the slump in stock market prices last week, predicted the market would follow the economy upward and said the economy was showing every sign of being about to move upward. Was he discussing myth or reality?

Under the mechanistic theory of business—the theory that says if all indications point to something — nothing else can happen, the stock market was overdue for an adjustment. Can Mr. Kennedy talk it out of it?

Here again the doubting Thomas of a mechanistic business world is impelled to say that President Kennedy's attitude will have more to do with stimulating the economy than all the indexes and statistics.

The United States never has had an official attitude on what makes businessmen tick. It alternately harasses them and pampers them and consistently taxes them until their eyes pop — penalizing them for success but never tempering the wind to the shorn lambs.

It browbeats them until they are reeling, then castigates them for not standing tall and acting like heroes.

It puts the bloodhounds on them, throws them to the wolves, ties them to the tracks with the 8:10 due, then wonders what causes them to be afraid of their government.

IT TELLS THEM to hold down prices and encourages the unions to jack up wages.

It talks about the evils of inflation and stimulates inflation by its own policy of spending more than it dares to think it could collect even if it had that much political courage.

Whatever it is that makes businessmen tick may be too complex to decide. It's easier to find out what causes businessmen not to tick. It's because they have run down. No one has taken the time and trouble to wind them up. must be fussed with and given tender loving care.

They must be given something to tick with. Henry Ford thinks they need confidence. John Kennedy thinks they need reality.

We think the greatest reality right now would be for Mr. Kennedy to prove he has confidence in business, so it can have confidence in him.

The Men Inside The Capsules

Astronaut Malcolm Scott Carpenter may reveal the answers to some of the questions space scientists have been asking about the effect of orbital flight on the men inside the space capsules.

Besides more information about the capsules themselves, space scientists have learned for the first time that even the most carefully selected and highly trained astronaut can become confused in the course of this awesome adventure.

Carpenter says he is eager to travel in space again. He presumably will have his chance, as will astronauts Shepard, Grissom and Glenn. These men have not gone into the space program with the idea that each will be entitled to only one trip into space. They are engrossed in it. They want to go as far as they can, no matter how many additional astronauts are chosen and trained.

Cmdr. Carpenter's experience in his three orbits suggests, even before an official evaluation of his medical report, that various men are going to react in various ways to the experience. This is not unexpected. It is not unusual. Airplane pilots, even automobile drivers show varying reactions from the same experiences. When it is considered that only a few dozen men in the auto racing profession ever qualify for the 500-mile race at the Indianapolis Speedway, it is not to be expected that all astronauts will react the same way to multiple trips around the earth or to moon shots when they are attempted.

It is possible that some of Carpenter's manifestations of fatigue will be traced to faulty instrumentation. But it is possible, too, that Col. Glenn's vitality and presence of mind during his orbital experience are not going to be duplicated easily by the this unearthly adventure.

The Once Over

Prominent doctor, medical schoolteacher and health officer, Dr. Herbert Ratner, says America is most over-medicated, over-inoculated country on earth.

"We are a pill-swallowing nation and impose lifesaving drugs and techniques on minor trivial and even imaginary illnesses, and modern hospital is highly misused, with 20 to 40 per cent of beds occupied needlessly," he declares.

He ain't whistling "Dixie." People build homes around medicine cabinets. First thing many folks do is to say, "Let's decide first of all the size and shape of medicine cabinet. We must have adequate pill and capsule capacity."

"Modern man in hectic age could solve many troubles by proper diet and horse sense, but he thinks everything depends on prescriptions, injections, tablets and assorted medicines in choice of colors.

A drugstore in the right spot is a goldmine. Doctor used to be called only when somebody was flat on his back. Hospitals were a last resort.

Pioneers went to one only for three or more bullet holes or wounds from a griszly bear. Grandpa had to be trampled on by a horse before he would get into an ambulance. He would fight the attendants all the way. Nobody knows what grandma went through before she would visit family doctor.

The kids got onion poultices, flaxseed bags, home-bandages and orders to stay in bed and keep quiet. Today doctors' offices are as crowded as railroad stations. Most patients look in better shape than the overworked, overburdened and exhausted physician.

A doctor's office is often staffed with a secretary, an inner guard and an outer guard, al for his own protection. Specialists are busting out all over, and you may have to wait longer to get an appointment with him than to get a ticket to a world series.

Hospitals are vastly overcrowded. The nurse shortage is shocking. The entire staff from clerical workers to top physicians in some hospitals is so overburdened, many of them seem closer to collapse than patients.

Dr. Ratner says "Many people with hospital insurance have been paying so long they are anxious to get their money back and will go to hospital for all sorts of things." They look at their Blue Cross bills and say, "I've got to get sick soon to get even." But it's all a part of the pace of modern life. Tough feature is that if you manage to get your mind off your own aches, you tune into TV and get a Dr. Kildare program.

THIS IS WEEK marking 40th anniversary of airplane epic that moved all Americans as few things in history. It was Lindbergh's flight across the Atlantic from New York to Paris. He was 25 years old, looked like a teen-ager, and was known only as an airmail pilot.

Huge tri-motored planes costing vast sums were on the field for the first attempt to cross ocean when "Slim," as many called him, rolled in aboard a single-engine "crate" without radio or sextant. Morning dawned under conditions that kept big and costly planes from moving, but Lindy climbed into the "Spirit of St. Louis" and was off.

People paid little attention to anything else. Few men were ever prayed for so fervently by so many. He was given little chance, and when the flash came that he had made it safely, what a sign of relief went up everywhere!

Today with thousands crossing the ocean daily in huge planes in comfort, we wonder how many give a thought to "Slim" Lindbergh making it alone, without a crew, mostly by dead reckoning.

Shoot The Works?

Near Crisis Settled At Cape

By Victor Riesel

There is an unsung, unreported band of men at Cape Canaveral, a hundred strong, who also helped make the man-shoot more than just a fireworks display.

Victor Riesel

They are the eyes of the space scientists. They are the special personal motion picture cameramen of each astronaut. They are the electronically swift pictorial biographers of every second of the life of Glenn's MA-6 or the Aurora 7 — the rockets which are flying laboratories with man enclosed, hurtling through empty space in which there is no platform yet for observation.

These hundred men — members of a union which is better known for shooting "Breakfast At Tiffany's" than shooting at the stars — have never struck or created serious crises at the Cape or any other space base or missile site.

Generally obscured by electrical workers, machinists, pipefitters and carpenters, they are members of Local 666 of New York, Chicago and Hollywood's International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes and Moving Picture Operators (IATSE).

For several reasons I take them now out of their "obscurity."

First they are the sensitive artisans who operate the IGOR and the ROTI. IGOR is the Tracking Telescope Instrument Optical Recorder. ROTI is the Recording Optical Tracking Instrument.

These are instruments which provide photographic "memories" of events on missile flights occuring beyond "seeing" limits of shorter focal length motion picture systems.

THE IGOR and the ROTI monitor stage-ignition, flame characteristics, structural failures, roll-pitch-and-yaw data and inospheric phenomena. On what those intricate cameras, tenderly handled and set up before the man-shoot, discover may rest the lives of the John Glenns and Scott Carpenters of the future.

These photographers are part of a team — all of whom are LATSE members. After the IGOR and ROTI films are safely back, after the cameramen have returned from helicopters reconnoitering offshore, after "LARC" amphibious teams return from the beaches, the boondocks, the down range and island stations, the non-photographers of the team take over.

The latter are scientists of a special sort — though members of the stage and motion picture union. They do the original interpretation of the huge mass of movie and still films.

They must know the meaning of a smear of light or a speck on a "pix." They must know what to send along swiftly to one or another of the specialists waiting in National Aeronautics and Space Administration NASA basic analysis offices.

THESE FILMS contain everything from recordings of the pre-shoot health and actions of the astronaut to the moments which drag through the tension from the shift of the gantry to the blast-off and on to the recovery.

Most of the photographic and first stage analysis teams are younger men. They have moved into a hectic world. Their young families have suddenly been hurled into a gold rush, boom-type community.

There are irritations. Schools are scarce and jammed. Places of worship are distant. Prices are high. Plumbing breaks down.

So do tempers. Then develop the IATSE men are employed by the Radio Corporation of America (RCA). The company finds itself in as difficult a community operation as do the union men. Grievances flare on the supervisor-employe level.

Under such tensions the "stage hands" and RCA began negotiating a new contract some time ago.

BOTH SIDES agreed to start long before the contract expiration date. Good. Because a near crisis developed. So about a month ago, IATSE national president Richard Walsh flew down from his headquarters.

He sat alongside the Local 666 leaders. He knew his peoples' grievances — the boom-cost of living, the sitting around for two or three days during the countdowns, the tensions involved in helping to put a man into space, a man who may eternally orbit the earth if something goes wrong.

Dick Walsh also knew the RCA problems, NASA's complexities, and the possible impact of hot negotiations at the Cape on the cold war outside.

Finally he helped bring all sides together — in a marathon bargaining session for three days and three nights virtually without sleep. A contract was signed. He was exhausted. But instead of flying back, he took the pact to the rank and file and won their approval.

He did more than settle a crisis on a space and missile base. By getting to the grassroots he set a precedent. The country should know of it.

Muskrats Ramble

By George Lichty

The muskrat is a public enemy in Holland and a nuisance in much of the United States.

Though a native of North America, the tenacious animal easily adapts to new countries. The muskrat prefers marshland, but makes itself at home anywhere that grassy vegetation meets fresh water.

Introduced into Bohemia in 1905, the muskrat spread rapidly over most of central Europe, Holland, Belgium and eastern France.

The Dutch have put a price on the muskrat's head because its burrowing undermines their vital dikes. In Belgium, muskrats bored holes in the banks of a major ship canal The water drained, leaving 25 vessels stranded in mud.

The muskrat's relentless digging also endangers railroad embankments, earth dams, farm ponds, irrigation projects and fish hatcheries.

The little creatures caused widespread highway damage in Iowa by digging around drainage culverts. Roadways sank into the muskrat dens. Wire screening and planks around the outlets failed to discourage the rodents.

War On Conservatives

By David Lawrence

Kennedy Seeks To Weaken Opposition Bloc

President Kennedy has launched the 1962 congressional campaign with a declaration of war on the conservatives in his party. He has asked the voters in Northern states particularly to elect Democrats in the place of any Republicans, whether or not they happen to be conservatives.

David Lawrence

The significance of this move has not yet been sensed even in the political arena. But it means that the coalition of Republicans and Democrats, which for the last 25 years has saved America from radicalism and socialism, is to be broken down if the President his his way.

Two speeches within the last six days by Mr. Kennedy emphasize his attitude toward the existing coalition. He said, for instance, to the 1962 Campaign Conference for Democratic Women at a meeting on the White House lawn a few days ago:

"Nearly every issue which comes before the House and Senate today is settled by one vote, one way or the other. Congressman Boggs, on the trade bill — the trade bill in the Ways and Means Committee was settled in our favor by one vote. We lost the agriculture bill in the Senate —Agriculture Committee on which Sen. Humphrey sits—by one vote. We passed it in the House of Representatives, out of the Agricultural Committee, by one vote."

Just before the above speech, Mr. Kennedy told a Democratic party rally in Madison Square Garden that the coalition — or "balance of power," as he calls it — must be defeated. He said:

"The fact of the matter is, since the loss in 1938 — Franklin Roosevelt's second term when the Democrats lost so many seats — there has been a balance of power in the House and Senate which has made it very difficult to pass any new legislation which involves important interests. . . .

"What we are now talking about is whether the United States, now and after the 1962 election, shall have such a balance of power in the congress and in the executive that nothing will be done. That's the simple and clear issue. And those who think that nothing should be done, should regard this as an unimportant election.

"But as long as we have so many issues facing us in so many parts of the world, and our own country — so much unfinished business involving all kinds of issues which go to the well-being of our people — as long as we have a necessity for action as the leader of the free world, I believe we should have the opportunity and not have the kind of balance in the Congress which will mean two—many more years of inertia and inaction. That's why this is an important election. Five, 10 seats one way or another can vitally affect the balance of power in the Congress and vitally affect our future."

THE PRESIDENT denies that he himself is seeking any more power. He says that this idea is "the oldest old political argument" and that people "should know and realize that the power given to the president of the United States, under the Constitution, particularly that of war and peace, is as great a power and in many senses more than man could possibly desire."

The above quotations are taken verbatim from the White House transcript covering Mr. Kennedy's extemporaneous remarks. The topic would seem to have been important enough for embodiment in a prepared address but an impromptu speech often reveals the innermost thoughts of the speaker. In this case, it is evident that the President is concerned about the balance of power against him in Congress and seeks a free hand.

Few presidents have gone as far without law to regulate the economy and social life of the nation of executive orders as has Mr. Kennedy. He realizes that the only check could come from Congress. He has today virtually a two-thirds majority of his party in both houses of Congress. But this, in his opinion, isn't enough.

It is a shaky majority because the non-radicals and non-socialists do frequently break away from party lines.

The mention of "war and peace" and "leader of the free world" in the context of political speech-making is somewhat puzzling. For Republicans and Democrats in Congress, whether or not they are conservatives, have generally supported the president on international policies for many years, irrespective of the party affiliation of the man in the White House.

THE REAL ISSUES are on the domestic side. Mr. Kennedy wants enough non-conservatives elected on the Democratic ticket for Congress in the North to cancel out the power and influence of the conservative Democrats of the South and perhaps even to take away their committee chairmanships if they fail to join the "rubber stamp" contingent and go along with presidential edicts.

Many Republican voters in the North doubtless will be thinking of participating in the Democratic primaries to join with other conservatives to defeat radical and socialistic candidates aspiring for a Democratic party nomination.

Mr. Kennedy seems to have flung a new challenge into the congressional elections of 1962.

Victory In World War II

By Truman Twill

Sometimes I remember when I helped to win World War with a Victory Garden.

I helped win World War I too, but we don't mention that.

Never was there a more meticulous gardener. Everything was just so. What it added up to was an invitation to dogs, cats and kids to make a mess of it. My immaculate seed beds and geometrically perfect layouts were as tempting as fresh concrete.

This was when we lived in town. Our garden was tiny, compared with the space we keep under cultivation in Rosy Fingered Dawn. And the space we have under cultivation now is only 20 per cent of what we started with 12 years ago.

Something happened. It happened to a lot of people before it happened to me. I learned how to get what I want out of gardening without putting into it more time and effort than I can afford.

Except for a few things that require no special preparation, I have given up on seeds. Because I have a pact with the vegetable growers that I will grow no vegetables if they will write no newspaper articles, I no longer pretend to be a truck gardener either.

That narrows it down to flowers. And the flowers have been narrowed down to plants raised commercially by experts. This necessitates an outlay of money, but in terms of results it proves satisfactory because you get what you set out to get, which is more than I ever got from seeds.

If I had assigned a value of as little as 20 cents to the labor I performed as a seed gardener and added to that the complete and partial losses sustained in torrential rains, raids by birds and destruction by dogs, which have a powerful affinity for loose dirt, the total wouldn't be far off the total cost of buying plants.

No seed beds are needed. It is feasible to set out the plants in holes dug in beds that have been cleared of last year's debris, including such noxious weeds as thistles that have come up through the mulch.

We aren't carrying on a mulch gardening project at the Twillery, because that can get to be a fetish in itself, but we are taking advantage of the fact soil stays softer, wetter and cooler when covered with something that keeps it from baking, leaching and eroding in direct sunlight and rainfall.

So what if we don't have the most neatly laid-out flowerbeds, the most beautiful flowers and the most eye-popping assortment? No one anywhere has more to show for time expended.

By holding the temptation of loose dirt to a minimum, the dogs' damage has been made negligible. It maddens people who go berserk over dog damage to realize I am reconciled to it, but that's the way I feel.

Dogs like to dig. All our dogs are diggers except the oldest one; she has given up digging for the twilight years. The other two bury tin cans, bones and dig for the fun of it. But they're less likely to dig if nothing prompts them to think about it. Like loose dirt, for example.

That's the way it is with gardening at the Twillery. It's never going to be any other way. It has been a long time since Victory Gardens and if some o. us were no smarter now than we were then this country would be in even worse shape than our reigning stoopids have put it in.

The At-Home Wedding Reception

Roast Turkey

Place turkey on a rack in a shallow roasting pan and cover with cheesecloth soaked in melted fat. Occasionally moisten cloth with fat during roasting. Roast at 325°F from 4½ hrs. for a 10-lb. turkey to 6 hrs. for a 15-lb. turkey. Test for doneness by moving a drumstick up and down. When the turkey is done, the drumstick will move readily. For easier carving, allow turkey to stand 30 to 40 min.

Hostess Cranberry Sauce

TO PREPARE: 5 MIN.

(allow time for chilling)

- 1 cup jellied cranberry sauce
- 2 tablespoons confectioners' sugar
- ⅔ cup (5-oz. jar) prepared horse-radish
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup chilled whipping cream, whipped

1. Crush cranberry sauce with a fork; blend in sugar, horse-radish, and salt. Chill thoroughly.

2. When ready to serve, fold cranberry mixture into whipped cream. About 3 cups sauce

Imperial Punch

TO PREPARE: 15 MIN.

(allow time for chilling)

- 3 cups orange juice
- 1½ cups unsweetened pineapple juice
- 1½ cups lemon juice
- ½ cup lime juice
- 1½ cups grenadine
- 1 cup sugar
- 6 cups chilled ginger ale
- 2 cups chilled sparkling water

1. Blend the fruit juices, grenadine, and sugar together; stir until sugar is completely dissolved. Chill thoroughly.

2. When ready to serve, pour fruit-juice mixture into a punch bowl. Add the ginger ale and sparkling water; stir gently to blend. Garnish with slices of strawberries and orange.

About 4 qts. punch

Stuffed Eggs Sophisticate

TO PREPARE: 15 MIN.

- 12 hard-cooked eggs
- 1 3-oz. pkg. cream cheese, softened
- ½ cup thick sour cream
- 2 tablespoons melted butter
- ¼ teaspoon Tabasco
- ¾ to 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon dry mustard

1. Cut eggs lengthwise into quarters and remove egg yolks, leaving egg whites intact. Put egg yolks through a sieve. Set aside.

2. Beat cream cheese until fluffy; blend in sour cream, butter, Tabasco, and a mixture of the salt and mustard. Add egg yolks; mix lightly.

3. Fill egg whites by piping the mixture through a pastry bag and tube. Sprinkle with paprika.

4 doz. stuffed egg quarters

Mr., Mrs. Glenn Shelton Home After Wedding Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Edwin Shelton have returned from a honeymoon in Florida and are receiving friends in a newly-furnished apartment on Chester Ave., following their marriage the afternoon of May 5 at 2:30 o'clock at the Trinity United Presbyterian Church.

The bride was Miss Helen (Dollie) Vishak, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Vishak Jr. of the Cannons Mill Rd., and her husband's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Samuel T. Shelton of Cannons Mills.

The Rev. H. Gene Toot, associate minister, officiated for the double-ring ceremony before an altar background of palms, ferns, white flowers and seven - branch candelabra.

Satin bows marked the family pews. Mrs. Jessie Hall Kaufman presented a half-hour of wedding music. Howard Claypool sang "O Perfect Love" and "The Wedding Benediction." Jack and Steve, brothers of the bride, were acolytes.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of crystal peau de soie. The fitted bodice was fashioned with a scalloped Sabrina neckline, trimmed with seed pearls, and long, pointed sleeves. The bouffant skirt was accented with a bustle effect which flowed into a chapel train.

Her fingertip veil of imported silk illusion was attached to a queen's crown of sequins and pearls. She carried a white Bible topped with an arrangement of white orchids, stephanotis and satin streamers. Observing the traditions, she carried the blue-trimmed handkerchief of her grandmother, Mrs. John Vishak, and a sixpence in her shoe.

Mrs. Jeanne Vishak, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a waltz-length dress of blue crystal peau de soie, designed with a cowl neckline, cap sleeves and a self fabric bow accenting the front waist. An overskirt of dacron organza completed the effect. Her matching pillbox held a theater veil. She wore satin shoes, dyed to match, and carried a crescent-shaped arrangement of tinted blue carnations and stephanotis tied with satin streamers.

Bridesmaids were Miss Davee Lou Beadle, Mrs. Bonnie Burdick, sister of the bridegroom, Mrs. Betty Shelton, his sister-in-law, and Miss Grace Kellogg. They wore costumes identical to that of the maid of honor, except in pink. Their bouquets featured pink carnations. Gifts from the bride were single - strand pearl necklaces with matching teardrop earrings.

Mary Kathryn Kormendi of Rice's Landing, Pa., cousin of the bride, and Vicki Pyle were flower girls. They wore white dresses and lace bonnets and carried baskets of flower petals. Steven Shelton, nephew of the bridegroom, was ringbearer.

Denver Shelton served as his brother's best man. Ushers were James Burdick, Jack Thompson, William Wingett and Samuel Heaton. They received wallets from the bridegroom.

MRS. GLENN SHELTON
She Was Helen Vishak.

The mother of the bride chose a sheath of blue brocade with matching shoes and hat and crystal accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a beige lace sheath with pink accessories and shoes. Pink rosebud corsages complemented their attire.

Mrs. Elizabeth Kormendi and Mrs. John Vishak, grandmothers of the bride, wore lilac and Navy ensembles, respectively, with matching accessories and white carnation corsages.

A reception for 150 was held in the social rooms under the supervision of the Amikitia Class. The buffet table was centered with a three-tier cake, topped with a miniature bridal couple and encircled with greenery. White milkglass appointments and pink maline completed the setting. Bridal tapers highlighted the bride's table.

Miss Audrey Springer presided at the guest register and Miss Evelyn Bryson cut the cake. A buffet dinner was served 200 in the evening at the home of the bride's parents.

Out-of-town guests were from Mather, Crucible, Richeyville, Rice's Landing, Midland, New Castle, Canton, Poland, Cleveland, Kensington and Hubbard.

The parents of the bridegroom entertained for the rehearsal party.

For going away, the bride wore a gold-color dress with matching shoes and accessories, with Navy sheath coat and her bridal orchids.

The bride is a 1958 graduate of East Liverpool High School and was graduated from the IBM School of the Penn-Ohio University at Youngstown. She is employed in the office of the Columbiana County Finance Co.

Her husband was graduated from the school in 1953 and works for the Top Value Stamps Co. at Hubbard.

'Travel' Is Theme Of No. 16 School Graduation Program

"Travel" was the theme for the eighth grade dinner and graduation of No. 16 School in Yellow Creek Township Friday night.

The Rev. Arden Beck, pastor of the Wellsville First Methodist Church, was guest speaker and James Falconer was master of ceremonies. Mrs. Dorothy Price was the accompanist.

The program, comparing education to travel, was: Invocation, the Rev. E. E. Bacon; introduction of class, Sherry Mercer; class history, Delorma Rice; class will, Sue Serafy; class prophecy, Beverly Reight; song, Beautiful Ohio," eighth grade girls; song, "Around the World," class; address, Rev. Beck; presentation of scholastic awards, Thomas Jones, teacher; presentation of class, Mrs. Freda Schubert, principal, and presentation of diplomas, Jack Stewart.

Scholastic honors were won by James Falconer, Sue Serafy, Beverly Reight, Margie Gitchell, Sandy Osgood, Delorma Rice and Sherry Mercer. Honorable mention went to Charles Hall and Shirley Coen. Other members of the class are:

Lynn Clark, Marion Cramer, Gary Dean, Donald French, Pat and Phillip Gast, Allen Greathouse, Cathie Hanlon, Robert Hawk, Ernest (Butch) Johnson, Judy Kimble, Stan Miller, Barbara Mouse, Charles Pelley, Barbara Petty, Dennis Putnam, George Stoffel and Kathy Mae Tice.

The dinner was served at 6:30 by seventh grade mothers to graduates, their parents, seventh graders and school personnel. Guests were J. L. McBride, county superintendent, and wife; Mr. and Mrs. Lorin Ruff, Jack Baker, executive head of the Southern Local School District, Jack Stewart and Charles Allison, board members, and wives. Some 140 were served. Miniature space capsules with diplomas were favors.

Bible Literary Club Has Vocal, Slides Program

Vocal selections and color slides formed the program for the spring luncheon meeting of the Bible Literary Club Wednesday afternoon in the social rooms of the Trinity United Presbyterian Church. About 39 attended.

Mrs. Alice Ann McDevitt sang "The Sweeter the Year," "Oh Heart of Mine" and "Far Away Places." Mrs. L. Dan Richards was accompanist.

Miss Nell Robinson screened the slides of her recent trip to Hawaii. She reviewed the history, culture, religion, industry and natural beauty. Mrs. H. E. Taylor was program chairman.

Mrs. Albert Millward, president, extended the welcome using the poem "The Best Things are Nearest" (Stevenson). Mrs. Nessie Dunlop, president of the City Federation of Women's Clubs, a guest, spoke.

An invitation was read from the East Liverpool Garden Club to the spring tea and flower show June 6 at the Potters Savings & Loan Co. annex. The group voted to cancel the June picnic.

Mrs. H. T. Williamson, program chairman, distributed the new program booklets. The study books are "The Story of Religion" (Potter) and "How to Believe" (Sockman).

The club colors of green and white were used in table decorations which consisted of flowers and lighted tapers. Favors were booklets featuring the words of the Bible, hope, life, silver and gold.

Miss Ann Allison of Broadview Circle is hostess for the opening fall meeting Sept. 19. Mrs. C. R. Boyce and Mrs. A. J. Neiser are co-hostesses.

A Tribute To Armed Forces Day!

The Army, the Navy, the Air Force, the Marines, the generals, the admirals, the sergeants, the doughboys . . . God bless them all on this day set aside to pay homage to our men in uniform! Never in the history of our country have our armed forces meant so much to us as they do today; never have they been such a bulwark of strength and inspiration against aggression. We humbly pray for the preservation of every man . . . and woman . . . in Uncle Sam's protective services and cherish the day when their efforts will be directed only in the cause of permanent Peace!
